

Information for Candidates:

Non-Executive Members
Wales Audit Office

September 2026

Introduction

Thank you for your interest in the role of Non-Executive Member of the Wales Audit Office.

By way of context, the Auditor General for Wales is the independent statutory external auditor of the devolved Welsh public sector.

The Wales Audit Office (WAO) is a corporate body consisting of a nine-member statutory Board which employs staff and provides other resources to the Auditor General, who is also the Board's Chief Executive and Accounting Officer. The Board monitors and advises the Auditor General, regarding the exercise of his functions.

Together, the Auditor General and the Wales Audit Office operate under the umbrella identity of Audit Wales.

The WAO was established as a corporate body under the Public Audit \(Wales\) Act 2013 (the 2013 Act) and commenced its full range of functions on 1 April 2014.

The WAO Board (the Board) comprises nine members, five of whom are non-executives (including the Chair) plus the Auditor General for Wales (the Auditor General) and three employees of the WAO. The Non-Executive Members are appointed by the Welsh Parliament (commonly known as 'the Senedd'). One employee member is nominated by the Auditor General for appointment by the Non-Executive Members and the other two are appointed by the Non-Executive Members following a ballot of WAO staff.

The Senedd is seeking to appoint a Non-Executive Member to the Board, to commence on 16 March 2027.

If you have any queries relating to the role, the recruitment process or need advice on how best to present your background, skills and experience in your application please contact: Gareth Price, Clerk to the Finance Committee, Gareth.Price@senedd.wales.

Auditor General for Wales

The Auditor General is a statutory office holder responsible for a range of audit functions including the audit of the accounts of most public bodies in Wales. They also have the power to undertake value for money examinations. The Auditor General is independent of the Welsh Government and other audited bodies and has discretion as to how the functions of that office are exercised. The Auditor General is currently responsible for auditing around £30 billion of public expenditure in Wales.

The Wales Audit Office

On 1 April 2014, responsibility for employing staff, holding property and securing services transferred from the Auditor General to the WAO. The organisation employs around 300 staff and the Auditor General is its Chief Executive and Accounting Officer. The Five Year Strategy sets out Audit Wales's purpose, vision and focus for 2022-2027. Information about the culture and working for Audit Wales is available on the Audit Wales website.

Responsibilities of the Board

Jointly with the Auditor General, the Board is responsible for:

- preparing an annual plan and reporting on progress in delivering it;
- preparing an annual estimate of income and expenses and a scheme for charging fees; and
- preparing and reviewing a code of practice to deal with the relationship between the WAO and the Auditor General.

The Board has oversight and governance responsibility in relation to the WAO and specific statutory functions, including:

- monitoring and advising the Auditor General on the exercise of their functions. However, ultimate responsibility for the exercise of those functions, including the Auditor General's work programme and resource requirement, rests with the Auditor General alone;
- providing resources for the exercise of the Auditor General's functions, such as by employing staff and procuring contractors' services;
- preparing, reviewing and revising a scheme for charging fees, and laying it (and any revision) before the Senedd;

- considering whether to recommend to the Senedd a person/firm to audit the WAO's accounts;
- advising the Auditor General on the preparation or revision of a scheme for the delegation of the exercise of their functions;
- arranging for services or assistance to be provided by the Auditor General (following consultation with the Auditor General) and by the WAO.

The Board may delegate its functions to any of its members, committees, employees or service providers, except its functions of preparing the estimate, annual plan, annual and interim reports, making its procedural rules, recommending an external auditor and designating a person to temporarily exercise the functions of the Auditor General.

The Board has a duty to carry out the functions of the WAO efficiently and cost-effectively.

The Board currently holds six meetings in each financial year, which are held in person over two days to cover both strategic and business matters. Meetings are scheduled to coincide with key dates in the WAO's business cycle. In addition, it holds an annual in-person Development Day which is held jointly with the Executive Leadership Team. From time-to-time further sessions for Board training or dealing with urgent business may be arranged.

The Board has established two committees: the Audit and Risk Assurance Committee and the Remuneration and HR Committee, both of which meet four times a year. Committee meetings are currently held virtually but this may be reviewed. Non-executive Members are appointed across these committees.

A Non-Executive Member's perspective

Having retired in 2022 after 36 years in the public sector, I was delighted and honoured to join the Board of the Wales Audit Office. What attracted me to the role was the opportunity to use my experience in a different way, supporting an organisation whose work matters to people and public services across Wales. Throughout my career, I have been committed to public service improvement and innovation, with senior strategic and operational experience across the Welsh public sector, particularly in health and local government.

Before joining the Board, I had worked closely with colleagues from Audit Wales over many years and had always been impressed by the organisation's insight, professionalism and commitment to supporting better public services. That experience gave me a strong appreciation of the important role Audit Wales plays in helping public bodies work well and deliver for people in Wales.

I have found the role both rewarding and interesting. It has allowed me to bring my experience of senior leadership, collaboration and partnership working to Board discussions, alongside a practical understanding of the challenges facing public bodies in Wales. It is a role where different perspectives are valued, and where constructive challenge, careful listening and sound judgement can make a real difference.

If you are considering applying, I would strongly encourage you to do so. You do not need to be an auditor to make a valuable contribution. The Board benefits from people who can think strategically, ask constructive questions, work collaboratively and bring different experiences and perspectives to the discussion. Audit Wales is an organisation with committed people at its heart, and the role offers a rewarding opportunity to support work that matters to people and public services across Wales.
