Primary and subordinate legislation made by the Fourth Assembly

Introduction

This paper lists the Assembly Acts and associated statutory instruments made by the Fourth Assembly (2011-16). It lists the Acts in the order in which they received Royal Assent, outlines which provisions of each Act are in force and lists any statutory instruments made using powers under each Act, up to 12 May 2016.

Background

Since 2011 the National Assembly for Wales has had full law making powers following the referendum, in March 2011, which triggered a move to Part 4 of the Government of Wales Act 2006. Primary laws passed by the Assembly are called Assembly Bills (and Assembly Acts once they have received Royal Assent). In the Third Assembly (2007-11) primary laws were called Measures. Most of these primary laws confer powers on Welsh Ministers to make subordinate legislation in a number of devolved areas.

Subordinate legislation is legislation that is made by a person or body under powers conferred by primary legislation such as an Act of the UK Parliament or an Assembly Act. Subordinate legislation supplements Assembly Measures, Assembly Acts and Acts of the UK Parliament. It usually takes the form of Statutory Instruments and can encompass codes of practice, reports, orders, regulations, rules, schemes or guidance. A Welsh Statutory Instrument is a type of subordinate legislation which applies specifically to Wales and which is made under the authority contained either in Acts of the UK Parliament relevant to Wales or in Assembly Measures and Acts.

Since the Assembly gained the power to legislate in all of the twenty one Subjects outlined in Schedule 7 to the Government of Wales Act 2006, a total of twenty eight Assembly Acts have received Royal Assent. Of these, twenty five were introduced by the Welsh Government and two, the Mobile Homes (Wales) Act 2013 and the Nurse Staffing Levels (Wales) Act 2016, were introduced by Assembly Members. The remaining Act, the National Assembly for Wales (Official Languages) Act 2012, was introduced by the Assembly Commission. The majority of these Acts confer powers on the Welsh Ministers. Details about the exercise of those powers in making statutory instruments are included below.

Further information about legislation made in the Fourth Assembly can be found on the National Assembly for Wales website.

The information in this paper is up to date as of 12 May 2016.
