Answer received for publication on 12 June 2013

The Minister for Economy, Science and Transport (Edwina Hart): In April 2013, I announced that I would consider a fund to support some businesses negatively affected by business rates revaluation between 2015 and 2017. The Business Rates Task and Finish Group have advised that small retailers could be the prioritised group in such a fund. We have sufficient time between now and the possible introduction of such a scheme to achieve maximum effectiveness by targeting this at the right areas, and I offered Members the opportunity to feed their ideas into that process.. I will be carefully considering this proposal for a fund and I will inform Members when I have taken a decision on the way forward.
