22 February 2019

Dear Suzy,

In Oral Questions 13 February I offered to write to you about EU programmes which support minority languages within a range of countries, and consequences of Brexit on our engagement and involvement with these programmes and the impact on particular communities in Wales.

The Welsh government's position in respect of EU programmes and the Welsh language is set out in our response to the National Assembly's Culture, Welsh Language and Communications Committee report on 'Brexit, the arts sector, creative industries and the Welsh language'.

In summary, the response outlines our approach in terms of assessing the risk of the impact of Brexit on Welsh speaking communities and on the Welsh language more generally will be to do so on a continuous basis as part of our Cymraeg 2050 strategy programme monitoring.

Yours sincerely,
