Answer received for publication on 20 May 2011

The First Minister (Carwyn Jones): The Minister for Local Government and Communities will consider the full range of issues associated with delivering our Manifesto commitment to enhance community safety. This will include the identification of the necessary funding from within the portfolio resources available taking account of existing priorities and pressures. Our Manifesto commitments include the employment of additional Police Community Support Officers in Wales; as well as seeking to establish a Wales Business Crime Unit to tackle business crime; supporting action to deal with the increasing problem of crime and vandalism within the public transport network; and supporting the extension of 'no cold calling zones' to protect people from doorstep crime.
