Dear Russell,

Thank you for your recent Written Question asking me to provide a breakdown of funding provided for the cancer and diagnostic workforce to address growing demand.

The Welsh Government is investing record levels in healthcare professional education for NHS Wales - £227m of funding – with more training places available than ever before. This funding has supported a significant increase in the number of radiology training posts and last year the Welsh Government agreed additional training posts for oncology and related specialities.

More than £248m has already been invested through the recovery fund to help NHS Wales organisations tackle waiting times and transform the way they deliver services.

The Welsh Government does not hold a breakdown of funding information by staff group or speciality.

I hope you find this response helpful.

Yours sincerely
