Lesley Griffiths: It is for Local Health Boards to provide high quality and effective neonatal services including appropriate staff levels for the number of cots. The Neonatal Clinical Network for Wales, established in 2010 is driving forward a programme of service improvements across Wales including medical and nurse staffing. A baseline review of capacity and compliance with the All Wales Neonatal Standards has taken place and the Network has put an All Wales action plan in place. LHBs in response have developed local action plans including detailed plans from Aneurin Bevan Health Board which address nursing capacity.
