PART 1 – EXPLANATORY MEMORANDUM

1. Description

1.1. The Elections and Elected Bodies (Wales) Bill (the Bill) provides for automatic registration of voters subject to successful piloting and strengthening of electoral administration by establishing an Electoral Management Board. It will also take forward reforms to the processes for conducting community and electoral reviews and abolishes the Independent Remuneration Panel for Wales (the Panel), conferring the majority of the functions previously undertaken by the Panel on the Local Democracy and Boundary Commission for Wales (the Commission). The Bill will enable us to enhance the accessibility of devolved elections for disabled voters and improve candidate safety by modernising and improving the offence of undue influence.

1.2. The Bill, in summary, proposes:

- To confer the functions of an Electoral Management Board for Wales on the Commission which will involve the Commission establishing the Board to take responsibility for oversight of the coordination and administration of devolved elections, collaboration with Returning Officers, and Electoral Registration Officers and advising Welsh Ministers on issues related to the democratic health of the nation.
- The introduction of electoral registration without application, and the ability to pilot the most appropriate means of achieving this.
- The creation of a duty placed upon the Welsh Ministers to put in place arrangements aimed at improving diversity within Senedd and local government democratic structures, and for individual schemes to be created and tailored to provide support for protected characteristics.
- Removing the requirement to set out the specific wording and format of the local government candidate survey in regulations.
- Creating a requirement for a voter information platform that can host candidate and voter information for Senedd and ordinary principal council elections.
- Holding candidates and agents accountable for notional expenditure only where they direct it, allowing authorised persons to make payments not via an election agent, and restricting who can operate as a third-party campaigner in devolved elections. To support these campaign finance changes, the bill also proposes enabling the Electoral Commission to include them in their codes of practice.

- Adjustments to the role and remit of the Local Democracy and Boundary Commission for Wales (the Commission), including changes to the name and function of its audit committee, significant strengthening of electoral review arrangements, and the conferring of functions on the Commission to undertake the majority of the functions currently undertaken by the Panel. The Commission will also be responsible for determining the amount of any resettlement payment payable by a principal council to councillors, who fail to be re-elected to the council at a local council election.
- The disqualification of town and community councillors in Wales from serving as Members of the Senedd and the removal of the existing “grace period” for principal councillors elected to the Senedd and Members of the Senedd elected as Members of Parliament.

2. Legislative Competence

- 2.1. Senedd Cymru ("the Senedd") has the legislative competence to make the provisions in the Elections and Elected Bodies (Wales) Bill ("the Bill") pursuant to Part 4 of the Government of Wales Act 2006 ("GoWA 2006") as amended by the Wales Act 2017.

3. Purpose and intended effect of the provisions.

Context

- 3.1. The Senedd's legislative competence in relation to Senedd elections and Welsh local government elections was extended through the Wales Act 2017 ("the 2017 Act"). Since then, several pieces of legislation have been introduced by the Senedd to reform the conduct of elections in Wales, most notably the Senedd and Elections (Wales) Act 2020 and the Local Government and Elections (Wales) Act 2021 which reduced the voting age to 16 and enfranchised qualifying foreign citizens.
- 3.2. Electoral law is archaic and complex and does not provide for an electoral system fit for the 21st century. This Bill aims to address those issues and bring forward our ambition to enable every citizen to play their full part in our democratic system and lay the foundations for future innovation and improvement.
- 3.3. Encouraging people to register on the electoral roll and to subsequently vote is incredibly important to us, but so is making democratic processes as straightforward as possible for the elector. This Bill will place a duty on Electoral Registration Officers (EROs) to automatically register electors for the local government register. This will mean that citizens won't have to apply to register to vote in either Senedd or local elections and will be on the electoral roll to receive information about forthcoming elections. To do this we are working with local authorities and key electoral stakeholders to develop automatic registration pilot schemes.
- 3.4. Democratic institutions should reflect the communities they serve. We recognise the challenges faced by people in underrepresented groups. This Bill places a statutory duty upon the Welsh Ministers to put in place arrangements aimed at improving diversity within Senedd and local government democratic structures alongside providing support to enable those with protected characteristics to participate.
- 3.5. All voters should be able to feel confident in participating in elections. To support disabled voters in particular, this Bill places a duty on Returning Officers to consider the needs of their voters and make appropriate accessibility arrangements for them to vote, taking account of Electoral Commission guidance. To help voters make informed choices, this Bill provides for a Voter Information Platform to collect and share information about devolved elections and candidates in an easily accessible way.
- 3.6. Following the completion of the ten-year review programme of principal council electoral arrangements by the Commission, improvements to the review process have been identified. This Bill provides a package of measures which will provide a significant strengthening of the arrangements for delivering effective and convenient government.

- 3.7. To strengthen electoral administration, we will build on existing good voluntary work in the sector to coordinate electoral administration through a new Electoral Management Board. This will put the good relations between Returning Officers (ROs), EROs and other persons responsible for the administration of elections in Wales on a more solid footing. The establishment of an Electoral Management Board in Wales as set out in this Bill has the potential to provide ROs and EROs with a considerable amount of the support they will need to manage the divergence between reserved and devolved elections.
- 3.8. Devolved elections take place alongside elections where Westminster have responsibility – for the House of Commons and Police and Crime Commissioners. The Elections Act 2022 made some changes to those elections, including in the area of campaign finance. To support our principle for electoral reform of simplicity, the Bill includes provisions that will reduce complexity for campaigners and administrators. These relate to notional expenditure, persons authorised to make payments, and third parties' eligibility to participate in devolved elections, and the Electoral Commission will be able to include these changes in their codes of practice.
- 3.9. In developing this Bill, we have been mindful of the need to implement reforms in good time ahead of the next scheduled Senedd and local government elections due to take place in 2026 and 2027 respectively, while also respecting the Gould convention that recommends a minimum of six months between legislation being made before start of any election the legislation affects. We will work with the electoral community, so that they have sufficient time to plan for implementation before changes come into effect.

Background to the Bill

- 3.10. As detailed in Chapter 4, the Welsh Government has considered and consulted on the options for electoral administration and reform in a series of consultation documents and through a programme of continuous stakeholder engagement.
- 3.11. The White Paper 'Electoral Administration and Reform' was consulted upon from October 2022 to January 2023, which sought views on the proposals set out in the Bill. The results of the consultation and engagement showed broad support for the proposals set out in the Bill. A full summary of the consultation responses was published in March 2023.

- 3.12. The extensive engagement with stakeholders across the proposed areas, particularly with electoral service managers, both directly and through events and working groups is reflected in the way the Bill has been informed and shaped.
- 3.13. The following pages describe the purpose of the legislation set out in the Bill and its intended effect.

Part 1: Electoral Administration and Registration

Chapter 1: Electoral Management Board

- 3.14. There is currently no statutory body responsible for the strategic co-ordination of electoral administration in Wales. This role is currently undertaken by the Wales Electoral Co-ordination Board (WECB), a voluntary group with no statutory powers, currently supported by the Electoral Commission.
- 3.15. The WECB was set up as a result of an Electoral Commission report on the National Assembly for Wales elections in 2016. It co-ordinates the planning of all-Wales electoral events and collaboration between Returning Officers (ROs), Electoral Registration Officers (EROs) and key partners in Wales. The WECB does not receive Welsh Government funding and ROs are not mandated to participate in discussions or take account of the WECB's recommendations.
- 3.16. The increasing divergence of legislation applicable to reserved and Welsh elections, as well as innovations resulting from Welsh Government's ongoing programme of electoral reform, adds further complexity to the existing electoral co-ordination role. This is likely to result in increased pressure for ROs and EROs and demonstrates a need for intervention. The WECB in its current form is unlikely to have the capacity to meet this demand and it is considered necessary to establish an Electoral Management Board (EMB) in time for the next set of scheduled elections in Wales to help administrators, and elections, operate more efficiently.
- 3.17. The intention within this Bill is to establish an EMB with statutory functions to develop the voluntary work of WECB. The EMB will promote best practice in electoral administration and support the electoral community in Wales in the discharge of its functions in respect to Welsh elections. It is not, however, proposed to give the EMB the power to exercise the existing functions of ROs or EROs.

- 3.18. The role of the EMB will involve the coordination of Welsh elections and associated electoral activity, including the delivery of modernisation and reform in electoral administration in Wales. The EMB will also promote best practice, to include providing information, advice, or training. The EMB will provide information, advice, or other assistance to the Welsh Ministers in line with its functions.
- 3.19. The EMB will have the power to:
- issue directions to ROs and EROs with a duty to comply (not replacing their own personal responsibility to discharge their functions or duties),
 - provide advice to ROs and EROs in respect of their functions, similar to section 10(3) of the Political Parties, Elections and Referendums Act 2000 (PPERA) in respect of the Electoral Commission's power to issue advice, again with a duty on ROs and EROs to have regard to the advice.
- 3.20. Initial options considered for establishing an elections body in Wales were for either a new public body, or a statutory committee (without legal personality or ability to enter into contracts) hosted by another body, similar to the Scottish EMB model. Each model had drawbacks – a public body would have greater overhead costs, and the second option had limitations in terms of ability to enter into contracts and sustainability of provision.
- 3.21. The Bill provides for the functions of the EMB to be conferred on the Local Democracy and Boundary Commission for Wales (the Commission), giving the benefits of a public body without creating significant new overhead costs. The Commission will be renamed the Democracy and Boundary Commission Cymru as part of the Senedd Cymru (Members and Elections) Bill. The Commission's current aims and functions align well with the proposed functions of the EMB. It is a well-established public body independent of government with established stakeholder relationships. Commissioners are appointed through a rigorous public appointments process. It already carries out reviews of the electoral arrangements for the 22 local authorities in Wales and makes recommendations which it considers to be in the interest of effective and convenient local government.
- 3.22. Under the Bill, the Commission will be required to establish a committee to discharge the functions relating to Welsh elections and referendums. Mindful of the limited capacity of serving ROs to take on the additional responsibility as chair of the EMB, the Commission will nominate one of its commissioners to act as Chair of the EMB. Further membership will consist of ROs and EROs, one of which will be appointed by the EMB as Deputy Chair. The EMB's role will be complementary to the work of the Electoral Commission and will not replace any of the existing functions of the Electoral Commission.

Chapter 2: Electoral Registration without Application

- 3.23. In order to vote in elections or referendums, an eligible person needs to be on the electoral register. Section 9 of the Representation of the People Act 1983 (the RPA 1983), as amended by the Representation of the People Act 2000 (the RPA 2000), states that:
- “Each registration officer shall maintain -*
- (a) a register of parliamentary electors for each constituency or part of a constituency in the area for which he acts; and*
- (b) a register of local government electors for the local government areas or parts of local government areas included in the area for which he acts”.*
- 3.24. The electoral register is a list of the names and addresses of everyone who is eligible and registered to vote (or soon to become entitled to vote) and is held and maintained by the ERO for each principal council.
- 3.25. EROs have a duty to compile the electoral register and ensure that it is as up to date as possible. The ERO will send an Invitation to Register (ITR) to any individual they become aware of who is not registered. There is a legal requirement to respond and ITRs will be sent to anyone responding to the canvass who is not registered.
- 3.26. In 2014, the UK Government moved from a system of household registration, where the head of the household completed the registration forms on behalf of all members of each household, to a system of individual electoral registration (IER). IER requires an individual when registering to provide their National Insurance number and date of birth in addition to their name and address. National Insurance numbers are used for data matching verification with Department for Work and Pensions’ records and are then disposed of by the ERO. IER can be completed online through the UK Government’s digital system. The rolling registration process enables individuals to register or update their details at any time of the year by informing the ERO.
- 3.27. There are two versions of the electoral register:
- The full register (also known as the closed register) is updated monthly and published once a year for specific authorities for specific uses. It is used by EROs and ROs for purposes related to elections and referendums.

- The edited register, also called the open register, largely contains the same information as the full register but is not used for elections or referendums. It is updated and published every month and can be sold to any person, organisation, or company for a wide range of purposes. Users of the register include businesses and charities for checking names and address details, direct marketing firms and online directory firms. Individuals can choose whether to have their details included in the open register.

Improving registration

- 3.28. Local authorities undertake an annual canvass exercise, which was reformed in 2019 to make the process more streamlined and straightforward. Currently electors receive an ITR and are routed down one of three processes for registering to vote, while this process has proved efficient in communicating with electors, it is not always effective.
- 3.29. The current system does not reach all electors and while EROs take all steps to ensure the accuracy and completeness of the register there are still a number of eligible electors that are not registered. In 2022, the Electoral Commission reported 2,362,964 eligible electors on the local government register in Wales.¹ While this number showed an increase in electors registering, around 260,000 eligible electors had not registered to vote which is around 9.9% of those eligible.²
- 3.30. The policy intention in this Bill is to make it easier for individuals to be included on the electoral register by promoting data-sharing and removing the requirement for individuals to verify their data by IER where automatic registration and data matching has taken place.
- 3.31. The Local Government and Elections (Wales) Act 2021 made some provision to allow the ERO to register electors for the local government register without application if the registration officer was satisfied that a person not in the register of local government electors was entitled to be registered. This meant that if an ERO wanted they could use data held by the local authority to add a person to the local government register and where required to inform them of this in writing if they had done so. Those provisions were not commenced and have since been reviewed with the aim of ensuring consistency of approach across Wales and the security of electors that may be vulnerable.

- 3.32. We are therefore proposing new provisions in this Bill that will require all EROs to automatically register electors for the local government register and issue a Notice of Registration to each eligible elector. The elector will then have a fixed period of time in which to respond to the notice if they believe they are eligible to be anonymously registered. Once the fixed period has passed then unless the elector has paused the notice period by making an application for anonymous registration or notified the ERO in writing that they do not wish to be automatically registered, the elector will then be added to the local government register.
- 3.33. Because this process will be automatic, and to add additional safeguards for young and vulnerable electors, we will be removing the open electoral register in Wales for Welsh elections. This means that the registered elector will only appear on the closed local government electoral register, which has a very limited circulation. While organisations will still be able to access this register, they will only be able to do so if they have a legal right to the information held on the closed electoral register.
- 3.34. The automatic registration process will only apply to the local government register in Wales. Those eligible to be on the Parliamentary register will still have to take part in the IER process either through the annual canvass or through making a direct application to be on the electoral register.
- 3.35. Given that automatic registration will need to sit side by side with IER we have committed to piloting the most effective way of automatically registering electors for the local government register in Wales. Therefore, this Bill makes provision for the necessary powers to allow these pilots to happen.
- 3.36. The Government's intention is that pilots of automatic registration in Wales will take place following Royal Assent of this Bill and the successful model of automatic registration will be rolled out across Wales using the required secondary legislative powers included in this Bill. The pilots programme will be subject to co-production between the Welsh Government, local authorities, and other electoral stakeholders. The Electoral Commission will conduct an evaluation of the pilot schemes following their delivery.

Chapter 3: Welsh Elections Piloting and Reform

- 3.37. At the moment the RPA 2000 includes provision for the holding of electoral pilots in England and Wales. Section 10 provides that a relevant local authority can submit proposals to the Secretary of State for a pilot scheme that makes provision about one, or all, of the following matters:
- i. when, where and how voting at the election is to take place;

- ii. how the votes cast at the elections are to be counted;
 - iii. the sending by candidates of election communications free of charge for postage.
- 3.38. Piloting powers are also contained in the Electoral Administration Act 2006 (the 2006 Act) and the Electoral Registration and Administration Act 2013 (the ERAA 2013).
- 3.39. In accordance with section 32 of the 2006 Act, the Secretary of State may undertake a pilot allowing ballot papers to contain photographs of candidates. The powers in the ERAA 2013 are explicitly concerned with the testing, for a specified period and in relation to a specified area, of how the changes made by any registration provision work in practice. These powers, under sections 9 to 11 of the ERAA 2013, were used to pilot the canvass reform proposals before their full roll out in 2019.
- 3.40. The piloting powers set out above were transferred to Welsh Ministers in relation to Welsh elections by the Welsh Ministers (Transfer of Functions) Order 2018.
- 3.41. The purpose of electoral pilots was intended to trial various electoral reforms on a manageable scale to assess their impact on increasing voter turnout and modernising the voting system. Since the coming in to force of RPA 2000 a number of electoral reform pilots have taken place in England. These pilots were designed to test changes in when, where and how voting at local government elections take place, how votes cast were counted, and the sending of free postal communications by candidates.
- 3.42. In Wales, before 2022 only one all postal ballot pilot had taken place. However, in 2022 a pilot programme focused on early and flexible voting was undertaken and saw four pilots take place for the local government elections. These involved advanced voting in Blaenau Gwent, Bridgend, Caerphilly, and Torfaen, with all four offering a central advance voting location.
- 3.43. The 2022 pilots were designed with the aim of ensuring that elections were as accessible as possible and that everyone wanting to vote could vote. It was stated from the beginning of the programme that the learning from the pilots would inform longer term improvements to the way people vote and help reduce the democratic deficit.
- 3.44. In their evaluation³, the Electoral Commission reflected that the pilots were well run and that no issue arose because these innovative pilots had been undertaken. The electronic registers that were trialled worked well and enabled administrators to deliver multiple venue polling stations simultaneously and safely. While the pilots did not increase turnout dramatically, they demonstrated that flexible and more convenient ways of voting can be provided securely and with voters' confidence.

- 3.45. The Electoral Commission also noted that proposed changes to voting processes should be designed to deliver a likely benefit to voters, maintain the security and integrity of the system and be realistically deliverable by electoral administrators.

New piloting powers

- 3.46. This Bill contains new piloting powers for electoral innovations at Welsh elections (Senedd or local elections). These new powers will allow Welsh Ministers, local authorities and registration officers to propose electoral pilots across different areas including, but not limited to: how people eligible to vote in a Welsh election are registered; when, where and how voting at a Welsh election will take place; when, where and how the votes cast are counted; communication with voters about the elections; and administrative processes and procedures before or after polling day.
- 3.47. For the first time these powers will allow pilots to take place at both Senedd and local government elections and will also apply to local government by-elections. This will provide a number of opportunities to trial different pilots in different scenarios with the aim of providing the best possible evidence base for understanding the impact of the piloted activity.
- 3.48. These powers will allow Welsh Ministers, local authorities, and registration officers to make proposals for pilots. They will be required to submit any proposal to the EMB for consideration. The EMB will be required to report on the proposed pilots, setting out their views and recommendations in relation to the feasibility and proposed outcomes. Although the recommendations of the EMB should be considered before making the necessary legislative provision for a pilot, the EMB will not have the power to veto pilot proposals, only to make recommendations.
- 3.49. The provisions in the Bill will also allow for joint proposals of pilots to be put forward. The Electoral Commission will be able to make recommendations for pilots but will not be able to make stand-alone proposals under these provisions. They will, however, still be able to make a joint proposal with a local authority to pilot activity. This will maintain their integral role in evaluating pilots as an independent body.
- 3.50. Once the piloting activity has been completed, and if the evaluation process recommends a permanent change, the activity can be rolled out using legislation subject to the affirmative procedure in the Senedd. This will provide opportunity for further scrutiny of the proposals. In some circumstances, these regulations will be subject to an enhanced affirmative procedure providing for additional scrutiny where the nature of the change is legally more significant.

Welsh Ministers' power to compel pilots.

- 3.51. The current arrangements allow pilots only where a local authority initiates the proposal formally. A reflection of the 2022 pilots was that they were not held in a geographically diverse set of local authority areas. These provisions will allow Welsh Ministers to compel pilots where they believe this is necessary. This means that Welsh Ministers could direct local authorities to undertake pilots, helping to ensure suitable types of innovations could be piloted in a varied mix of local authority areas. This could provide valuable evidence to inform future electoral reform. In these circumstances the Welsh Ministers will be required to consult the EMB and set out the reasons for compelling the pilot before taking forward the necessary legislation.

Chapter 4: Accessibility and Diversity

Assistance for disabled voters

- 3.52. As it currently stands, electoral law in Wales is open to challenge in respect of disabled voters having the means to vote independently and in secret, without assistance from a presiding officer or companion. To improve the democratic participation of disabled people, provision will be made within this Bill to bring accessibility rules for elections in Wales in line with UK legislation. The reforms proposed further embed Welsh Government's 'accessibility' principle of electoral reform in electoral legislation and makes further steps to ensure disabled people are able to vote independently and secretly.

Elections Act 2022

- 3.53. For UK Parliamentary elections prior to the Elections Act 2022 (the 2022 Act), Schedule 1 of the RPA 1983 provided that ROs had to provide to polling stations "a device of such description as may be prescribed (in regulations) for enabling voters who are blind or partially sighted to vote without any need for assistance from the presiding officer or any companion". Regulation 12 of the Representation of the People (England and Wales) Regulations 2001 contains provisions describing the Tactile Voting Device (TVD). Similar provision is provided for in the National Assembly for Wales (Representation of the People) Order 2007.
- 3.54. The 2022 Act has recently gone further for Parliamentary elections by amending the Parliamentary election rules contained within Schedule 1 to the RPA 1983. The 2022 Act has created a new, broader requirement intended to expand upon the narrow TVD requirement. It makes requirements for the provision of such equipment as it is reasonable to provide for the purposes of enabling, or making it easier for, voters with disabilities – including (but not limited to) those who have sight loss - to vote independently in the manner directed by rule 37 of the Schedule, which includes the procedure to mark the ballot paper secretly.

- 3.55. There is also now a requirement on the Electoral Commission to give guidance to support ROs in carrying out the new, broader requirement to provide assistive equipment. Subsequently, there is a duty on returning officers to have regard to that guidance. The 2022 Act also implements measures requiring the Electoral Commission to report on the steps taken by ROs at elections to assist disabled persons in line with the new requirements.

Legislative changes for Welsh Elections

- 3.56. The Bill makes provision for an additional duty to be placed upon the Electoral Commission with respect to reporting on the steps taken by ROs at elections to assist disabled persons at Senedd and local government elections in Wales. This will be achieved by way of amendment to the Political Parties, Elections and Referendums Act 2000, amending the existing requirements on the Electoral Commission to prepare and publish a report on the administration of particular elections. The Bill also makes provision extending the Electoral Commission's reporting duty to ordinary elections for counties, county boroughs and communities.
- 3.57. The Government intends to bring forward, through secondary legislation, amendments to the existing framework of election rules in Wales set out in secondary legislation to reflect a new broader requirement to provide such equipment as is reasonable for the purposes of enabling, or making it easier for, disabled people to vote independently and subject to the identified needs of disabled voters. There will also be provision in secondary legislation for the Electoral Commission to issue guidance setting out how ROs should fulfil that duty. Similarly, requirements will be placed on ROs to have due regard to relevant guidance in the election rules for Welsh elections in Wales. Amendments to the existing framework will also include bringing the Senedd election rules in line with local government election rules with regards to the criteria of a companion.
- 3.58. The Bill provides a definition of disability for the purposes of the section of the Bill as set out in the RPA 1983 (which includes the Equality Act definition as well as short-term inability to do something).

- 3.59. The proposed changes take account of the need for a consistent definition of disabled people across the various duties applying to ROs in primary and secondary legislation.
- 3.60. This approach is consistent with the responses to the White Paper consultation on proposals for electoral reform to modernise electoral administration in Wales, with several respondents agreeing that a duty should be placed on the Electoral Commission to provide guidance, similar to the UK Government approach with regard to reserved elections.

Candidate Survey

- 3.61. Promoting and supporting diversity amongst local elected members remains a Welsh Government priority. To achieve this, a robust time series of data is important in tracking diversity changes over time.
- 3.62. Since 2011, local authorities have been legally required to monitor the equality and diversity of candidates seeking election to principal and town community councils. The requirement is set out in section 1 of the Local Government (Wales) Measure 2011 (the 2011 Measure).
- 3.63. The questions and form of the survey are prescribed in the Local Election Survey (Wales) Regulations 2012. These were made by Welsh Ministers exercising the powers conferred upon them by sections 1(3)(a), 1(3)(b), 2 (2), and 175 of the 2011 Measure. In particular, section 175 provides the interpretation of the term 'prescribed' to mean prescribed in regulations made by the Welsh Ministers.
- 3.64. These regulations were amended by the Local Election Survey (Wales) (Amendment) Regulations 2016 and more recently The Local Election Survey (Wales) (Amendment) Regulations 2022.
- 3.65. Questions may be asked about gender, sexual orientation, language, race, age, disability, religion or belief, health, education or qualifications, employment, and work as a councillor, party affiliation, involvement with the third sector and length of political activity. Individuals can complete the survey in advance of the election, while they are still candidates, or alternatively, following the election regardless of the outcome. Participation is optional and response rates are lower than we would like.
- 3.66. The purpose of the survey is to understand the characteristics of the broad pool of people actively engaged in seeking election as councillors; and to understand how the profile of this group changes over time. The information collected from the surveys enables the Welsh Ministers to understand the impact of policies aimed at widening participation in local government and to support future policy development.

- 3.67. This is an important survey, but often it competes for attention with other surveys from local authorities and the Electoral Commission, which taken together can be a source of survey fatigue.
- 3.68. Section 26 of this Bill removes the requirement to set out the specific wording and format of the survey in regulations. This will make it easier to change aspects of it as diversity and equality policies develop. In future, the wording of the survey will be reviewed by a group of key partners, including local government, representatives of equality groups and other interested parties. As a result, the group will make recommendations to the Welsh Ministers about proposed changes and improvements.
- 3.69. The survey will include a core set of questions that will apply to participants in all parts of Wales. This provides for consistency across Wales and allows comparisons to be made across the full set of surveys conducted since the introduction of the surveys in 2012. There will also be provision for local authorities to add questions aimed at providing information about local initiatives.
- 3.70. This approach provides for consistency across Wales, continuity of the time series of the data set, and also enables local flexibility.

Voter Information Platform

- 3.71. One of the key findings from the Welsh Government commissioned research⁴ published in 2020 stated that “a lack of knowledge, finding politics confusing and unappealing and general disillusionment were key engagement barriers”. This lack of knowledge is not exclusive to elections but to politics more generally with participants in the research expressing confusion about the differences between the levels of government and who is responsible for the delivery of services.
- 3.72. There are currently a range of organisations providing information to voters. This includes the Electoral Commission, which has a duty to promote public awareness of the electoral system,⁵ and local authorities, where ROs and EROs fulfil their responsibilities to provide voters with information about when an election is taking place and how and where voters can cast their ballots, and how to register to vote.
- 3.73. There is an opportunity to support ROs and EROs to keep voters informed across the country with greater consistency in how and when information is provided to voters. Voters would also be helped to find relevant information about the electoral process in one place. An online platform would helpfully provide a single point of entry that could host and/or signpost the visitor to electoral communications partner websites.

- 3.74. In response to a gap in provision of information, some digital solutions have been developed by not-for-profit organisations to provide citizens with information to make participation easier. Organisations like TheDemocracyClub.org.uk and MySociety.org provide tools to allow citizens to easily identify how they can engage with representatives or take part in elections. Digital tools like WhoCanIVoteFor.co.uk, WhereDoIVote.co.uk, TheyWorkForYou.com and WriteToThem.com are regularly cited as examples of best practice in citizen engagement and are promoted by a range of organisations, including Welsh Government and the Electoral Commission. However, these organisations are often resourced by volunteers and do not have secure sources of funding meaning the sustainability of such platforms is at risk.
- 3.75. We have previously consulted on the provision of candidate statements in 'Electoral Reform in Local Government in Wales' (2017). The consultation asked whether respondents agreed that each candidate should be required to provide a personal statement for inclusion on a website provided by the authority to whom they are seeking election. There was strong support for this proposal, both in the main document (84%) and even more so in response to the youth friendly version (89%). A key reason cited in support was that such a move would improve democracy and voters' understanding of what a candidate stood for.
- 3.76. The policy intent is that there will be a duty placed on the Welsh Ministers to put in place arrangements for an online voter information platform. The duty will provide for a website that can host candidate and voter information for Senedd and ordinary principal council elections as a minimum.
- 3.77. Beyond this, the platform would be able to:
- host information that will increase knowledge and understanding of elections as well as provide practical information about the voting process;
 - provide very simple information to explain to electors the powers, roles, and responsibilities at each level of government, encouraging citizens to see the link between things that matter to them and their local and national representatives;
 - provide a single point of entry for voters looking for more information, rather than the myriad of sources that currently exist; and

- make accessing relevant information simpler and more accessible for all voters.

Improving Diversity of Representation in Senedd and Local Government Democratic Structures

3.78. Creating a more equal Wales, where everyone has the opportunity to participate in society, reach their full potential and is able to contribute fully to the economy, will enable Wales to be more prosperous and innovative. The Welsh Government is committed to increasing diversity across all aspects of public life. This includes increasing the diversity amongst candidates standing in Welsh elections by tackling the barriers which prevent individuals with protected characteristics from standing for elected office. The intention is to address such barriers and increase opportunities for underrepresented groups to play a full role in supporting and representing their communities. For example, disabled people are likely to face greater costs when seeking elected office due to their impairments.

Access to Elected Office Fund

- 3.79. A pilot Access to Elected Office fund was established in 2021 to provide additional support to disabled people to seek elected office. The pilot fund supported individuals seeking election in the May 2021 Senedd elections and the May 2022 local government elections. Changes were made to the rules about spending limits for candidates to ensure the funding provided through the pilot did not count towards the candidates' spending limits.
- 3.80. A number of Access to Politics events were hosted to provide awareness about the support available through the fund and the timescales for applications. The pilot fund, which was delivered by Disability Wales and financed by the Welsh Government, paid for practical support to allow disabled people to fully participate in the political process. The pilot had 21 applicants, with six elected to community councils.
- 3.81. An independent evaluation of the arrangements for the Fund has been completed. The evaluation concluded the fund was welcomed and beneficial to those who submitted applications, the support provided to individuals throughout the process was exceptional and that there was support for the fund to be available for future elections. There were some areas which the evaluation highlighted as areas where improvements could be made. The full report can be found at Review of the Access to Elected Office Fund for Wales pilot | GOV.WALES.

3.82. In response to the white paper consultation there was broad support for placing the fund on a legislative footing and section 29 of the Bill requires Welsh Ministers to provide for a scheme of financial assistance (of any specified kind) to help disabled candidates in a Welsh election overcome barriers to their participation in the election connected to their disability. The effect of this provision is intended to provide certainty for disabled candidates and take account of the experience from the pilot fund.

Providing for other protected characteristics

- 3.83. Our Programme for Government includes a commitment to expand our Access to Office Fund to other protected characteristics. A key focus of the disabled protected characteristic group is that there are identifiable and practical ways in which financial assistance can support individuals in a tangible way to put them on a level playing field with non-disabled candidates.
- 3.84. The response to the White Paper consultation and research commissioned by the Welsh Ministers raised concerns about how criteria could be framed to expand the existing fund to other groups.
- 3.85. The mechanism for addressing the identified barriers depends on the nature of those barriers and the needs of the individuals in question. In certain circumstances, it may be possible to tackle those barriers by providing advice and guidance by third parties, for example through training and mentoring schemes. In other cases, such support might involve providing financial assistance to directly support any additional costs a candidate had to incur which were attributable to their needs when standing for election.
- 3.86. On the basis of these concerns the Welsh Ministers conclude the broader policy objective requires a different approach, through the creation of an overarching statutory duty placed upon the Welsh Ministers to put in place arrangements aimed at improving diversity within Senedd and local government democratic structures by providing assistance to remove barriers to participation. Section 28 provides for this approach. The arrangements may take the form of services or financial assistance.
- 3.87. Section 29 provides for individual schemes to be created and tailored to provide support for either a single protected characteristic and / or common barriers across a range of protected characteristics and socio-economic circumstances.
- 3.88. It is important that all of these arrangements are transparent and operate in a politically neutral way. The legislation has safeguards built in so that certain bodies and individuals cannot operate a scheme and the Welsh Ministers cannot make decisions about specific individuals.

Chapter 5: Campaign Finance

3.89. The 2022 Act made some changes to campaign finance rules for UK elections which are reserved to Westminster. In some areas, we believe it is sensible to have consistency with Welsh elections in Wales to reduce complexity for people participating and administering these elections. This is in line with our principle for electoral reform of simplicity. While the Senedd did not consent to the provisions in the 2022 Act applying to Welsh elections, this was on the basis of the Senedd reserving the right to scrutinise legislation relating to Welsh elections.

Notional Expenditure

3.90. The 2022 Act made amendments to the RPA 1983 and PPERA in relation to reserved elections, to clarify the law in relation to notional expenditure, to ensure that benefits in kind, such as property, goods, services or facilities that are supplied to a candidate, party or campaign for free or at a discount, should only qualify as an election expense for the relevant campaign where it is authorised or directed by the campaign. This clarification came as a result of a Supreme Court judgment (R v Mackinlay and others [2018]) that held such notional expenditure was an election expense without the need for authorisation.

3.91. To remove this ambiguity for Welsh elections, the Bill applies the same requirement for notional expenditure to be classified as election expenses only where it is appropriately directed or authorised. To support clarity for participants and administrators, the Bill also amends the Electoral Commission's power to prepare a code of practice on election expenses to ensure that it is sufficiently broad so that they are able to include an explanation of the rules on all forms of expenditure.

Persons able to make payments on behalf of a campaign

3.92. The 2022 Act also made amendments to the RPA 1983 to allow payments to be made on behalf of a campaign by someone other than the election agent – that is, someone authorised by a campaign to make a payment under Section 75 of RPA 1983. If there is a different rule for reserved and Welsh elections on whether only the election agent can make a payment on behalf of a campaign, there may be mistaken breaches of the law. As an example, if a payment was made by a person authorised for one set of elections but not Welsh elections. The Bill allows persons authorised by a candidate or agent to promote them to make a payment, rather than that payment having to be made by the election agent. This is achieved by removing the carve out for local elections in Wales in the new sub-section (5)(ca) of section 73 of RPA 1983 that was inserted by the 2022 Act. The equivalent change for Senedd elections will be made in the revision of the National Assembly for Wales (Representation of the People) Order 2007, where the equivalent provisions are found.

Third Party Campaigners

- 3.93. The 2022 Act introduced some restrictions on the ability of third parties, meaning individuals or organisations that are not registered political parties, to incur controlled expenditure in regulated periods in advance of elections to the House of Commons or to the Northern Ireland Assembly. Broadly speaking, controlled expenditure relates to reportable expense to support specified activity that meets the purpose of influencing voters to vote in a particular way.
- 3.94. The Bill allows only third parties that are eligible to give notification under Section 88(2) of PPERA to incur controlled expenditure in a regulated period before a Senedd election, normally the four months up to and including the day of the election. The provision introduces a penalty fine for any third-party organisations or individuals incurring expenditure in contravention of this.
- 3.95. The Bill also allows Welsh Ministers to make amendments – additions, removals, or variations – to descriptions on the list of eligible third parties, but an order to remove or vary the parties included on that list can only be made on the recommendation of the Electoral Commission. The third parties eligible to give notification under Section 88(2) of PPERA currently include:
- an individual registered on a UK electoral register or resident in the UK
 - a UK registered company which is incorporated in the UK and carries on business in the UK
 - a UK registered trade union
 - a UK registered building society
 - a UK registered limited liability partnership which carries on business in the UK
 - a UK registered friendly, industrial, or provident society
 - an unincorporated association that has its main office in the UK and carries on the majority of its business or other activities in the UK
 - a body incorporated by Royal Charter
 - a UK charitable incorporated organisation
 - a Scottish partnership which carries on business in the UK

- 3.96. The 2022 Act also allowed unincorporated associations with the requisite UK connection to be an eligible third party able to incur controlled expenditure in relation to reserved elections. The Bill does not introduce the same category, as the requisite UK connection relates to overseas electors, which do not feature in Senedd elections.
- 3.97. To help third party campaigners understand these arrangements, the Bill requires the Electoral Commission to produce a code of practice for third parties, in consultation with the Llywydd's Committee and the Senedd's Legislation, Justice and Constitution Committee, or any successor committee. Welsh Ministers are required to lay a draft of any such code of practice before the Senedd.

Part 2: Elected Bodies and Their Members

Chapter 1: Arrangements for Local Government

Electoral arrangements reviews: principal councils

- 3.98. Part 3 of the Local Government (Democracy) (Wales) Act 2013 (the 2013 Act) describes the different types of review of local government areas and their electoral arrangements, who may conduct those reviews and details the procedure which is to be followed in conducting those review. It also prescribes the manner in which any recommendations made as a result of a review are to be implemented.
- 3.99. Section 29(1) of the 2013 Act requires the Commission to undertake a review of each principal area's electoral arrangements at least once in every ten years. The Commission is required to prepare and publish a programme and timetable for conducting those reviews and send a copy of the programme to the Welsh Ministers.
- 3.100. Section 22 of the 2013 Act requires a principal council to monitor the communities in its area and their electoral arrangements. In doing so the council must have regard to the 10-year programme of principal area electoral arrangements reviews published by the Commission and any directions issued to the council by the Welsh Ministers.
- 3.101. The 2017 programme of principal area electoral arrangement reviews concluded in 2021 and made a number of changes to the electoral arrangements for principal areas across Wales. Welsh Ministers committed to reflect on the current arrangements for the conduct of principal area electoral arrangement reviews, listen to feedback from others and identify opportunities for improvement. As a result of a series of discussions with those involved in the review process, and feedback received during the review process, Welsh Ministers proposed a package of measures to build upon and strengthen the arrangements for both principal area electoral reviews and community reviews.

3.102. As a result, the Bill includes provisions to:

- address concerns expressed about the time taken to complete reviews and make decisions about recommendations contained in review reports by specifying timescales for each of these elements. In addition, the Commission will now be required to undertake a review of the electoral arrangements for each principal area at least once in every 12-year period. A new duty is placed on principal councils requiring them to undertake a review of the electoral arrangements for each community in their area at least once in every 12 years and in conducting those reviews, the principal council will be required to have regard to the Commission's programme and timetable for the conduct of principal area electoral arrangement reviews.
- expand the nature of the matters to be considered by the Commission and principal councils when developing recommendations to change the electoral arrangements for principal areas and communities. In addition, together with the existing criteria, the Commission will be required to undertake a rounded assessment of all the criteria when determining whether the number of councillors should be the same for each electoral ward in a principal council's area.
- clarify the publicising and consultation requirements to be observed by the Commission and principal councils when conducting electoral reviews.
- provide direction making powers for the Welsh Ministers to pause a review. This will provide flexibility where there are unforeseen circumstances which adversely impact the conduct of the review process, for example, the circumstances experienced as a consequence of the Covid-19 pandemic. Welsh Ministers will have the power to pause a review for a period or periods which cumulatively do not exceed a maximum period of 9 months.
- enable the Welsh Ministers to decide whether to implement a recommendation in an electoral review report either with or without modification or to decide to take no action in respect of that recommendation. Presently Welsh Ministers are unable to do this, and this has led to delays in implementing report recommendations and the risk that Welsh Ministers may have to take no action with regard to all the recommendations in a review report where they have concerns about only one or a few of the review report recommendations.

- increase the transparency regarding the process for determining electoral ward names in both Welsh and English and enable greater engagement with members of the public in the area affected by the review.
- add a number of bodies, including the Welsh Language Commissioner to the list of mandatory consultees who the Commission and principal councils are required to consult with as part of the various review processes set out in Part 3 of the 2013 Act.

3.103. Welsh Ministers consider these provisions, as a package of measures, represent a significant strengthening of the arrangements placed on the Commission and principal councils requiring them to deliver effective and convenient local government.

Seaward Boundary Reviews

3.104. The Commission is required to monitor and review the areas and electoral arrangements relevant to the local government structure in Wales, in considering whether to make or recommend making changes to those arrangements. In discharging that monitoring duty, the Commission may conduct a review of principal area boundaries, community boundaries (either with or without the agreement of the appropriate principal council), preserved counties and seaward boundaries.

3.105. In respect of seaward boundaries, Section 28 of the 2013 Act enables the Commission to review any part of the boundary of a local government area which lies beneath the sea, and which does not form a common boundary with another local government area, and report to the Welsh Ministers if they feel the boundary should be changed.

3.106. There are a number of circumstances in which it makes sense for the Commission to be able to review the seaward boundaries of more than one local government area as part of a single review process. For example, where there are proposals for projects such as tidal lagoons which include within their site area, the boundaries of more than one local government area.

3.107. Provision is made in the Bill to clarify the law to enable the Commission to review the seaward boundary of more than one local government area in a single review process.

Chapter 2: Remuneration of Elected Members

Abolition of Independent Remuneration Panel for Wales

- 3.108. The Independent Remuneration Panel for Wales, (the Panel) is the independent body whose principal function is to make decisions about the allowances and pensions which principal councils, community councils, fire and rescue authorities, National Park authorities and corporate joint committees are required to, or authorised to, pay to their members when those members are undertaking the official business of those bodies. The Panel also has the power to make recommendations on policies relating to the salaries, or proposed changes to the salaries of chief executives of authorities who are required to produce a pay policy statement.
- 3.109. In 2021, an independent ten-year review of the Panel was undertaken to establish whether the organisation remains fit for purpose and provides good value to the public purse. One of the review's recommendations was to reconsider the existing arrangements for the provision of secretariat support to the Panel and to consider whether an independent Welsh body with a similar agenda, rather than the Welsh Government could provide that secretariat support.
- 3.110. The Welsh Ministers agreed that the secretariat support for the Panel should be provided by a body other than the Welsh Government, and that this would also help reinforce the independence of the Panel's operation. The Commission is considered to be the most appropriate body to provide this support, as it is an independent corporate body headed by a chief executive, which also has an effective internal secretariat function.
- 3.111. The Commission draws on the same evidence base and stakeholders to undertake its own work and its purpose is also rooted in promoting effective local democracy. There is already a symbiotic relationship between the work of the two organisations. Both agendas rely on having a real understanding and appreciation of the needs of the population of Wales, the way in which elected members and councils operate and an understanding of elected members' workloads.
- 3.112. The Welsh Ministers propose to go further than the review's recommendation and based on the synergies between the Panel and the Commission, they intend to abolish the Panel and to confer the remuneration functions undertaken by the Panel on the Commission, with the exception of the function relating to the salaries of chief executives which will cease with the abolition of the Panel. This would mean the same set of Commissioners would determine the numbers of councillors across Wales, the electoral arrangements for those councillors, and the remuneration and pension arrangements for those councillors and the other bodies set out in paragraph 56 above.

3.113. The Commission will also be given a new function in relation to resettlement payments. The Welsh Ministers will be able to specify the description of member of a local authority to which payment must/can be made (a “local authority” is defined as county and county borough councils and community councils under section 72 of the 2013 Act). This is a function which has been requested and supported by councils to underpin our shared goal of diversity of elected membership in these bodies. Resettlement payments are made to other elected representatives across our democracy and are intended to support diversity by enabling people to put themselves forward for re-election in the knowledge if they are not returned, they will have a modest level of financial support to enable them to transition to the next phase of their lives. Payments will not be available to councillors who decide to stand down and not seek re-election.

3.114. In response to the White Paper consultation, these proposals were broadly supported. As a result, the Bill will:

- abolish the Panel.
- create new provision in the 2013 Act which confers the remuneration functions and the supporting administrative and reporting requirements currently undertaken by the Panel in respect of those functions, on the Commission.
- not make provision for the Panel’s current function relating to the remuneration of principal council chief executives to be conferred on the Commission as that function was added in response to a specific set of circumstances which are no longer relevant.
- enable Welsh Ministers to set out the type and nature of roles to be included in any future arrangements in respect of schemes for resettlement payments for elected members on the relevant bodies within their remit. The Commission will be able to determine the details of any future scheme within the parameters set by Welsh Ministers.

Chapter 3: Disqualification and Undue Influence

Disqualification from being a Member of the Senedd and a community councillor.

3.115. The purpose and intended effect of this provision is to make changes to the current disqualification regime for Members of the Senedd in Wales to support fairness, equality, and accountability of the Senedd and local government.

3.116. This provision includes the following changes to the current disqualification regime:

- a) prevention of the dual membership of the Senedd and community councils (which includes town and community councils) in Wales by disqualifying community councillors in Wales from serving as Members of the Senedd, bringing the arrangements for community councillors into line with the disqualification regime for principal councillors (members of the council of a county or county borough) in Wales;
- b) the removal of the existing “grace period” for principal councillors elected to the Senedd where the expected day of the next ordinary election of members of the council is within the period of 372 days beginning with return day;
- c) the removal of the existing “grace period” for Members of the Senedd elected as principal councillors where the expected day of the next general election of Members of the Senedd is within the period of 372 days beginning with the return day; and
- d) the removal of the existing “grace period” for a Member of the Senedd returned as a Member of the House of Commons where the expected day of the next general election of Members of the Senedd is within the period of 372 days beginning with the return day.

3.117. These changes will address concerns that individuals who are dual Members of the Senedd and community councillors could be in a potentially advantageous position over and above their peers by being in a position to press certain issues through their access to Welsh Ministers in the Senedd and will address concerns about time commitments and potential conflicts of interests when holding dual posts.

3.118. Members of the Senedd are already disqualified from being members of other elected bodies, however there are grace periods. During the grace periods, principal councillors or members of the House of Commons who are also Members of the Senedd are entitled to remuneration for both roles. This situation places some individuals in a privileged position, even if they were to choose to donate some of their remuneration to charities of their choice.

3.119. The removal of the grace periods will therefore ensure consistency and address issues with dual remuneration. It will also help to ensure that elected representatives are properly capable of carrying out their mandate in terms of time commitment and avoiding conflicts of interest at all times.

Disqualification for corrupt or illegal practice: local government elections

3.120. The disqualification regime which applies as a consequence of committing a corrupt or illegal practice broadly works to disqualify an individual from all elections and bodies for the relevant period of time regardless of where the offence was committed. This is to prevent individuals who seek to do harm to democracy being a part of that democracy.

3.121. There is currently a gap in the application of this regime. An individual who commits an offence at a Northern Ireland district council election and is subsequently disqualified from those elections is not currently also disqualified from standing as a candidate or being a member at local elections in Wales. This provision seeks to fill that gap in the application of the regime. The Elections Act 2022 also identified this issue and included legislation to ensure the regime works as intended at local elections in England.

Disqualification for corrupt or illegal practice: Senedd elections

3.122. The same gap referred to above presently applies in respect of Northern Ireland district council and Senedd elections. This provision seeks to address a gap in the application of this regime so that an individual who is guilty of having committed a corrupt or illegal practice at a Northern Ireland district council election is also disqualified from being a candidate or a member of the Senedd.

Undue Influence

3.123. Undue influence is where an individual seeks to apply pressure to force an elector to not vote or vote in a way they would not have done if pressure had not been applied. It is one of the historic electoral offences, alongside bribery and treating.

3.124. In Wales the current legislation governing the offence is defined in section 115 of the RPA 1983 for local elections and, in relation to Senedd elections, in Article 81 of the National Assembly for Wales (Representation of the People) Order 2007. Additionally, as a result of provisions contained in the Elections Act 2022 the current legislation defining the offence of undue influence committed during a UK Parliamentary or Police and Crime Commissioner election is set out in section 114A of the RPA 1983. The language of the latter has been clarified and modernised by the Elections Act 2022.

- 3.125. The case for clarifying the language of the offence has been well rehearsed in recent years. In 2016, in its review of electoral law, the Electoral Commission recommended the offence be redrafted and modernised. Sir Eric Pickles in his report Securing the Ballot advised the offence of undue influence in respect of electors should be strengthened. In 2018, the UK Government launched the consultation 'Protecting the Debate: Intimidation, influence and information' asking whether the offence should be redrafted and what it should cover.
- 3.126. Work was subsequently taken forward by the UK Government to strengthen and modernise the language of the offence with amended provisions added to the 2022 Act. Following requests from Welsh Ministers, provisions on undue influence for Welsh elections were carved out of the 2022 Act allowing for Welsh Ministers and the Senedd to consider the appropriate solution for Welsh elections.
- 3.127. The 2022 Act's definition of the offence in respect of reserved elections is particularly strengthened in regard to damage to a person's reputation and intent. The previous definition, where there was more of a focus on physical harm, did not exclude reputational damage specifically but in the new definition there is equal provision given to those less tangible but perhaps equally harmful damages that people can experience.
- 3.128. The new definition is further improved by clarifying the importance of 'intent' in the commission of the offence. The phrase "for the purpose of" in new section outlining the elements of the offence, demonstrates that the intent of the person carrying out the activity is key. To be guilty of undue influence it is enough to establish an intent to unduly influence a person, even if the activity was not actually successful in this regard.
- 3.129. Officials have considered the strengthened language describing the offence of undue influence and consider that it will make it more straightforward to prosecute cases of undue influence. There was overwhelming support for this approach from stakeholders noted in the white paper consultation. The Bill provides for the clarified and strengthened language of the undue influence offence to apply to local elections in Wales. The intention is the equivalent offence for Senedd elections, which is set out in the National Assembly for Wales (Representation of the People) Order 2007, will be similarly strengthened through this Bill, and will take effect prior to the next Senedd elections in 2026.

Chapter 4: Democracy and Boundary Commission Cymru

Governance and audit committee

- 3.130. The Commission's audit committee provides an important check and balance to the Commission's governance arrangements. The Commission has a statutory duty to establish an audit committee under section 17 of the 2013 Act.
- 3.131. As a result of the additional functions being conferred on the Commission, the Welsh Ministers consider it appropriate to strengthen the role of the Commission's audit committee both in terms of the scope of its functions and the level of independent membership on the committee.
- 3.132. The Bill amends section 17 of the 2013 Act to confer additional review and assessment functions on the Commission's audit committee in relation to the management of the Commission's internal and external audit arrangements, handling of complaints and review of financial statements and reports.
- 3.133. The amendment will also enable the Commission to confer further suitable functions on the audit committee and specifies the maximum number of members of the committee, the minimum number of lay members of the committee and requires that both the committee chair and deputy to the chair, must be lay members of the committee.
- 3.134. In taking forward the above, the Bill amends the duty placed on the Commission to establish an audit committee to a duty to establish a Governance and audit committee.

Power to charge

- 3.135. To further support the discharge of the Commission's new and revised functions, the Bill inserts a new section into the 2013 Act giving a power to the Commission to charge recipients for goods or services, if they agree to receive those goods or services. This would be in relation to its newly added electoral administration functions (exercisable by the Electoral Management Board) or its functions in relation to Part 3 of the 2013 Act (arrangements for local government). For example, the Commission may procure optional training sessions to the electoral community, for which it could impose a charge on attendees to recover the cost of providing the training.

4. Consultation

- 4.1. The Welsh Government published a consultation paper on Electoral Reform in Local Government in Wales on 18 July 2017, following the transfer of legislative competence for Senedd and local government elections to the National Assembly for Wales. The consultation sought views on a wide range of proposals for electoral reform in local government, primarily relating to how people register to vote and cast their vote. As a result of this consultation and other related stakeholder engagement, reforms on extending the franchise for devolved elections and improving the process for the annual canvass were brought forward.
- 4.2. As a consequence, two Acts were passed by the Senedd:
 - the Senedd and Elections (Wales) Act 2020 which extended the electoral franchise for elections to the Senedd; and
 - the Local Government and Elections (Wales) Act 2021 which extended the electoral franchise for local government elections and gave an optional power to introduce Single Transferrable Vote (STV) at elections to principal councils.
- 4.3. In July 2021, Mick Antoniw MS, Counsel General and Minister for the Constitution, made a statement on the Welsh Government's Framework for electoral reform which gave a commitment to designing reforms in collaboration with stakeholders in accordance with the six principles of equity, accessibility, participation, improving citizen experience, simplicity, and integrity.
- 4.4. A White Paper setting out a wide range of proposals for Electoral Administration and Reform was published on 11 October 2022 and was subject to a twelve week public consultation period. The White Paper set out the Welsh Government's proposals to modernise electoral administration and reform devolved elections. The consultation was published in youth friendly, easy read and British Sign Language formats. The consultation received 137 responses. Most areas consulted upon received support from respondents and details of this can be found in the summary report to the consultation.
- 4.5. While stakeholders were generally supportive, we identified a number of themes across the responses received where there were concerns. Returning Officers, the AEA and electoral service managers raised concerns about the potential additional administrative and financial pressures of some of the reforms and the capacity of electoral management systems to implement the proposed changes. Stakeholders stressed the importance of carefully managing differences between reserved elections and Welsh elections to minimise administrative pressures for electoral staff. The importance of early and clear communications was also highlighted to ensure voters understand the changes and avoid confusion.

- 4.6. As part of the consultation process, targeted engagement events were held with key stakeholders designed to inform, seek views and test the practical application of the proposals. These included:
- A virtual conference between the Counsel General and Minister for the Constitution, Returning Officers, the AEA and electoral service managers which focussed on the capacity of the sector to deliver reform and how to manage a divergence between devolved and reserved elections.
 - A round-table workshop for third sector and local authorities hosted by the Electoral Reform Society which focused on the needs of the voter in relation to electoral reform.
 - A technical session hosted by the Commission for electoral services managers to assess the detail of proposals relating to the Commission and the impact this would have on local authorities.
 - Three closed technical sessions with electoral software providers hosted by Welsh Government officials, giving those providers the opportunity to discuss the implications of the proposed reforms on electoral management systems and to ask Welsh Government officials any points of clarification.
 - A series of Diversity in Democracy events, including candidate safety workshops, which considered how to encourage greater diversity among candidates standing for election and how to protect candidates and elected members from abuse.
 - A drop-in session for Members of Senedd on Diversity in Democracy and candidate safety.
- 4.7. Following the outcomes of the consultation exercise, the legislation has been shaped to consider the views expressed by stakeholders and respondents to the White Paper
- 4.8. Specifically, views were sought on the introduction of an All-Wales Database of electoral registration data as part of the wider modernisation of electoral registration systems in Wales. Respondents to the consultation raised concerns about the scale of the proposal at this time in the context of wider electoral changes both within Wales and across the UK. As a result, it was subsequently decided not to progress this within the Bill at this time.
- 4.9. We consulted on our proposal to legislate for the establishment of an EMB in Wales, to perform functions independently of government that are currently undertaken by the WECB. In response to the consultation, supporters of an EMB broadly preferred a statutory committee model to a public body model due to its reduced costs and complexity. The consultation responses helped shape our approach to the development of the Bill which seeks to legislate for the EMB functions to be conferred on the Commission, with the Commission required to establish a committee to discharge the functions relating to Welsh elections and referendums. This gives the benefits of a public body without creating significant new overhead costs.

4.10. Welsh Government officials have also undertaken a programme of ongoing engagement with key stakeholders which will continue as we further develop our policies to deliver reform. Two working groups have been established to help inform the detailed policy design:

- The Welsh Democratic Engagement Partnership consisting of Welsh Government, third sector organisations, community groups with an interest in promoting engagement in democracy and Local Authority electoral services teams, which is helping to identify best practice approaches, share digital resources and address barriers to increasing democratic engagement; and
- A working group on Automatic Registration, established to develop a suite of informed and deliverable pilots, with a clear understanding of the costs and resource implications for taking that policy forward in this Bill using evidence provided in consultation responses. The membership of that group is made up of local authority electoral services managers.

4.11. Work has also been undertaken to consult informally upon the technical changes required to be made to digital systems to enable the proposed administrative changes to work effectively in practice. Welsh Government has had detailed discussions with electoral management software providers to assess the time and cost implications of making administrative changes, and to ensure that such changes would suit the needs of electoral administrators.

4.12. No formal consultation on the draft Bill has been undertaken in advance of its introduction to the Senedd because an extensive and constructive programme of engagement and collaboration with stakeholders, which builds on earlier consultations, is taking place and will continue through the life of the Bill.

5. Power to make subordinate legislation

5.1 The Bill contains provisions to make subordinate legislation and issue determinations. Table 5.1 (subordinate legislation) and Table 5.2 (directions and guidance) set out in relation to these:

- i. the person upon whom, or the body upon which, the power is conferred;
- ii. the form in which the power is to be exercised;
- iii. the appropriateness of the delegated power;
- iv. the applied procedure; that is, whether it is “affirmative”, “negative”, or “no procedure”, together with reasons why it is considered appropriate.

5.2 The Welsh Government will consult on the content of the subordinate legislation where it is considered appropriate to do so. The precise nature of consultation will be decided when the proposals have been formalised.

Section 156 of the 2000 Act (as amended by section 34(2))	Welsh Ministers	Order	Paragraph 14A of Schedule 4A to the RPA 1983 (as amended by the Bill) allows the Electoral Commission to prepare guidance for use by campaigners, setting out the legal requirements around campaign expenditure at local government elections. No procedure	Prior to the making of an order to bring any guidance into force, the Welsh Ministers must lay the draft guidance before the Senedd for a period of 40 days. If the Senedd resolve not to approve the guidance no order bringing it into force can be made by the Welsh Ministers. As the draft guidance is subject to the full scrutiny, it is considered appropriate that a subsequent order to bring that guidance into force is not

PART 2 – REGULATORY IMPACT ASSESSMENT

6. Regulatory Impact Assessment (RIA) summary

6.1 A Regulatory Impact Assessment has been completed for the Bill and it follows below.

6.2 There are no specific provisions in the Bill which charge expenditure on the Welsh Consolidated Fund.

6.3 The following table presents a summary of the costs and benefits for the Bill as a whole. The table has been designed to present the information required under Standing Order 26.6 (viii) and (ix).

Preferred option:

6.4 Introduce the following legislation:

- Co-ordination of electoral administration –
 - Establishing the EMB by conferring functions in respect of the oversight of electoral administration upon a new committee of the Democracy and Boundaries Commission Cymru

- Electoral registration without applications –
 - placing a duty upon electoral registration officers (ERO's) to register persons to the register of local government electors in Wales without application,
 - launching of pilot schemes to test various methods of implementing this new duty.

- Welsh election pilots –
 - amending and expanding the powers of the Welsh Ministers to introduce electoral pilots in respect of all aspects of the electoral process for Welsh elections.

- Reports on assistance for disabled voters –
 - Creating a duty for the Electoral Commission to report on steps taken by returning officers to assist disabled people to vote.
 - This is linked to new duties which will be set out in secondary legislation, for Returning Officers to provide such equipment as is reasonable to assist disabled people to vote in line with Electoral Commission guidance.

- Candidate survey (of equality and diversity of candidates standing in local government elections) –

- removing the requirement to set out the specific wording and format of the survey in regulations to make it easier to change aspects of it as policy develops.
- Welsh elections information platform –
 - provisions to ensure the delivery of an online voter information platform to support Welsh citizens to take part in democracy.
- Diversity in persons seeking elected office –
 - duty on Welsh Ministers to put in place arrangements aimed at improving diversity within Senedd and Local Government democratic structures by providing assistance to remove barriers to participation including initiatives and schemes for underrepresented individuals seeking election to Senedd and local government election.
- Campaign finance –
 - Clarifying the law so that campaigns should only be responsible for notional – or “in-kind” – expenditure when it is directed or authorised by the candidate, political party or third party,
 - Enabling payments to be made on behalf of a candidate or campaign during a local government election campaign in Wales, by an authorised person other than an election agent,
 - Restricting third parties able to participate in Senedd election campaigns,
 - Enabling the Electoral Commission to include guidance on the above in Codes of Practice.
- Electoral and community arrangements reviews –
 - extending review cycles from 10 to 12 years,
 - setting time limits for carrying out reviews,
 - expanding the list of mandatory consultees within the review processes
 - extending the periods when the Democracy and Boundary Commission Cymru must not make or publish recommendations and prohibiting the Welsh Ministers from exercising functions in the six months preceding an ordinary local government election,
 - revising the matters to be considered by reviews,
 - providing Welsh Ministers with the ability to pause a review process,
 - requiring the Welsh and English names of wards to be published in both the Welsh and English versions of reports,
 - requiring all orders to be published by the order maker, and

- implementation and notice of resolutions of status of communities as towns.
- Reviews of seaward boundaries –
 - clarifying the law to provide that the Commission is able to review the undersea boundaries of more than one local authority area when it is conducting a review
- Remuneration of elected members –
 - Dissolving the Independent Remuneration Panel for Wales and transferring its functions to the Democracy and Boundary Commission Cymru, and
 - Providing for the creation of a scheme to enable payments to be made to members of a local authority who stand for election at an ordinary council election but who fail to be re-elected.
- Disqualification –
 - disqualifying town and community councillors in Wales from serving as Members of the Senedd, and
 - removing the grace periods for principal councillors elected to the Senedd, for Members of the Senedd elected to principal councils and for Members of the Senedd elected as Members of the House of Commons,
- Undue influence –
 - updating and modernising the offence of undue influence for Local Government Elections in Wales.
- Democracy and Boundary Commission Cymru –
 - Enhancing and improving the role of the governance and audit committee
 - Giving a power to the Commission to charge recipients for goods or services, if they agree to receive those goods or services.

Unquantified costs and disbenefits

As set out in the RIA, there are some areas where it is not possible to estimate costs at this stage. Given the uncertainty around what electoral piloting will be undertaken in future years, it is not possible to present a best estimate of likely costs and/or cost-savings. The financial impacts are therefore unknown at this stage.

For piloting automatic registration, the costs to Welsh Government will centre on the changes required to the Electoral Management Systems (EMSs). Detailed discussions will need to take place between EMS providers, local authorities and Welsh Government to ascertain a reasonable estimate for these costs. Illustrative figures have been provided later in this document, but the actual costs are unknown at this stage and cannot be estimated due to the specialist nature of this work and commercial sensitivity.

Costs for the Electoral Commission relating to the production of guidance and reporting have not been quantified in the RIA relating where the Electoral Commission has already developed or is developing guidance to cover the changes to reserved elections. As a result, any costs will be minimal and met within existing capacity. Similarly, costs for updating guidance as a result of provisions within this Bill will be minimal and met within existing capacity. These have not been quantified. As stated throughout the RIA, where there is the intention to bring forward secondary legislation, detailed costs will be provided as part of the RIA.

Benefits

Table 6.5. - Benefits

Benefits of the Bill are unquantified. The intention of the proposals is to remove the democratic deficit. Expected unquantified benefits include: <ul style="list-style-type: none">• making democracy and voting more accessible to all members of our society and encouraging active participation in democratic life in Wales,• helping people become more active, engaged citizens and in doing so contribute to better socio-economic outcomes,• modernising the administration of elections in Wales,• improving the use of technology to make it easier for voters and candidates to participate in democracy.

Key evidence, assumptions and uncertainties

The information set out in this RIA is based on the best information available in relation to the proposals. This has been informed by the White Paper consultation and further extensive engagement with electoral stakeholders and consideration of existing information, such as impact assessments for recent electoral legislation.

There are some areas within the Bill where costs are not yet known but will be assessed fully when subsequent secondary legislation is made. We have provided information where possible to explain the type of costs that will be likely to arise and to give costs of comparative activities for context.

In assessing the costs of this Bill, we have assumed that the Senedd Cymru (Members and Elections) Bill will gain Royal Assent. This would include provisions to change Senedd terms from five years to four years. Based on this, our assumption for Welsh election cycles during the ten-year appraisal period for this Bill is as follows:

2024-25 – None
2025-26 – None
2026-27 – Senedd election May 2026
2027-28 – Local elections May 2027
2028-29 – None
2029-30 – None
2030-31 – Senedd election May 2030
2031-32 – None
2032-33 – Local elections May 2032

7. Options - Summary

- 7.1 This RIA focuses on legislative provisions within the Elections and Elected Bodies (Wales) Bill. The Welsh Government is also taking forward a range of policy through secondary legislation and other actions. Where secondary legislation is closely linked to provisions within this Bill, we have attempted to set out some of the expected financial impacts within this RIA.
- 7.2 There are a number of interdependencies with the Senedd Cymru (Members and Elections) Bill and officials are working together on those areas. Financial costs and benefits set out in this assessment are based on the assumption that the Senedd Cymru (Members and Elections) Bill will receive Royal Assent. Therefore, baseline figures are based on the provisions of that Bill being introduced. Costs and benefits are assessed separately, but we have co-ordinated work where possible, for example using similar assumptions and approaches for estimating costs.
- 7.3 For some of the provisions, we considered a number of options. We have included information about those options within this RIA, but the focus is on the costs and benefits of the option to introduce the proposed legislation compared to the business as usual scenario.
- 7.4 Following consultation and stakeholder engagement, we are now proposing two options for consideration in this Regulatory Impact Assessment.

Option 1: Business as usual

- 7.5 Electoral arrangements would continue as they are in Wales in all areas covered by the draft Bill.

Option 2: Introduce an Elections and Elected Bodies (Wales) Bill

- 7.6 The Bill will deliver a range of proposals to support the Programme for Government commitment to reduce the democratic deficit in Local Government.
- 7.7 It will make provision to drive up participation in Welsh elections and improve accessibility for disabled voters and candidates, enable registration of voters without application, subject to successful piloting improve and modernise the offence of undue influence and establish an Electoral Management Board to support electoral administration. It will also reform the processes for conducting community and electoral reviews and confer the functions of the Independent Remuneration Panel for Wales to the Democracy and Boundary Commission Cymru.

8. Costs and benefits – Summary

- 8.1 This Regulatory Impact Assessment has been informed by a previous draft Regulatory Impact Assessment published with Electoral Administration and Reform White Paper in October 2022. That draft assessment set out a range of options considered for each policy intention and considered the types of impacts and some potential costs and benefits. The White Paper consultation provided further information to develop the policy proposals and refine assessments of costs and benefits. Following analysis of responses and engagement with stakeholders, the set of provisions in the Bill is different to that set out in the draft assessment. Some proposals have changed, and some have not been progressed. This Regulatory Impact Assessment focuses on two options only - a 'business as usual' option and the preferred option.
- 8.2 The costs and benefits associated with the options have been assessed over a ten-year period, 2024-25 to 2033-34. This allows for consideration of two election cycles. A 10-year planning horizon has been used throughout the Regulatory Impact Assessment.
- 8.3 Where appropriate, the costs and benefits are presented in Present Value terms using a discount rate of 3.5%. This is in line with the guidance in HM Treasury's Green Book. The base year for all Present Value calculations is 2022-23.
- 8.4 Each option has been assessed using the best available information to the Welsh Government. The costs and benefits are calculated at an all-Wales level. Throughout the Regulatory Impact Assessment, costs and benefits are estimated on an annual basis and then collated over a ten-year period.
- 8.5 Summary cost tables for the whole Bill can be seen at Appendix A.
- 8.6 Throughout the Regulatory Impact Assessment, costs have been attributed according to where they are first incurred. For example, the cost of establishing an Electoral Management Board have been attributed to the Democracy and Boundary Commission Cymru despite the expectation that the costs will ultimately be funded by the Welsh Government.
- 8.7 Welsh Government staff costs have been based on the average pay band costs for 2022-23, which use a 52-week year and five-day working week. The standard working week is considered 37 hours a week as per the National Agreement 'Green Book'. Staff costs include on costs.
- 8.8 Local Government staff costs are based on the 2022-23 costs set out in the National Joint Council for Local Government Services (NJC) agreement of November 2022. 30 per cent has been added to account for on costs.
- 8.9 Figures have been rounded throughout the impact assessment to a level of precision that is considered appropriate for the relevant calculations. In some tables, rows and columns may not sum up to the total column due to this rounding process.

- 8.10 The benefits identified are largely discussed in qualitative terms, and have not been quantified or monetised, due to the nature of the provisions. Any costs included are forecasts.

Chapter 9 – Costs and benefits

Part 1 – Electoral administration and registration

Chapter 1 – Co-ordination of electoral administration

9.1 The issue under consideration is whether an Electoral Management Board should be established in respect of Welsh elections.

Background

9.2 The Electoral Management Board for Scotland was established, as a statutory committee, by the Local Electoral Administration (Scotland) Act 2011. It has the general functions of co-ordinating the administration of Scottish parliamentary elections, and local government elections in Scotland, including:

- assisting regional returning officers, constituency returning officers, local authorities and other persons in carrying out their functions in relation to Scottish parliamentary elections,
- assisting returning officers, local authorities and other persons in carrying out their functions in relation to local government elections, and
- promoting best practice in Scottish parliamentary elections and local government elections by providing information, advice or training (or otherwise).

9.3 In Wales, the Wales Electoral Coordination Board (WECB) was established in 2017 to help facilitate the coordination of electoral events, activity, modernisation and reform in Wales. It also facilitates greater collaboration between ROs, EROs and other key partners. The WECB is a voluntary board, currently facilitated by the Electoral Commission and does not receive Welsh Government funding at present, though this is expected to change. It is the intention in this Bill to place the WECB's role on a statutory footing, and as such, consideration has been given to the design of a statutory EMB.

Previous options considered.

9.4 In the previous draft RIA we set out three options summarised as follows:

- i. Maintaining the status quo with the WECB retaining its current role.
- ii. Establishing an electoral management board as a statutory committee (as in Scotland) to undertake the functions currently within the remit of the WECB independently of government.
- iii. Establishing an electoral management board as a new public body to undertake the functions currently within the remit of the WECB independently of government.

9.5 The option to create a public body was ultimately discounted due to the related estimated overhead costs to establish such a model, meaning a statutory committee was the preferred model. We were presented with challenges in relation to identifying a suitable body with the required capacity and one that was willing to host the EMB.

9.6 We subsequently considered a role for the Local Democracy & Boundary Commission for Wales (to become the Democracy and Boundary Commission Cymru) (the Commission), the benefits of which are set out below. We considered options relating to the Commission either hosting the EMB or taking on the proposed functions of the new EMB.

9.7 Following consideration of these proposals, it is considered that the preferred approach is to confer the functions of the EMB on to a committee of the Commission. The Commission is considered a suitable vehicle with the sufficient capability to carry out the proposed EMB functions. Establishing the Board to sit under an independent arms-length body such as the Commission is considered a sustainable solution.

9.8 We have considered two options for this RIA, as follows:

- Maintaining the status quo with the WECB retaining its current role.
- Conferring the proposed functions on the Commission, to be exercisable by a new statutory committee of the Commission known as the 'electoral management board'.

Option 1: Maintaining the status quo with the WECB retaining its current role.

9.9 The WECB is not a statutory body and is facilitated and administrated by the Electoral Commission. The participation of ROs and EROs is not mandated and the WECB has no statutory functions or powers of direction.

9.10 The WECB has limited capacity to support the implementation of Welsh Government's programme of electoral reform. Funding could be allocated by the Welsh Government to increase its capacity, but this funding would presumably need to be managed on behalf of the WECB by the Electoral Commission. This could raise questions of conflict of interest, as the Electoral Commission would potentially be required to report on the conduct of tasks that a body it facilitates (and whose funding it manages) had been funded to carry out.

Option 2: Establishing an electoral management board as a statutory board of the Commission (the preferred option)

- 9.11 This option has been developed from the statutory committee option in the previous draft RIA, taking account of stakeholder comments and the opportunity to expand the role of the Commission alongside it taking on the functions of the Independent Remuneration Panel for Wales (Section 57 of the Bill).
- 9.12 This option involves establishing the EMB as a statutory committee of the Commission. As such, it is intended that the functions in respect of the oversight of electoral administration will be conferred upon the Commission, but delegated to and exercisable by the EMB and this will be set out in legislation.
- 9.13 The EMB will have the general function of co-ordinating the administration of Welsh elections and referendums, which will include (in relation to the administration of Welsh Elections and referendums only):
- providing advice to those involved in the administration of those elections to carry out those functions,
 - promoting best practice by providing information, advice or training (or otherwise).
- 9.14 The Commission may also provide information, advice or other assistance to the Welsh Ministers. These functions will be delegated to the EMB and only exercisable by the EMB, not the Commission.
- 9.15 The Commission, through the EMB, will also be capable of delivering the Welsh elections information platform (Section 27 of the Bill). It will also have powers to issue directions to returning officers and EROs (not intended to replace their own personal responsibility to discharge their functions or duties), with a duty for returning officers and EROs to comply. Also, to provide advice to those returning officers and EROs in respect of their functions, similar to section 10(3) of PPERA in respect of the Electoral Commission's power to issue advice, with a duty on returning officers and EROs to have regard to the guidance. The purpose of issuing directions or advice would be to achieve consistency and best practice in the administration of elections in Wales. Some examples of how directions could be used include:
- Interpreting and applying guidance, such as was seen in response to the coronavirus emergency
 - Establishing a consistent date across Wales for the issue of postal ballot papers
 - Production of standard templates, e.g. notice of election, notice of poll.
- 9.16 The Commission will nominate one of its Commissioners (who must be a former returning officer or ERO), to act as Chair of the EMB and one further Commissioner to be a member of the EMB. Further membership will consist of at least four current or former Returning Officers and/or Electoral Registration Officers, who will not be Commissioners of the Commission. The EMB will appoint one of those members as Deputy Chair. This covers the core members who would make decisions, such as on the issuing of directions. As with the WECB currently, there would also be a wider membership of advisors and experts, such as other electoral administrators, the Electoral Commission, and the Association of Electoral Administrators Wales.

Costs and benefits

Option 1 - Maintaining the status quo with the Wales Electoral Co-ordination Board retaining its current role.

Costs

9.17 Although no funding is currently provided to support the running of the WECB, as mentioned above, even if funding is provided, it is unlikely that the Electoral Commission will be able to continue to provide facilitation. This is due to a potential conflict of interest between its role as an advisor to the WECB and as facilitating the WECB. We anticipate annual costs of around £70,000 per year, starting in 2024-25 to fund another organisation to facilitate the WECB.

Benefits

9.18 This option maintains the status quo and we have identified no additional benefits associated with it.

Option 2 – Establishing an electoral management board as a statutory board of the Commission/

Costs

Costs to the Commission

9.19 We would expect transitional costs for the Commission during 2024-25 for recruitment of new staff and training in electoral law and administration, in the region of £30,000.

9.20 We would also anticipate annual running costs for the Commission of approximately £130,000, starting in 2024-25. This is based on the cost of running the EMB in Scotland, which includes staff time and running costs for Edinburgh Council to host the EMB. We are working with the Commission to consider general staffing needs for the range of new functions and expanded role for the Commission, from these provisions, the voter information portal and the conferring of the functions of the Independent Remuneration Panel for Wales. At present, we expect at least one dedicated officer to oversee the EMB, likely at Grade 7 or SEO level as well as a proportion of FTE time of a number of other staff.

9.21 We would also expect costs for the Commission to obtain external legal advice on electoral law of approximately £10,000 in a pre-election year and £2,500 in other years (5 days FTE during each financial year, rising to 20 days in each year before an election).

9.22 This estimate is based on external legal advice provided for the Welsh Government for electoral policy work in 2020-21, the estimated daily cost of £500 has been rounded and includes an uplift to take in account ONS data which shows median gross earnings in Wales increased by 10.5% between 2020 and 2022.

Table 9.1 – EMB legal advice costs

External legal costs	Daily cost (based on a 7.5 hour day)	Days	Total
In a year before an election	£500	20	£10,000
In a year which does not precede an election	£500	5	£2,500

9.23 More accurate costs will be known as staffing structures of the Commission are finalised.

9.24 These costs have been attributed to the Commission for the purposes of the RIA, however, the expectation is that they would ultimately be met by the Welsh Government.

9.25 There would be further specific costs associated with the delivery of a voter information platform (which it is intended the EMB would deliver) and those are set out in the voter information platform section of this RIA.

Welsh Government Staff costs

9.26 A Welsh Government staff cost of £20,600 per annum for project management and implementation of the EMB has been estimated for the years 2024-25 and 2025-26. The costs presented below will be met from within existing resources and therefore represent opportunity costs rather than an additional financial outlay to the Welsh Government.

Table 9.2. – WG staff costs for management of the EMB

Grade	FTE	Average Band cost (including on costs)	Total annual cost (rounded to nearest £100)
Grade 7	0.1	£86,731	£8,700
SEO	0.1	£66,364	£6,600
HEO	0.1	£52,774	£5,300
Total			£20,600

Cost savings for the Welsh Government

9.27 Under this option the approximate £70,000 per annum costs the Welsh Government is expected to incur for facilitating the WECB (identified under Option 1) would be needed for transitional arrangements in 2024-25 but would not be needed after that. As such, there would be cost savings of £70,000 per year from 2025-26.

Benefits

9.28 An EMB with statutory functions around co-ordination of electoral activity and a power of direction over Returning Officers and Electoral Registration Officers will help ensure a consistent, all-Wales approach to administration for Welsh elections. This option would provide sustainability as part of a public body with existing infrastructure and funding arrangements. This would provide an EMB capable of continuing and building on the work currently undertaken by the WECB.

9.29 There is an alignment between the EMB function and the wider purpose of the Commission in terms of supporting democratic participation. One of the benefits of this option is that it will provide the necessary independence from the Welsh Government. The Commission was established to operate as an independent Welsh Government sponsored body. Its Commissioners are appointed through a rigorous public appointments process which follow the Code of Practice for Public Appointments. Establishing the Board to sit within an independent arms-length body such as the Commission will only strengthen the Board's independence from political interests.

9.30 As there will be a legal requirement for the Commission to support the EMB, it secures the long-term sustainability of the EMB.

9.31 As part of the Commission, the EMB would be able to recover costs, procure services and enter into contracts. The planned expansion of the Commission for other functions means the timing of the establishment of the EMB in legislation represents good value for money in terms of adding functions to an existing body.

9.32 We believe the Commission has a range of expertise relevant to the proposed functions of the EMB. This is demonstrated, for example, by its knowledge of the Welsh electoral landscape, and its already established relationships and engagement processes with local authority electoral management teams. It also has a range of other expertise relevant to the EMB functions, such as communications and engagement.

Preferred option

9.33 The preferred option is Option 2 – Establishing an electoral management board as a statutory board of the Commission – for the reasons set out above.

Chapter 2 – Electoral registration without application

9.34 Two options have been considered in developing this policy:

- Business as usual; and
- Introduce the registration of electors without application (automatic registration) for local government electors in Wales.

9.35 A non-legislative option is not possible in this case, as all arrangements for the registration of electors are set out clearly in primary and secondary legislation.

Option 1: business as usual

9.36 This option would continue the current practice of Individual Electoral Registration (IER) whereby each elector is required to take part in the annual canvass in order to be registered to vote.

Option 2: the registration of electors without application (automatic registration)

9.37 This option would provide for registration of local government electors without application where the electoral registration officer is satisfied that they have reliable information that an individual is eligible for registration.

9.38 Whilst voters would be added to the register of local government electors without having to make an application, they will, having been identified, be contacted by the electoral registration officer to inform them of their proposed registration. This would provide the elector, in certain limited situations, to be ‘anonymously registered’ (a category available to someone where disclosure of their address might endanger them or others in their household).

9.39 To ensure the data of automatically registered electors is used in the most appropriate way, regulations will be introduced to ensure the open electoral register will no longer be available for the local government register. This means that only the full, or closed, register will be made available to those granted access via legislation. This is not in the Bill but the intention is that regulations will be introduced to effect this change at a later date.

9.40 Given that the move to automatic registration for Welsh elections would be a significant change to the administration of elections in Wales, the Welsh Government has established a working group with local authorities and other key electoral stakeholders to develop a pilot scheme ahead of the secondary legislation to fully implement automatic registration. The working group will develop a small number of pilots to be delivered across supporting local authorities in Wales following Royal Assent of this Bill. The purpose of this pilot scheme is to develop a suite of deliverable pilots, with a clear understanding of costs and resource implications. While the pilots developed as part of this scheme will focus on ensuring the accuracy of the register, it will also consider the best possible means of engaging with the elector as well as understanding the full financial implications of all pilots.

9.41 As the pilot models are developed, the Working Group will establish the full financial implications of each model before roll-out. The Welsh Government will meet the costs of these pilots and will publish the full financial implications ahead of the roll-out of the scheme.

9.42 If a decision is taken to proceed with automatic registration, a full costs analysis will accompany the necessary secondary legislation that will be required ahead of the full roll out, this will provide the most up-to-date financial implications based on the model that will be implemented across all local authorities in Wales.

Costs and benefits

Option 1: Business as usual

Costs

Costs to local government and Welsh Government

9.43 Option 1 would introduce no additional costs.

Benefits

Benefits to local government and Welsh Government

9.44 This option would deliver a benefit to voters due to a reduced complexity in the system. If automatic registration is introduced, some voters will still need to register to vote on an annual basis through the Individual Electoral Registration system. This will apply to those voters eligible to be on both the local government and parliamentary electoral registers.

Option 2: The registration of electors without application (automatic registration)

Costs

Costs to the Welsh Government

9.45 The costs to Welsh Government will centre on the changes required to the Electoral Management Systems (EMS). Detailed discussions will need to take place between EMS providers, local authorities and Welsh Government to ascertain a reasonable estimate for these costs. However, in 2020-21 around £1.6million was paid to EMS providers to support the required changes to systems following the extension of the franchise. This figure is provided for illustrative purposes only, the actual costs are unknown at this stage and cannot be estimated due to the specialist nature of this work and commercial sensitivity.

9.46 Costs will continue to be calculated during the piloting period as the final model of automatic registration is developed and before a decision is taken as to any final model for automatic registration ahead of any roll out across Wales. These costs will be one-off costs as the Welsh Government will meet the initial costs of changes to EMS systems resulting from this policy.

9.47 There will be no costs to the Welsh Government of removing the open register in relation to Wales.

Costs to local government

9.48 At the moment we have identified two areas of additional costs to local government, however this may change following the piloting period. The point at which these costs will be incurred is uncertain since it will depend on the outcome of the pilot exercises, however, for the purposes of the RIA, it is assumed the costs will be incurred from 2026-27 onwards.

9.49 Given the requirement for additional data mining to be undertaken by each local authority we are currently estimating that this would require an additional officer working full time for 3 days per week in the first two years of implementation and 2 days per week after that.

9.50 As set out in the table below, costs in 2026-27 and 2027-28 are estimated to be £495,900. For subsequent years, we have estimated these costs at around £330,600 per annum. This would equate to around £15,000 per authority based on a spine point 21 salary of the national Local Government pay agreement (2022-23) where a full-time officer worked 2 days a week specifically on the data mining work. This additional cost would be a long-term cost for the local authority as it is likely the additional data mining functions would be required ahead of the production of the electoral register on an annual basis.

Table 9.5 – Local authority costs for data mining

Year	Days p/w	Annual cost per local authority	Total annual cost (rounded)
2026-27 and 2027-28	3	£22,542	£495,900
Following years	2	£15,028	£330,600

9.51 Additionally, there will be an added cost to local authorities in making contact with electors to give provide them with a notice of registration. We propose to allow flexibility to local authorities to use the most appropriate methods of communication (in line with the current canvass regulations) however, we have estimated costs for a letter to be sent to each elector directly.

9.52 These figures have been calculated based on the average cost of sending an Invitation to Register (ITR) to electors in July 2022 along with the numbers of people registered within each local authority.

9.53 We currently estimate that to send a paper letter to each elector in Wales will cost around £1.5million each year. The cost per authority will vary between £30,000 and £150,000 depending on the size of the authority and electorate.

9.54 There will be capacity for savings to be made if electors are contacted via email or other electronic communication methods.

9.55 These costs will be additional to the cost of the annual canvass, as these two systems for registering will need to run concurrently and will require the local authority to make contact with potential electors twice. While there are cost saving opportunities it is likely that the additional cost will be long term given the additional duty placed on each authority.

9.56 Local authorities will lose a modest amount of income from the removal of the open register in relation to Welsh elections. While this cost has not been calculated and is therefore unknown, anecdotal evidence suggests it will be in the hundreds of pounds on an annual basis. However, the open register will still be in place for the parliamentary register and income will continue to be generated from this.

Benefits

Benefits to local government

9.57 The registration of electors without application would help increase the completion of the register of local government electors. Piloting this activity ahead of full roll out will allow for the most suitable and effective model to be introduced on a Wales wide basis. This approach will ensure that electors are given the best possible opportunity for being placed on the local government electoral register (which is also used for Senedd elections) without application.

Benefits to other people

9.58 Whilst this would be beneficial for all electors, it is expected to be of particular benefit in respect of 'attainers' (14 and 15 year olds who would become eligible to vote in the next two years), where data could be provided to the electoral registration officer by schools and educational services. The Electoral Commission have welcomed the ambition to modernise electoral registration and support plans to explore how automatic registration could improve the completeness of the local government register. This is particularly true for young people and other under-registered groups. For qualifying foreign citizens, it would mean that they did not have to register to vote in order to participate in the elections for which they are eligible to vote. Overall automatic registration will help simplify the relationship between the elector and democratic services.

9.59 The removal of the open register in Wales will be of primary benefit to young people and those considered vulnerable. The current open register is sold to a number of organisations that are willing to pay for access to electors' data. If a young or vulnerable person's data is sold via the open register it is possible they may be targeted by organisations that could do them harm. Removing the open register in relation to Welsh elections will mean that those people automatically registered, or those young people and qualifying foreign citizens not eligible to vote in reserved elections will not have their details sold on to third parties. Electoral data will continue to be supplied via the closed register to those organisations that are allowed access by law.

9.60 The open register would still be in place in Wales for the parliamentary register, but this would only apply for those people 18 years of age and over, and those that had made an application to register to vote via IER.

Preferred Option

9.61 Option 1 would maintain the status quo.

9.62 Option 2 would allow for the individuals to be included on the electoral register without application by promoting data-sharing between local authorities and other organisation that hold relevant data. This would also remove the requirement for individuals to verify their data by IER where automatic registration and data matching has taken place in relation to the local government register. Option 2 is the preferred option.

Chapter 3 - Welsh Elections Piloting and Reform

Background

9.63 In July 2021 we invited all local authorities in Wales to submit proposals to pilot different ways of voting, which resulted in four authorities piloting advance voting at the local government elections in May 2022. This has provided useful evidence about how electoral innovations work in practice, as well as identifying areas which would need to be addressed before consideration could be given to any further rollout of advance voting. We are likely to want to test further innovations in electoral administration to respond to lifestyle changes and emerging technologies and will use the evidence provided by the advance voting pilots, the Electoral Commission's report and responses from the consultation to consider what innovations should be piloted in the future.

Options

9.64 During the consultation on electoral reform, respondents put forward a number of suggestions for areas where electoral pilots should take place in the future. To allow for the range of suggested pilots to take place in the future we are proposing to broaden current piloting powers to provide for the framework that would allow piloted activity across a number of areas. We are also including a power of direction for Welsh Ministers which would enable them to compel a local authority to pilot electoral innovations.

Option 1 – Business as usual - Welsh Ministers could continue to approve proposals from local authorities to pilot electoral innovations in specified areas but would not be able to direct them.

Option 2 – Introduce legislation to expand electoral piloting powers for Welsh elections and to enable Welsh Ministers to compel a local authority to pilot electoral innovations.

Costs and benefits

Costs

9.65 Powers exist within current primary legislation to allow for the piloting of electoral activity in very specific areas. Any cost of delivering pilots for future elections would depend on the nature and scale of the pilots and the number of local authorities that brought forward pilot proposals which were approved by Welsh Ministers. For comparison, the cost of the four pilots delivered in May 2022 was around £1.5m.

Benefits

9.66 Piloting different types of innovations could provide valuable evidence to inform future electoral reform, however this benefit would be limited by the number of local authorities bringing forward proposals.

Option 2 – Introduce legislation to expand existing electoral piloting powers and enable Welsh Ministers to compel a local authority to pilot electoral innovations.

Costs

9.67 Costs would likely be higher than Option 1, but would depend on the amount, nature and scale of pilots undertaken. The number and nature of electoral pilots is unknown at this stage. In planning for future electoral pilots Welsh Ministers will need to give consideration to proposals in line with their usual budgetary processes. Any electoral pilot costs will need to be met by the Elections budget and will need to be considered in line with other government priorities.

Costs of pilots delivered in May 2022

9.68 The table below sets out the total costs of the four pilot schemes, broken down into the main categories of spend, as provided to Welsh Government by the pilot authorities. The data represents the costs they have incurred directly (such as in relation to some of the IT provision) or have provided to local authorities to fund aspects of the pilots. This gives an indication of potential costs of delivering future pilots of a similar scale and level of complexity.

Table 9.6 – Costs of electoral pilots in 2022

Type of spend	Cost
Staffing	£54,046
Equipment	£25,297
Building hire, transport and storage	£13,600
Communications	£56,970
EMS	£268,000
Electronic Registers*	£1,093,890
Total	£1,511,803

* This includes the costs incurred directly by local authorities for ongoing use of software licences plus the additional cost borne directly by Welsh Government for pilot-specific activities.

9.69 There could be small additional costs for the Electoral Commission for evaluating future pilots. As noted above it is not possible to calculate those costs at this stage.

Benefits

9.70 The main benefit of this option would be the ability to allow proposals for a wider range of electoral pilots to take place, these pilots could be proposed by the Electoral Commission, local authorities, electoral registration officers or Welsh Ministers. It would also provide the ability for the Welsh Government to direct local authorities to undertake pilots, helping to ensure suitable types of innovations could be piloted in a varied mix of local authority areas. This could provide valuable evidence to inform future electoral reform, with the purpose of reducing the democratic deficit and improving the running of Welsh elections.

9.71 There could potentially be a benefit to voters in piloting new innovative and flexible approaches, which could lead to changes to make elections more accessible and easier for participation. For example, some disabled people's organisations have suggested that flexible arrangements, such as being able to vote in different locations, could support disabled people in being able to vote.

Preferred option

9.72. For the reasons set out above, the preferred option is Option 2 – Introduce legislation to expand existing electoral piloting powers and enable Welsh Ministers to compel a local authority to pilot electoral innovations.

Chapter 4 - Accessibility and diversity: Welsh elections

Reports on assistance for disabled voters

- 9.73 We have considered what measures can be put in place to remove barriers that disabled voters can face when exercising their democratic right to cast their vote independently and in secret.
- 9.74 We want to ensure the physical environment in which voting takes place is accessible for all voters, and we will work with the Electoral Commission, electoral administrators and other stakeholders to consider whether changes can be made to guidance and training for polling station staff to better support disabled people.
- 9.75 There is a need to consider legislative changes as a package to reflect the electoral law framework in Wales, where the rules for the conduct of Senedd and Local Government elections are set out in the following secondary legislation:
- Rule 32(6) and (8) of the Local Elections (Principal Areas) (Wales) Rules 2021 and the Local Elections (Communities) (Wales) Rules 2021 in relation to local elections.
 - Rule 37(7) and (8)-(10) the National Assembly for Wales (Representation of the People) Order 2007 in relation to Senedd Elections.
- 9.76 We have considered the equipment made available to disabled voters at polling stations during Welsh elections following the Elections Act 2022. The Act amended Schedule 1 of the Representation of the People Act 1983, which previously required Returning Officers at reserved elections to provide each polling station with a device for voters with sight loss. It replaced it with a new broader requirement to provide such equipment as is reasonable for the purposes of enabling or making it easier for disabled people to vote independently. The related provisions for Wales are contained in the above orders.
- 9.77 We consulted in our White Paper to establish views as to whether we should introduce legislation mirroring the provisions in the Elections Act 2022 with regard to the equipment to be made available to disabled voters at polling stations during Welsh elections, or whether we should take a different approach. The consultation included questions on improving the accessibility of Welsh elections for disabled voters. We have taken on board the responses received to this consultation in development of the legislative proposals.
- 9.78 We considered whether changes are required to electoral legislation to ensure Welsh elections can be administered in a manner that is accessible for all, while also safeguarding the integrity of the elections. Our ongoing conversations with stakeholders and other governments in the UK have identified innovations which could be used to help disabled people vote whilst also protecting their right to cast their vote in secret.

9.79 In taking account of the legislative framework described above we have also considered how provision could be made in Welsh legislation, to:

- require the Electoral Commission to issue guidance to returning officers in Wales, setting out how returning officers should fulfil their duty to provide such equipment as is reasonable for the purposes of enabling or making it easier for disabled people in general to vote independently and subject to the identified needs of disabled voters in their area.
- Place a duty on returning officers to have regard for that Electoral Commission guidance.
- Make it easier for disabled people to be supported by companions for Senedd elections by changing the criteria to a person over the age of 16, as long as they have not previously assisted more than one voter with disabilities to vote at the election. This mirrors the approach taken for local elections.

9.80 The intention is to achieve the above through amendments to the existing framework of election rules in Wales which are set out in secondary legislation. These will be introduced separately to the Bill.

9.81 To support the above, this Bill will amend PPERA 2000 to add a further duty on the Electoral Commission to include, in the reports it prepares about Welsh elections in Wales, a description of the steps taken by returning officers to assist disabled voters.

9.82 For the purposes of this RIA, we have sought to assess the costs and benefits of this whole package of measures.

Option 1: Business as Usual

9.83 The related legislation with regards to Welsh elections in Wales remains unchanged.

Option 2 (preferred option):

9.84 Legislative changes are made through the Bill and relevant subordinate legislation (as above). This will include provision via the Bill to make amendments to Section 5 of PPERA 'reports on elections referendums etc'. The amendment would expand the existing requirements on the Electoral Commission to prepare and publish a report under that section, to include the steps taken by returning officers to assist disabled persons to vote at the election. This will mirror similar provisions introduced for most reserved elections in the Elections Act 2022.

Costs

Option 1 - No monetised costs are associated with option 1.

Option 2

Costs for the Electoral Commission

9.85 Costs of the Bill: Costs to the Electoral Commission for the requirement to assess steps taken by returning officers to assist disabled voters, within its election reports, would be low and would form part of normal post-poll activity. This work would be carried out using existing capacity from existing teams. These costs have not been quantified and are therefore unknown.

9.86 Costs of secondary legislation: There would be additional costs for producing guidance to returning officers on assisting disabled voters at elections. It is likely that this would be similar to guidance already produced for reserved elections, therefore costs would likely be low. These costs have not been quantified but will be assessed fully when secondary legislation is developed.

Costs for local government

9.87 As set out in the Elections Act 2022 Impact Assessment, there are no direct monetised costs relating to changes to the Electoral rules set out above. Whilst ROs are likely to buy new equipment to aid voters in polling stations, there is a lack of data to indicate what equipment they may purchase, or the quantity. Like the 2022 Act, the package of legislative changes gives ROs greater flexibility to purchase equipment to aid voters as is required. Therefore, the equipment purchased to enable disabled people to cast their vote independently and in secret is likely to vary across polling stations so that ROs can tailor the equipment purchased to the needs of their specific electorate. There is also no data to indicate how much increases in accessibility are worth so these costs are not able to be monetised.

9.88 However, the UK Government has made additional funding available⁶ with regards to the related provisions introduced for reserved elections through the 2022 Act. We anticipate that there will be similar expectation of the Welsh Government to also make funding available and this was raised during the consultation.

9.89 It is not possible to use the UK Government's funding formula for reserved elections in Wales as a clear guide to illustrate the comparative projected cost for each local authority in Wales. The UK Government table illustrates UK Government determined costs in relation to Voter ID and accessibility costs as a whole.⁷ We also note that any comparisons made would need to be adjusted to reflect up to date demand.

9.90 The guidance produced by the Electoral Commission in respect of reserved elections does not specify the purchase of specific costly equipment (beyond those already required). However, in exercising the proposed duties for ROs to support disabled people, there may be additional costs. An advantage of the proposed approach is that equipment already purchased for reserved elections could potentially be used to support disabled voters in Welsh elections and vice versa.

9.91 The below figures from the UK Government’s Elections Act New Burdens Methodology provides an illustrative cost of different types of equipment. As stated above, cost will be assessed when introducing the relevant subordinate legislation.

Table 9.9 – Costs of assistive equipment for voting

Equipment to be made available in all polling stations for UK elections (estimated costs per unit)	Estimated cost per unit
Pack of large pencils	£4.77
Pack of pencil grips	£4.75
‘Here to help’ badges for staff	£0.14
Magnifiers	£3.19
Chairs	£20.46
Equipment which should be considered:
Accessible Audio device*	£54.99
Headset*	£14.40
USB sticks*	£3.58
USB duplicator	£641.80
Text to voice software subscription (estimate)	£3.04

* For reserved elections it was estimated that 20% of polling stations in the UK would require this equipment⁸

Costs for Welsh Government

9.92 Costs arising from secondary legislation: It is anticipated that the Welsh Government will provide funding to local authorities for any additional burdens arising from these requirements. As highlighted above these costs will be determined when the secondary legislation is made. This would not cover the entirety of local government expenditure on accessibility measures for elections, some of which would be business as usual.

⁷ New Burdens Funding Allocations 22/23 and 23/24: voter ID, accessibility, training & contact centre costs \(England and Wales\) - GOV.UK \(www.gov.uk\)

9.93 We would not expect any additional costs to the Welsh Government for making secondary legislation as it was already due to be reviewed as part of business-as-usual activity.

9.94 We would expect to meet any costs of measures taken forward within existing budgets. The availability and nature of funding from 2025-26 onwards will need to be considered as part of our future budget planning.

Benefits

9.95 The principal benefit is ensuring the appropriate support is in place to enable disabled people to vote independently and in secret, by removing the barriers which might currently prevent them from being able to do so. This is in line with the Welsh Government's use of the social model of disability which tells us that individuals may have an impairment or difference, but it is society that disables them by the obstacles we put in their way. Using the Social Model requires that barriers are removed so that disabled people are able to participate fully.

9.96 The changes to secondary legislation mentioned would ensure that people with a wider range of impairments are supported in polling stations, improving accessibility in voting. The legislative steps also allow for a greater degree of flexibility in not specifying equipment and measures, ensuring the changes will cover emerging improved technology. Legislating for the Electoral Commission to provide guidance will ensure that the guidance can be consulted upon and updated as necessary.

9.97 The duty on the Electoral Commission in the Bill to report on the steps taken by returning officers to assist disabled voters would ensure returning officers are accountable.

9.98 There is also a potential indirect benefit to businesses supplying returning officers with the new equipment.

Preferred option

9.99 For the reasons set out above, Option 2 is the preferred option

Candidate Survey: Local government Elections

Background

- 9.100 The membership of Welsh local authorities does not currently reflect the communities it serves. The Welsh Government has introduced a number of initiatives to encourage people from underrepresented groups to consider standing for election. The candidate survey is intended to help build a picture of the characteristics of those standing for and being elected to local authorities and help develop policy in this area.
- 9.101 Part 1 of the Local Government (Wales) Measure 2011 introduced a duty on local authorities to monitor the equality and diversity of candidates in ordinary elections to principal and town and community councils. Section 1(1) and (2) requires a local authority to conduct a survey of councillors and unsuccessful candidates at ordinary elections to a county or county borough and to a town and community council.
- 9.102 Section 1 (3)(a) and (b) provide that the questions asked, the manner in which they are asked and how the information is collated is as prescribed in regulations.
- 9.103 Section 1(4) sets out the fields of questions which may be asked in the survey. The fields are - gender, sexual orientation, language, race, age, disability, religion or belief, health, education or qualification, employment and work as a councillor.
- 9.104 The questions and form of the survey are prescribed in the Local Election Survey (Wales) Regulations 2012 (“the 2012 Regulations”). These were amended by the Local Election Survey (Wales) (Amendment) Regulations 2016 and more recently The Local Election Survey (Wales) (Amendment) Regulations 2022.
- 9.105 This is an important survey, but often it competes for attention with other surveys from local authorities and the Electoral Commission, which taken together can be a source of survey fatigue. One way of reducing the number of surveys is to approach the candidate survey in two parts, specifying a core set of questions and enabling local authorities to add a limited number of questions in respect of local matters.
- 9.106 The Welsh Ministers want to retain an all-Wales approach to the survey but propose to remove the requirement for the survey to be prescribed within the regulations. This would allow greater flexibility for the survey to be taken forward on a national basis, with core questions for all local authorities and the flexibility for local questions to be asked.

Options

- 9.107 Two options have been considered:

Option 1 – Business as usual

Option 2 – Remove the need to prescribe the form and questions of the survey within regulations.

Option 1 – Business as usual

9.108 Option 1 would introduce no change. The form and questions for the review would continue to be prescribed through regulations, with new regulations required for any change in questions and form for each ordinary election.

Costs

9.109 Option 1 would introduce no additional costs

Benefits

9.110 Option 1 would introduce no additional benefits

Option 2 - Remove the need to prescribe the form and questions of the survey within regulations and replace with a direction.

9.111 Option 2 would remove the requirement for the form of the survey and the questions to be prescribed in regulations and as a result the need to make new regulations in advance of each ordinary election, which has been the experience to date. The form of the survey would instead be set out in a direction.

9.112 A process involving co-operation between principal councils, community and town councils, the Electoral Commission, Welsh Local Government Association, One Voice Wales and equality groups would be established in advance of each ordinary election to consider the form of the survey and the questions to be asked. A similar process of co-operation would also take place with Option 1, so this would not present any additional costs. Ministers would be able to amend / add / remove questions before final approval of the survey.

Costs

Costs to Welsh Government

9.113 There would be no additional costs to Welsh Government as the practice in recent years has already been to establish a group of partners to discuss changes to the survey and for Ministers to consider the proposed questions in advance of making new regulations. There will be opportunity cost savings as a result of not needing to make regulations, in 2026-27 and 2031-32.

Table 9.10 - Opportunity cost savings associated with not having to make regulations

Costs to local government

9.114 This option would introduce no additional costs as the duty placed on local authorities to conduct a survey will remain. While each local authority is free to conduct its own survey, for the last two surveys the Welsh Ministers have agreed to fund Data Cymru directly to undertake the survey on behalf of all local authorities. A similar option is expected to be available in the future. Providing local government with the option to add questions to the survey in connection with local initiatives taken forward in their areas does not entail any direct costs as it provides the individual organisations to use its discretion when considering whether or not to make use of this option. Any costs to an individual authority of adding a limited number of questions to the survey is considered to be minimal and is likely to be absorbed with the broader exercise.

Benefits

9.115 Option 2 will provide flexibility for both national and local questions to be asked within a single survey and potentially reduce the number of surveys issued to candidates to complete. It is hoped that this will increase the response rate and as a result provide a greater level of information about candidates to assess whether both national and local initiatives to encourage people from underrepresented groups to consider standing for election is having an impact. The information captured will also help inform future policy in this area.

Preferred Option

9.116 Option 1 maintains the status quo, will continue to require new regulations to be made in advance of each ordinary election without allowing for flexibility for local questions.

9.117 Option 2 would remove the requirement for new regulations to be made in advance of each ordinary election and would allow flexibility to have national core questions and local questions. Option 2 is the preferred option.

Welsh elections information platform

Background

9.118 We have considered what measures can be put in place to:

- ensure voters have access to the information they need to confidently take part in elections,
- how this information is best presented and by whom.

9.119 We know from research and stakeholder engagement that a lack of information is a barrier to participating in elections and the democratic process more generally. Feedback from the white paper reinforced the view that candidate statements will be used and valued by voters, but that there isn't currently a securely funded, reliable electronic platform to deliver this policy. Consultation responses suggested that the actual delivery of the platform would appropriately sit with an organisation external from the Welsh Government and the proposed EMB is the preferred host.

Options

Option 1 – Business as usual

9.120 For some elections, provision is made for the distribution of hard-copy election material to be sent to voters.

- For Senedd elections, the Welsh Government pays for each candidate to send one piece of election material to each registered elector in their constituency. For the 2021 Senedd election, cost of this exercise was around £6.6 million, subject to audit.
- For principal council elections in Wales, the cost of distributing election material to electors falls directly to political parties.
- For Combined Authority mayoral elections in England, there is provision for an election booklet to be posted to all electors (Schedule 5 of The Combined Authorities (Mayoral Elections) Order 2017). Candidates can have their statement in this booklet only after paying a 'reasonable sum' towards the costs of printing it, as determined by the returning officer.

9.121 Ahead of the Senedd and PCC elections in May 2021, the Electoral Commission produced and distributed a voter information booklet that was distributed to electors across Wales. The cost of this was £250,000.

Option 2 – Legislate to provide for a Welsh elections information platform

9.122 Placing a duty on Welsh Ministers to make regulations to deliver a Welsh elections information platform to support Welsh citizens to take part in democracy. The platform will centralise and simplify the provision of voter information for Welsh elections, providing an online platform to accommodate candidate statements and information, and support the principles of electoral reform promoting participation, improving the citizen experience, accessibility, and simplicity. Details of the platform will be set out in secondary legislation which will include who will carry out this function. The intention is that the Electoral Management Board will be charged with delivering this duty. Regulations will set out in detail what they will be required to deliver.

Costs and benefits

Option 1 – Business as usual

Costs

9.123 Senedd election accounts for 2021 show that the cost to provide voter information to every elector within the existing provisions cost around £6.6 million, subject to audit. This cost falls to the Welsh Government.

Benefits

9.124 The current system does provide for some election related material to be sent to electors ahead of Senedd elections.

Option 2 – Legislate to provide for a Welsh elections information platform

Costs

9.125 Since hard-copy election material will still be sent to electors ahead of elections, the costs identified under Option 1 will continue to be incurred in this option. The estimated additional cost of this option is based on information gathered during a pre-market engagement exercise with potential suppliers.

9.126 Costs are likely to fall into the following categories:

- a) Capacity/resource within the EMB. An exercise will need to be carried out to identify the appropriate capacity within the EMB to manage the work related to the information platform. However, we believe resourcing within the Commission would need to accommodate a contract/content manager (SEO FTE at £66,364 annual average gross cost), and business analyst (G7 FTE at £86,731 annual average gross cost). It is anticipated that these staff would also provide procurement support. It is likely the resource employed by the EMB will be utilised for work in addition to the voter information platform. This would balance against other staff capacity needed to deliver the platform, such as administration and communications.

b) Cost of third-party service provider to design and build the voter information platform. Cost will vary depending on platform design but based on pre-market engagement exercise we estimate an initial set up cost of £750,000 to £1m, this cost will be incurred in 2025-26. There will be an annual cost of £80,000 to £110,000 for maintenance and development starting in 2026-27. For the purposes of the RIA, we have taken a conservative approach and assumed costs will be at the upper end of these ranges.

9.127 The costs in the table below are best estimates relating to the development and maintenance of a minimum viable product – i.e. the development of a platform to host candidate statements. Additional functionality will need to be separately costed and will likely fall into Y2/Y3 spending. All costs are revenue costs.

Table 9.7 – Cost of Voter Information Platform

Activity	Y1 (2025-26)	Y2 (part of sponsorship of new LDBCW) (2026-27)	Y3 (part of sponsorship of new LDBCW) (2027-28 onwards)
Resource within EMB	£153,095	£153,095	£153,095
Third party service provider	£750,000 to £1million	£80,000 to £110,000	£80,000 to £110,000

*highest estimate

9.128 There are additional costs which could be incurred as the platform develops and looks to incorporate routinely published data that is currently held on EMS. Getting EMS software to talk to the platform so that it can aggregate data across Wales to present to voters is likely to require the building of APIs (Application Programme Interface) – these will provide a bridge between the EMS and the voter information platform. It is almost impossible to know the cost of API development as this will depend on several factors (e.g. complexity). It is not possible to calculate these costs.

9.129 However, in 2020-21 around £1.6million was paid to EMS providers to support the required changes to systems following the extension of the franchise. This figure is provided for illustrative purposes only, the actual costs are unknown at this stage and cannot be estimated due to the specialist nature of this work and commercial sensitivity.

Table 9.8. - Welsh Government staff costs of producing regulations in 2024-25

Benefits

9.131 A number of benefits could be realised if we legislate to provide a Welsh elections information platform.

9.132 Current legislation provides that at Senedd elections each candidate is able to send one piece of hard copy mail to each household or each elector in Wales. The Welsh Government provides funding for this through the Consolidated Fund as part of the costs of running Senedd elections in Wales. This does not apply for local government elections in Wales.

9.133 The Welsh Elections Information Platform will provide additional information for those electors at Senedd elections, allowing them to access information digitally and not just in hard copy print. This will help to improve engagement in elections by recognising that different groups access information through different means. For local government elections, the Welsh Elections Information Platform will provide a free platform to candidates to communicate with the electorate digitally. Hard copy communication will continue to follow the current regime where candidates and parties are free to communicate with the electorate but they must providing the funding for this themselves.

9.134 The provision of a platform similar to the model used in PCC elections will provide a single point of entry for electors wishing to better understand who is standing for election in their constituency. This offers benefits over the existing system which allows for candidates to send one piece of election material to each registered elector for a number of reasons, for example:

- Election material is often inaccessible by people with a visual impairment. An electronic platform will allow for accessibility using screen readers etc.
- Election material can be thrown away by the person in the household who typically sorts the post and could therefore be unavailable to other electors in the household.

- 9.135 An information platform could provide an opportunity for electors to find information that not only relates to candidates standing, but also information on casting their vote, the electoral system being used etc. This could help address any knowledge gap. Different groups in society choose and prefer to access information via different means. By providing an online voter information platform in addition to the current hard-copy election material, it is possible that engagement in elections could be improved.
- 9.136 election teams who answer frequently asked questions multiple times in the period building up to an election.

Preferred option

- 9.137 For the reasons set out above, the preferred option is Option 2 – Legislate to provide for a Welsh elections information platform.

Services to promote diversity in persons seeking elected office

Background

- 9.138 Creating a more equal Wales, where everyone has the opportunity to participate, reach their full potential and is able to contribute fully to the economy, will enable Wales to be more prosperous and innovative. The Welsh Government is committed to increasing diversity across all aspects of public life. This includes tackling the barriers which prevent individuals' active participation in local democracy through standing for elected office.
- 9.139 Disabled people are likely to face greater costs when seeking elected office due to their impairments. A pilot Access to Elected Office fund was established to provide additional support to disabled people to seek elected office. The pilot fund supported individuals seeking election in the May 2021 Senedd elections and the May 2022 local government elections. Because of changes made to the rules about spending limits for candidates, the funding provided through the pilot did not count towards the candidates' spending limits. As part of the approach a number of Access to Politics events were hosted to provide awareness about the support available and the timescales for applications.
- 9.140 The pilot fund which was delivered by Disability Wales and financed by the Welsh Government paid for practical support to allow disabled people to fully participate in the political process. The pilot attracted 21 applicants, with six elected to community councils.
- 9.141 An independent Review of the Access to Elected Office Fund Wales Pilot has been concluded and published. The report concludes the arrangements put in place were welcomed and valued by candidates and that there is clear support for the fund to be continued. As with any pilot there are lessons to learn. In this case key points included the limited amount of time the fund was available to candidates, the need for greater clarity about what support is available, and the need for greater awareness and promotion of the fund.

- 9.142 Our Programme for Government includes a commitment to extend the Fund to support for candidates from other underrepresented groups and socio-economic circumstances. Feedback from our research and engagement with stakeholders suggest a fund on its own may not deliver the desired outcome of increasing the diversity of candidates standing in devolved Welsh elections as other barriers to participation exist such as lack of knowledge and training.
- 9.143 On this basis the Bill includes a duty on the Welsh Ministers to put arrangements in place to promote diversity in the protected characteristics and socio-economic circumstances of persons seeking elected office. Schemes / initiatives put in place under this provision would be able to target support or services to a specific group of people or a number of groups.
- 9.144 The financial assistance for disabled candidates would be a mandatory scheme under this broader umbrella duty. It is intended that financial assistance for disabled candidates will be available for all Welsh ordinary and by elections, with detailed arrangements to be set out in regulations. The detailed arrangements to be developed in conjunction with stakeholders and interested parties. Schemes of financial assistance could also be put in place for groups with the other protected characteristics specified in the Bill.

Options

Option 1 – Business as usual. There is no legal requirement for a fund to be established and maintained to support underrepresented groups. Whether or not there is a fund in the future would be left to individual ministers to decide, creating uncertainty within underrepresented communities about whether support will be available when needed.

Option 2 – Legislate to place a duty on the Welsh Ministers to put arrangements in place to promote diversity in the protected characteristics and socio-economic circumstances of persons seeking elected office. Welsh Ministers would be required under this broad duty to establish and maintain a scheme of financial assistance for disabled candidates seeking elected office.

Costs

- 9.145 Option 1 – The budget allocated for the operation and management of the pilot fund, which included Senedd, principal, and community and town councils was:

- 2020-2021 - Preparation for fund - £50,000
- Management and allocation - £30,000
- 2021-2022 - Management and allocation - £86,000
- 2022-2023 - Wind up and review of fund - £20,000

9.146 It was not possible to determine how much funding would be required for third party recipient awards as this would depend on the number of applicants and the level of support required by each individual. An initial £120,000 was set aside for this purpose, which in the case of the local government pilot was in excess of what was required.

9.147 In respect of establishing a non-legislative future fund, which could support the individuals protected from all underrepresented groups, costs would be expected to be at least at the level of those indicated above but would depend on the detailed arrangements to support each underrepresented group. It is not possible to define costs at this stage, as they would be developed in collaboration with partners and interested parties.

Benefits

9.148 Option 1 would allow work to be continued in terms of establishing approaches to support individuals from underrepresented groups to stand for election in future local government elections. However, this would not be put on a legislative footing, individuals would not have assurance that assistance would be available for future elections. This uncertainty could impact on the numbers of candidates coming forward from under-represented groups.

9.149 Option 2 - to place a duty on the Welsh Ministers to put arrangements in place to promote diversity in the protected characteristics and socio-economic circumstances of persons seeking elected office. Welsh Ministers would be required under this broad duty to establish and maintain a financial assistance scheme for disabled candidates seeking elected office.

9.150 This option would place a duty on the Welsh Ministers to put arrangements in place to promote diversity in the protected characteristics and socio-economic circumstances of persons seeking elected office. Under this duty the Welsh Ministers would be required to establish and maintain a financial assistance scheme for disabled candidates seeking elected office with details to be set out in regulations. The Welsh Ministers would also have the power to make further regulations to support arrangements for candidates with other protected characteristics based on the particular needs of those groups. The arrangements would be developed in collaboration with partners and interested parties and would provide assurance to individuals that support would be available to assist them to stand for election. This would shift the debate to focus on detailed interventions.

Costs

9.151 There are no costs introduced through a power to require Welsh Ministers to establish and maintain a scheme of financial assistance for candidates with other protected characteristics. Any costs would arise from the arrangements put in place through regulations to support specific underrepresented groups. As such, the costs are unknown at this stage. A Regulatory Impact Assessment will be published alongside any Regulations, this will set out the anticipated costs and benefits of the proposed legislative changes. However, as an example, the costs and comments set out for Option 1 are likely to be similar to establishing arrangements to support disabled people to stand for election, as one strand of any new arrangements. Costs associated with other schemes / initiatives established under this duty would be considered as part of the development of arrangements. It is expected the Welsh Government will incur costs preparing regulations in 2025-26 to give full effect to the operation of the financial assistance scheme for disabled candidates.

Table 9.11 - Welsh Government staff costs of producing regulations relating to the financial assistance scheme for disabled candidates

Benefits

9.152 This option will provide a firm legal foundation upon which to build a series of arrangements to support underrepresented people to stand for election. As with costs, the benefits of any future arrangements will be set out when regulations are made. Feedback from the evaluation of the Pilot Fund for Disabled Candidates has reported that a number of individuals would not have been able to stand for election without the option of accessing the fund and benefitting from the resources available through it. The broader duty is expected to provide a range of support for other individuals by removing barriers for other under-represented groups enabling a more diverse group of individuals to participate fully in democracy by standing for election.

Preferred option

- 9.153 Option 1 while enabling work to continue to identify support arrangements, it will not provide the assurance individuals need that support will be available when needed.
- 9.154 Option 2 provides the comfort and certainty arrangements will be in place to support, individuals, that it will be codified and partners and interested parties will be part of the development of future arrangements. Option 2 is the preferred option.

Chapter 5 - Campaign Finance

Background

9.155 The existing regulatory framework governing the spending and funding (political finance) of candidates, political parties and third-party campaigners and other campaigners is contained within the RPA 1983 and PPERA. Part 4 of the UK Elections Act 2022 expanded and strengthened the law about political finance by:

- clarifying the rules on notional spending;
- strengthening the rules so that third-party spending is restricted to UK based entities and eligible overseas electors only during election campaigns; and
- increasing transparency around third-party campaigning.

9.156 It also made provision for changes to the registration of political parties and prohibits dual registration to prevent parties and campaigners from unfairly expanding their spending limits.

9.157 Registration of political parties is a reserved responsibility and so those changes applied to all elections. The provisions relating to notional spending, and those strengthening the rules around third-party spending apply only to reserved elections. As a result, in future there will be a difference in the political finance rules as they apply to reserved and Welsh elections in Wales. This has the potential to create voter confusion and administrative complexity for the electoral community.

Options

Option 1: Business as Usual - This option would maintain the current arrangements for political finance with regard to Welsh elections.

Option 2: Introduce legislation to replicate the provisions in Part 4 of the Elections Act 2022 in respect of Welsh elections, specifically notional expenditure, allowing authorised persons to make payments on behalf of a candidate or campaign, non-party campaigning and expand the Electoral Commission's ability to prepare codes of practice in connection with these matters.

Option 1: Business as usual

Costs

9.158 This is the baseline option and, as such, there are no additional costs associated with it. However, changes made in the Elections Act 2022 mean maintaining the status quo for Welsh elections will likely increase costs for candidates, political parties, and non-party campaigners as they will need to comply with two different political finance systems, adding cost and further complexity.

Benefits

9.159 There are no benefits to maintaining the status quo. Candidates, political parties and non-party campaigners will already need to adjust to the changes included in campaign financing which arise from the Elections Act 2022. Campaigners would have to plan and account for their spending differently for Welsh and reserved elections, even if they had undertaken the same kind of activity across both.

Option 2: Introduce legislation to replicate the provisions in Part 4 of the Elections Act 2022 in relation to Welsh elections.

Costs

9.160 The two legislative vehicles which will need to be utilised to fully introduce these changes are the Elections and Elected Bodies (Wales) Bill and legislation to replace the National Assembly (Representation of the People) Order 2007, which contains detailed provision for Senedd elections. Costs for those provisions in the Bill only are included here. A separate analysis on the costs of the provisions that will need to be included in legislation replacing the National Assembly (Representation of the People) Order 2007 will be submitted when that legislation is laid before the Senedd. Provisions included in the Bill are:

- clarification of the law in relation to local government elections so candidates and agents will be liable for notional expenditure in for local elections only when that expenditure is directed or authorised by them. Specify that registered parties and third parties are liable for notional expenditure during regulated periods of Senedd elections only when that expenditure is directed or authorised by them;
- restrict which third parties can incur expenditure over a £700 de minimis threshold during regulated periods of standalone Senedd elections;
- allow Welsh Ministers to amend the list of third party who can incur such expenditure during regulated periods of standalone Senedd elections on the Electoral Commission's advice;
- remove the requirement that election expenses incurred by a candidate at local elections may only be paid through the electoral agent;
- the Electoral Commission will be enabled to produce guidance for campaigners on all expenses for local elections;
- require the Electoral Commission to produce a code of practice on third party expenditure during regulated periods of standalone Senedd elections.

9.161 In relation to campaign finance, this RIA is consistent with any impacts identified in the Elections Act 2022 for a number of reasons. The changes are replicating those first introduced in the Elections Act 2022. In addition, as policing and justice are both non-devolved issues, the impact assessment for the Elections Act contains the most accurate assessments of any impact the changes may have on those areas.

Notional Expenditure, Guidance and Code of Practice

Costs to Electoral Commission:

9.162 The impact assessment for the Elections Act 2022 suggested that the primary cost associated with the clarification of this measure would be the cost to the EC for updating its guidance for the wider stakeholders affected by this policy, although data on the cost of amending this guidance was limited and difficult to accurately quantify. However, the work already carried out by the EC to update the guidance in respect of this change will likely be replicated for Welsh elections and should incur minimal additional costs, which would form part of normal business as usual activities. These costs have not been quantified.

Restrict which third parties can incur expenditure over a £700 de minimis threshold during regulated periods of standalone Senedd elections.

Cost to the Electoral Commission

9.163 Restricting third-party campaigning to UK-based entities could potentially increase the regulatory functions costs for the EC, which includes registering and advising campaigners. According to the EC, there were 11 third-party offences since April 2018, which represents around 5% of third parties that have been registered in that time.

9.164 There is limited available evidence on the number of possible third-party campaigners who are not currently registered but will be impacted by this proposal. However, it is likely that the introduction of this policy will increase the EC's need to provide advice. The impact assessment of the Elections Act 2022 suggested that, in light of the limited data on how many additional staff may be required as a result of this policy, it is not possible to accurately quantify this cost due to the limited available evidence. This cost is therefore unknown at this stage.

Costs to policing and the wider criminal justice system

9.165 Existing offences concerned with incurring third-party expenditure when it is prohibited (e.g. spending more than the registration thresholds without being registered) can be resolved by either civil or criminal means. In practice, the EC generally resolves such offences themselves and overseeing enforcement of rules against foreign spending is already required in respect of the existing third-party campaigner registration thresholds. The impact assessments for the Elections Act 2022 suggests that in respect of reserved elections any increase in these offences could increase the costs for the police, the wider justice system, where they are passed on by the EC. Also, that it would be difficult to quantify this due to the limited available evidence on spending by foreign entities. This is also true where we are replicating the provisions in the Elections and Elected Bodies (Wales) Bill.

9.166 As a proxy for giving further consideration to what the impact on policing and the wider justice system may be consideration has been given to the broad spectrum third-party spending offences committed in recent years in Wales.

9.167 There have been no prosecuted third party spending offences in Wales or allegations raised since 2017 (earliest date for published data). For this reason and in the absence of any contradictory evidence in the Elections Act 2022 impact assessments we would anticipate there to be no or negligible impact on police and justice in Wales. Our best estimate is therefore that there is zero additional cost.

Potential increase in fine costs for campaigners

9.168 The introduction of this lower de minimis level of spending could increase fine costs for campaigners if the number of offences increase, however data on this is limited. The levels of fines can vary, but the penalty cap for civil sanctions ranges from between £5,000 and £20,000 for some offences relating to third-party campaigner registration. All fines are based on an individual case-by-case basis, and therefore it is difficult to accurately quantify. In any case, these costs would be disregarded for the purposes of the RIA because they would only be incurred as a result of illegal activity.

Benefits

9.169 Whenever there is policy alignment, we want a clear and consistent regulatory framework for both reserved and Welsh elections in Wales as far as possible. We consider that this would be beneficial for voters, candidates and campaigners. Operating two different systems in this instance would not be desirable. Therefore, where appropriate, we propose to introduce equivalent provisions in respect of Welsh elections.

9.170 Providing clarity around notional expenditure will lead to a greater understanding for all candidates, their agents, political parties and other campaigners. This will ensure that the candidates and their agents will have more confidence that they are not subject to a legal risk that they cannot control.

9.171 The legislation will increase the transparency of third-party campaigning and ensure all third-party campaigning is undertaken by those individuals and groups with legitimate interest in UK elections. There is minimal regulation to avoid excessive burdens on low spending third-party campaigners.

Preferred option

9.172 For the reasons set out above, the preferred option is Option 2: Introduce legislation to replicate the provisions in Part 4 of the Elections Act 2022 in relation to Welsh elections.

Part 2 - Elected Bodies and their Members

Chapter 1 – Arrangements for Local Government

Background

9.173 Part 3 of the Local Government (Democracy) (Wales) Act 2013 (the 2013 Act) describes the types of review of local government areas and arrangements that may be conducted and details the procedure which is to be followed in conducting a review. It also deals with the manner in which any recommendations made as a result of the review are to be implemented.

9.174 In particular, section 29(1) and (2) of the 2013 Act requires the Commission to undertake an electoral review of each principal area's electoral arrangements at least once every ten years and to prepare and publish a programme for conducting all of those reviews.

9.175 Section 22 of the 2013 Act requires principal councils to monitor the community areas and their electoral arrangements in its area. In doing so the council must have regard to the 10-year programme of electoral reviews published by the Commission and any directions issued to the council by the Welsh Ministers.

9.176 The 2017 programme of reviews concluded in 2021 and made a number of changes to the electoral arrangements across Wales. Welsh Ministers committed to reflect on the current arrangements for reviews, listen to feedback from others and identify opportunities for improvement.

9.177 As a result of a series of discussions with those involved in the review process and feedback received during the review process Welsh Ministers have proposed a package of measures to build upon and strengthen the arrangements for both electoral and community reviews.

9.178 The proposed changes will:

- address concerns expressed about the time taken to complete reviews and make decisions about recommendations contained in review reports by specifying timescales for each of these elements.
- expand the nature of the matters to be considered by the Commission and principal councils when developing recommendations to change the electoral arrangements for principal areas and communities. In addition, together with the existing criteria, the Commission will be required to undertake a rounded assessment of all the criteria when determining whether the number of councillors should be the same for each electoral ward in a principal council's area.
- Provide direction making powers for Welsh Ministers to pause a review. This would provide flexibility in circumstances such as those experienced in the pandemic, periods of flooding or changes to the date of an ordinary election.

- Increase the transparency of the process for determining electoral ward names in Welsh and English and enable greater engagement with members of the public in the area affected by the review.

9.179 Welsh Ministers consider these provisions, as a package of measures, represent a significant strengthening of the arrangements placed on the Commission and principal councils requiring them to deliver effective and convenient local government.

Options

9.180 For the purposes of this RIA, two options have been considered for this proposal.

Option 1 - Business as usual

Option 2 - Changes to the arrangements for electoral and community reviews

Option 1 Business as usual

9.181 This option would maintain the status quo. It would mean the arrangements for electoral and community reviews would continue as currently and the concerns raised both during and at the conclusion of the 2017 programme of reviews are not addressed.

Costs

Costs to Welsh Government, the Commission and local government

9.182 This option would not introduce any additional costs. However, the benefits of building on, and improving the current arrangements would not be realised. The opportunities to strengthen effective and convenient government would be missed and would result in the concerns raised as a result of the recent 2017 programme of reviews being repeated in future review programmes.

Benefits

9.183 This option would not deliver any benefits.

Option 2 - Changes to the arrangements for electoral and community reviews

9.184 This option would introduce a package of measures to address concerns raised by those involved in the review process and by members of the public through correspondence and petitions.

9.185 It would improve the timeliness of reviews, strengthen the consultation arrangements, provide greater clarity of purpose about aspects of the process and increase flexibility to manage the arrangements in light of prevailing circumstance such as the recent pandemic. Taken together the following measures are designed to strengthen the current arrangements.

9.186 The following changes to the 2013 Act are therefore proposed:

- Change the length of a cycle of reviews from 10 to 12 years
- amend the period during which the Commission is not able to make or publish recommendations from nine to twelve months.
- Introduce new provision to prevent Welsh Ministers making an electoral arrangements order within the six months period preceding an ordinary local government election.
- amend section 37 of the 2013 Act to an opportunity for representations to be made to Welsh Ministers rather than the Commission in respect of the final recommendations contained within a final report.
- Introduce time limits for reviews from start to submission of final recommendations so that reviews of principal area boundaries, preserved counties and electoral arrangements for a principal area should be no more than 12 months in length, the timetable for reviews of seaward boundaries should be no more than 18 months in length and community boundary reviews and electoral arrangements for communities should be no more than 24 months.
- Introduce new provision to require Welsh Ministers, to use their best endeavours, to make a decision, within three months of receiving the final report from the Commission. In the case of community reviews the Order making body is required to make a decision within three months of receipt of the final recommendations.
- Expand the number of things to be considered when developing recommendations, to include items such as the geographical size, shape and accessibility of an electoral ward and maintaining local ties. These expanded criteria to apply to community reviews as well as electoral reviews.
- Addition of powers for Welsh Ministers to direct the Commission to pause a review.
- Strengthen the arrangements for consultation by expanding the list of mandatory consultees to include further bodies including the Welsh Language Commissioner, National Park authorities and Port Health authorities.
- Clarify the requirement for principal councils to undertake a full community once in every review period.
- Require the Commission to specify both Welsh and English ward names in the Welsh and English versions of its reports.

Costs

Cost to Welsh Government

9.187 The main requirements for electoral and community reviews remain as at present. The improvements contained within the proposal are not expected to add significant costs throughout the processes. However, there will be opportunity costs associated with the production of guidance to support both the Commission and principal councils. The costs associated with the production of the guidance is set out in the table below. It is expected to be incurred 2024-25.

Table 9.12 – Costs of the Production of Guidance on electoral and community reviews.

Cost to the Commission

9.188 The main requirements for electoral and community reviews remain as at present. The improvements contained within this proposal are not expected to add significant costs throughout the process. As now costs associated with community reviews can be recouped from the appropriate principal council. However, we do anticipate additional costs for advertising to facilitate strengthening the consultation process to support these provisions. We expect this to be in the region of £3,500 to £5,500 in the years when reviews will be undertaken (2024-25, 2025-26, 2027-28 and 2030-31).

Cost to local government

9.189 The expectation for each principal council in respect of electoral and community reviews was set out in the 2013 Act. We do not anticipate any significant additional costs for local government as a result of these proposals. However, we anticipate the requirement to produce an annual report to Council each year and the wider consultation requirements associated with the provisions, will have small additional recurrent costs. We anticipate this would amount to one day per year for an Electoral Services Manager and two days per year for an electoral administrator for each council. This equates to an annual opportunity cost of £14,200 across Wales, starting in 2024-25 (estimated on the assumption of salary costs being equivalent to Welsh Government G7 and EO respectively). We also anticipate small transitional costs for activities such as staff training of approximately £2,000 per local authority in 2024-25, totalling £44,000.

Table 9.13 – Local government staff costs for electoral and community reviews.

Staff costs	Annual salary plus on costs (£)	Daily cost (£)	Days required	Total (£) (rounded)
Electoral Services Manager	86,731	334	22	7,348
Electoral Administrator	40,504	156	44	6,864
			Total	14,200

Benefits

Benefits to local government

9.190 The measures introduced through this proposal will allow for a greater degree of planning between the Commission and local government. This will ensure all parties are clear when each review will commence and finish and will therefore assist in the allocation and management of resources to support the reviews.

9.191 The inclusion of the provision prohibiting Welsh Ministers from making Orders during the six months prior to an ordinary election will provide assurance to principal councils that they can proceed with preparations for their elections knowing there will be no change.

9.192 The introduction of additional criteria to be considered when undertaking reviews will enable recommendations to better reflect local circumstances and improve the arrangements for effective and convenient local government.

Benefits to others

9.193 The measures in this proposal will ensure all recommendations are consulted upon, with greater emphasis on ensuring voters are aware of and have the opportunity on recommendations about the areas in which they live.

9.194 This proposal will strengthen local democracy and accountability and is intended to generate greater trust between local government and local citizens.

Preferred Option

9.195 Option 1 would maintain the status quo. The opportunities to strengthen arrangements would be lost and those who raised concerns about the current arrangements would be left feeling that their voices were not heard or acted upon.

9.196 Option 2 will strengthen the current arrangements, provide greater opportunities for planning review programmes and as a result resource allocation. It will also provide a greater focus on ensuring voters have the opportunity to be fully engaged in the process, with the confidence that they have been consulted on all recommendations. It will enable arrangements that better reflect effective and convenient local government.

9.197 Option 2 is the preferred option.

Background

9.198 Section 28 of the 2013 Act makes provision for the Commission to review the seaward boundaries of local government areas (and preserved counties), while section 46 sets out the extent to which parts of the seashore and projections from the seashore (whether natural or artificial) form part of the community and county bordering on the shore.

9.199 The provisions were carried forward from the Local Government Act 1972 and were made before the advent of the possibility of developments such as tidal lagoons. It is likely that Wales could see more proposals for such developments, and it is important the legislation relating to seaward boundaries is considered in terms of its fitness for purpose to accommodate such developments, which might span the seaward boundaries of multiple local government areas or require an area's or areas' seaward boundary to be extended and then contracted to provide for construction.

9.200 The White Paper proposed a change to the provision of the 2013 Act to enable the Commission to review the undersea boundaries of more than one local authority area when it is conducting a review under section 28.

Options

Option 1 – Business as usual

Option 2 – Amend the legislation to make clear that a Seaward Boundary Review may include consideration of undersea boundaries of multiple local authority areas.

Option 1 – Business as usual

9.201 Option 1 proposes no change to the status quo. This option would entail no change from current arrangements and there would continue to be confusion and ambiguity about the number of local authority areas could be considered as part of a single review.

Costs

Costs to Welsh Government, Local Government and the Commission

9.202 Option 1 would introduce no additional costs to the Welsh Government, Local Government or the Commission.

Benefits

Benefits to Welsh Government, Local Government and the Commission

9.203 Option 1 would introduce no additional benefits. Consideration of seaward boundary reviews would continue as at present.

Option 2 - Amend the legislation to make clear that a Seaward Boundary Review may include consideration of undersea boundaries of multiple local authority areas.

9.204 This option would insert a new subsection (3) into section 28 of the 2013 Act, which clarifies that the Commission is able to review the undersea boundaries of more than one local authority area when it is conducting a review under section 28.

Costs

Costs to Welsh Government, Local Government and the Commission

9.205 Option 2 would introduce no additional costs to the Welsh Government, local government or the Commission. The Commission has confirmed this reflects what already happens and that no additional costs would be incurred. In reality this change is to ensure there is a collective understanding of the scope of the provision.

Benefits

Benefits to Welsh Government, Local Government and the Commission

9.206 This option provides clarity about the scope of seaward boundary reviews and enables reviews to consider multiple undersea boundaries where appropriate.

Preferred Option

9.207 Option 1 proposes no change from the status quo.

9.208 Option 2 is the preferred option because it clarifies the scope of Seaward Boundary Reviews and provides flexibility to include more than one local authority undersea boundaries where appropriate.

Chapter 2 - Remuneration of Elected Members

Background

9.209 The Independent Remuneration Panel for Wales (the Panel) is the independent body whose principal function is to make determinations on the salaries and payments principal councils, community councils, fire and rescue authorities and National Park authorities make to their elected members. Its current powers also include making recommendations on any proposed changes to the salaries of the chief executives of principal councils.

9.210 In 2021 an independent Ten-Year review of the Panel was undertaken to establish whether the organisation remains fit for purpose and good value to the public purse. One of the recommendations was to reconsider the existing arrangements for the secretariat support to the Panel and consider whether an independent Welsh body with a similar agenda could provide secretariat support rather than the Welsh Government.

9.211 Following consideration of independent Welsh Bodies, the commonalities, and dependencies between the work of the Panel and the Commission were highlighted, and the potential to bring together the functions of the two bodies into one body was also considered.

9.212 The Welsh Ministers agreed with the recommendation that secretariat support for the Panel should be provided by a body other than the Welsh Government, which would reinforce the independence of the Panel's operation.

9.213 The Commission is considered to have the closest fit, as it is independent, a body corporate, and has an effective internal secretariat function headed by a chief executive. The Commission draws on the same evidence base and stakeholders to undertake its work and its purpose is also rooted in promoting effective local democracy.

9.214 In reality there is already a symbiotic relationship between the work of the two organisations. Both agendas rely on having a real understanding and appreciation of the needs of the population, the way elected members and councils operate and the impact of these issues on elected members' workloads.

9.215 On this basis, as part of the White Paper consultation, the Welsh Ministers proposed the transfer of the Panel's functions to the Commission and as a result the dissolution of the Panel. There was broad support for this proposal.

9.216 This Bill is proposed as the vehicle to enable this change. The Bill would mean the same set of Commissioners would determine the numbers of councillors across Wales, their electoral arrangements, and their remuneration.

9.217 In making these changes, the Welsh Ministers propose not to confer the Panel's functions in section 143A of the Local Government (Wales) Measure 2011 (the Measure) relating to the remuneration of principal council chief executives. This function will cease to exist. Remuneration of all officers is an integral part of the employer / employee relationship and councils themselves should be accountable to their electorate for the decisions they make in this regard.

9.218 The Bill would introduce a new function enabling the Commission to set out a scheme of resettlement payments for councillors who stand for re-election but are not returned to their seat. The Welsh Ministers would, by regulations, determine the relevant councillors eligible for the scheme.

Options

9.219 Two options have been considered:

Option 1: Business as usual.

Option 2: Conferring of functions from the Independent Remuneration Panel for Wales to the Commission and the dissolution of the Panel.

9.220 Option 1 would result in no change. While the Panel could proceed with a number of the non-legislative improvements proposed by the Ten year review a key recommendation, that the secretariat be provided by a body external to Welsh Government, would not be addressed.

Costs

Costs to the Welsh Government, the Panel and local government

9.221 Option 1 would introduce no additional costs.

Benefits

Benefits to the Welsh Government, the Panel and local government

9.222 Option 1 would introduce no additional benefits.

Option 2: Conferring of functions from the Independent Remuneration Panel for Wales to the Commission and the dissolution of the Panel

9.223 Option 2 would see Part 8 of the Local Government (Wales) Measure 2011 (the 2011 Measure) repealed. The Panel's functions (and its functions in relation to voluntary mergers and other restructuring set out in the Local Government and Elections (Wales) Act 2021) would be incorporated into the Commission's functions and operating arrangements as currently set out in the Local Government (Democracy)(Wales) Act 2013

9.224 In terms of membership, Schedule 2 to the 2011 Measure currently provides that the Panel consists of not fewer than 3, and not more than 7, members appointed by the Welsh Ministers. There are currently 5 members of the Panel, including the Chair. The Commission currently has 5 members. In line with the current guidance, members of the Commission and the Panel are remunerated at different levels. It is not intended that the Commission operate on the basis of the combined number of members i.e. 12. Given the overlap of the functions and the ability to effectively programme workloads, it is proposed the Commission operates on the basis of eight members (this is expected to rise to nine on the basis of the functions to transfer to the Commission as a result of Senedd Reform. The costs associated with this are included in the supporting documents to the Senedd Cymru (Members and Elections) Bill).

Costs to the Welsh Government

9.225 Option 2 is not expected to introduce significant costs to the Welsh Government, there are however expected to be some costs associated with the production of guidance to support the Commission and local government. The costs associated with the production of guidance is set out in the table below. The costs are expected to be incurred during 2024-25.

Table 9.14 – Costs of producing guidance for the Commission.

Staff costs (opportunity costs)	Annual salary plus on costs (£)	Daily cost (rounded) (£)	Days required	Total (rounded) (£)
Grade 7	86,731	334	5	1,670
EO	40,504	156	10	1,560
Lawyer (Grade 7)	86,731	334	5	1,670
Translation (SEO)	66,364	255	5	1,275
			Total	6,200

9.226 There would also be some transfers of funding from the Welsh Government, which would not result in any additional costs. These are set out below under Costs to the Commission.

Costs to the Commission

9.227 Option 2 will require the Commission to revisit its staffing structure to establish the optimum structure to deliver these functions which would be met by the Welsh Government. This is made up as follows:

9.228 It is expected the Panel's current annual running budget of £60,000 will transfer to the Commission. This budget was increased from £50,000 to £60,000 in 2023/2024 to take enable research and engagement and preparatory work for the transfer of functions. It is anticipated, subject to the budget process this additional £10,000 would continue to be provided in 2024/2025, with the full £60,000 being consolidated into the Commission's allocation from 2025/2026. This would also cover other costs currently provided by the Welsh Government such as hosting of the Panel's website, translation and other incidental costs.

9.229 The Welsh Government will transfer a further £80,000 to the Commission, which is the cost of the current secretariat support provided by Welsh Government staff. This additional cost would be met by the Welsh Government, however it would be offset by equivalent opportunity cost savings for the staff time currently spent on the secretariat function. Therefore, this element would be cost neutral.

9.230 The Welsh Government will continue to work with the Commission to ensure sufficient resources and capacity to meet these functions. These estimates are based on the best available information.

Cost to local government

9.231 Option 2 is not expected to introduce any material, recurrent additional cost to local government.

Benefits

Benefits to the Commission and local government

9.232 Option 2 – In order to determine the appropriate arrangements and levels of remuneration for elected members, the Panel must gather evidence to understand the workload of elected members and how the nature of the workload changes depending on a range of factors. This includes the demographics of the electorate in a council area, the socio-economic circumstances of the wards and the extent to which the population is transient. The Bill will ensure more effective arrangements are in place across a range of issues including timing and duration of reviews, enabling greater joint planning of review programmes. It will enable research commissioned to consider the broader aspects of boundaries and the number of elected members and consider how different issues such as rurality and deprivation, for example, impact on the arrangements for an area.

9.233 The Commission sets the ratio of elected members to electors. It does this by attempting to ensure the ratio of elected members to electors is as near the same for all areas within a county/county borough area. It can be argued it is likely that this, essentially numerical exercise it not sufficient to reflect the differences in communities and far from considering the differences in workloads of elected members, it generalises the issues to one of numerical balance regardless of the prevailing circumstances in any or all communities. However, recent experience from the 22 electoral reviews tells us this is far from the case and feedback from those processes was that the Commission should be building into its methodology the very same factors mentioned above in relation to the work of the Panel.

9.234 The Bill provides for a greater recognition of the factors affecting individual areas and enables the Commission and local government to work together to identify issues that need to be considered.

Preferred Option

9.235 Option 1 would retain the status quo. Both organisations would continue to operate separately and miss the opportunities for a holistic approach informing more rounded policies.

9.236 Option 2 – would build on the synergies that underpin the full set of functions, capitalise on exploring dependencies between councillors, workload capacity and electoral arrangements. This will lead to more rounded policy. This is the preferred option.

Chapter 3 - Disqualification and Undue Influence

Disqualification

9.237 Within the White Paper, we set out proposals to disqualify town and community councillors from serving as Members of the Senedd, bringing arrangements into line with the disqualification regime for principal council members in Wales. We also asked whether the existing grace periods for Members of Senedd also serving as principal councillors should be retained. The purpose is to support fairness, equality and accountability of the Senedd and local government.

9.238 Responses to the White Paper were strongly supportive of the first proposal. On the second question, a majority supported retaining the grace period, however for some respondents that was on the condition of local and Senedd election cycles remaining the same. Also, a number of respondents raised the importance of consistency of rules across different tiers of government.

9.239 Taking account of the responses, the Welsh Government intends to take forward the following measures in the Bill:

- a) prevention of the dual membership of the Senedd and community councils (which includes town and community councils) in Wales by disqualifying community councillors in Wales from serving as Members of the Senedd, bringing the arrangements for community councillors into line with the disqualification regime for principal councillors (members of the council of a county or county borough) in Wales;
- b) the removal of the existing “grace period” for principal councillors elected to the Senedd where the expected day of the next ordinary election of members of the council is within the period of 372 days beginning with return day;
- c) the removal of the existing “grace period” for Members of the Senedd elected as principal councillors where the expected day of the next general election of Members of the Senedd is within the period of 372 days beginning with the return day; and
- d) the removal of the existing “grace period” for a Member of the Senedd returned as a Member of the House of Commons where the expected day of the next general election of Members of the Senedd is within the period of 372 days beginning with the return day.

9.240 Two options are being considered for this RIA:

Option 1 – Business as usual: The current arrangements would continue.

Option 2 – Introduce legislation to implement the changes outlined above. Provisions in the Bill would make amendments to the Government of Wales Act 2006 in order to enact the changes outlined above.

Costs and benefits

Option 1 – Business as usual

9.241 No additional costs or benefits identified.

Option 2 – Introduce legislation to implement the changes.

Costs

Costs to the Electoral Commission

9.242 There would be a need for the Electoral Commission to update guidance in light of the new arrangements, however we anticipate this would be within business as usual activity and therefore would be cost neutral.

Costs to local government

9.243 The changes in arrangements could potentially lead to more local government by-elections for which there would be an additional cost. It is not possible to estimate these costs, due to uncertainty around likelihood of different scenarios, however they would likely be negligible. There could potentially be vacancies in community councils, in the event the member is required to stand down if they are also elected to the Senedd. However, in practice, it is not a common occurrence for Members of the Senedd to also serve as community councillors. Based on the information publicly available in the Senedd Register of Members' Interests, it appears that one Member of the Senedd is currently also a Community Councillor. Also, community councils would likely co-opt new community councillors in such scenarios rather than holding a by-election. In the scenario where a principal councillor gives up their council seat, where, under current arrangements they would have kept two roles during the grace period, this could lead to increased costs for holding a by-election if one is required. These costs would be general costs of administering a by-election, for example costs of poll cards, polling stations, the count, etc. It is not possible to predict how often this scenario would occur, therefore we have not estimated costs for this and the costs are unknown. But we would not anticipate that this would lead to significant additional costs for local government. These changes will come into effect for the purposes of a Senedd election held on or after 5 April 2026.

Benefits

9.244 The proposed changes to the current disqualification regime for local councillors in Wales would benefit local democracy in Wales by making the election process more equitable. This would bring parity in arrangements for community councillors and principal councillors. This would address concerns that have been raised about time commitments of holding dual posts and potential conflicts of interest. This is because the Senedd has a key role in matters impacting on community councils. It is also clear that a community councillor who is also a Senedd member would have far greater access to decision making that impacts on community councils than community councillors who are not members of the Senedd.

9.245 Similar benefits would arise from removing the grace periods during which principal councillors are also able to serve as Members of the Senedd and Members of Senedd are also able to serve as principal councillors or members of the House of Commons, ensuring that the potential benefits are realised immediately, rather than after the grace period.

Local government

9.246 There would be greater fairness between principal councils and community councils, by removing the advantage that some may have from their members being Members of the Senedd. There could potentially be cost savings in terms of councils no longer needing to remunerate councillors for the “grace period”, if they chose to give up their council seat. However, it is not possible to accurately quantify what these savings might be, and they are therefore unknown.

Preferred Option

9.247 Given the benefits set out above, Option 2 is the preferred option.

Undue influence

Background

9.248 Undue influence is the electoral offence where an individual seeks to apply pressure to force an elector to not vote or vote in a way they would not have done if pressure had not been applied.

9.249 The electoral offence of undue influence in relation to local government elections in Wales is defined in section 115 of the RPA 83 and, in relation to Senedd elections, in Article 81 of the National Assembly for Wales (Representation of the People) Order 2007. It is one of the historic electoral offences, alongside bribery and treating.

9.250 A number of reports (e.g. Electoral Commission, Parliamentary Committees) recommended the offence should be redrafted and modernised.

9.251 Work was subsequently taken forward by the UK Government to strengthen and modernise the language of the offence with amended provisions added to the Elections Act 2022. This definition currently only applies to reserved elections.

- 9.252 The Elections Act 2022 new definition of the offence in respect of reserved elections is particularly strengthened in regard to damage to a person's reputation and intent. The previous definition, where there was more of a focus on physical harm, did not exclude reputational damage specifically but in the new definition there is equal provision given to it.
- 9.253 The new definition for reserved elections is further improved by clarifying the importance of 'intent' in the commission of the offence. The phrase "for the purpose of" in new section outlining the elements of the offence, demonstrates that the intent of the person carrying out the activity is key. To be guilty of undue influence it is enough to establish an intent to unduly influence a person, even if the activity was not actually successful in this regard.
- 9.254 Officials have considered the strengthened language describing the offence of undue influence (now included in section 114A of RPA 83 for reserved elections) and propose extending the changes made by the Elections Act 2022 so that they apply to Welsh elections.

Costs and benefits

Option 1 – Business as usual

- 9.255 The existing definition of undue influence would be maintained for Welsh elections.
- 9.256 No monetised costs or benefits expected. In line with the approach taken by the Elections Act 2022 Impact Assessments an estimate of the current monitoring and enforcement costs of the undue influence offence has not been included as there is no data on how much is expended on this particular offence. As this option would be maintaining the status quo there would be no need for the Electoral Commission to update current guidance for electoral administrators and polling station staff or to update the Code of Conduct for campaigners.

Option 2 – Introduce legislation to strengthen and modernise the definition of the electoral offence of Undue Influence, extending the language provided by section 114A of the Representation of the People Act 1983 so that it applies to Welsh Elections.

Costs

Increased monitoring and enforcement costs

- 9.257 Clarifying the law on undue influence will make it clearer when the corrupt practice has occurred. The main beneficiaries of the updated legislation will be electors and police and prosecutors who are required to consider whether undue influence has been committed when an accusation is made. The clarified language of the redrafted offence will provide disincentives to those who would seek to apply undue pressure to an elector but will also ensure the offence will be more straightforward to prosecute should cases be brought forward.

9.258 The Elections Act 2022 Impact Assessments suggested any increase in cases of undue influence could translate into an increase in costs for the police, courts system and prosecutors. However, the Impact Assessments also acknowledged the number of reserved elections where such enforcement would be required would be low.

9.259 With respect to Welsh elections, there is expected to be no increase in cases or a low number of cases. Cases across the UK are already low and even less so at Welsh elections. (The table below sets out the number of cases at recent elections). Since 2013, the Electoral Commission electoral fraud data indicates that of four possible cases which could have been prosecuted, three resulted in no action and there is no data available on the fourth.

Table 9.15 – Cases of Undue Influence offences in recent elections

Year	Number of UI accusations	Election Type	Outcomes
2013	3	Local elections in Wales	No further action:2 Data unavailable:1
2021	1	Senedd election	No further action

9.260 If the clearer legislation were to result in more cases of undue influence being prosecuted that may also lead to more election petitions challenging the election results as well as successful prosecutions of instances of undue influence.

9.261 In line with the approach taken by the Elections Act 2022 Impact Assessments, these costs have not been monetised as there is no data on how much relevant bodies spend on monitoring and enforcement, relating to undue influence. Similarly, there is no data to indicate how many additional prosecutions there will be as we do not know how many allegations / election petitions would have led to further action, had the law been clearer at the time. These costs are therefore unknown at this stage.

Costs to the Electoral Commission

9.262 The Electoral Commission will need to update its guidance for electoral administrators and polling station staff, setting out what is and what is not allowed at polling stations. The Code of Conduct for campaigners on what should be considered when campaigning outside polling stations will also need to be updated. The Electoral Commission’s public awareness campaigns will also need to be updated with information to electors on undue influence. However, as the Electoral Commission will already be making these changes in respect of the new description of undue influence included in the Elections Act 2022 there should be no additional costs arising as the language of the offence will be once again identical for reserved and Welsh elections.

Benefits

9.263 Strengthening legislation around undue influence could reduce the incidence of elector intimidation. The improved language of the offence will enable police and prosecutors to have increased confidence in applying the clarified legislation in operational situations.

9.264 Whenever there is policy alignment, we want a clear and consistent regulatory framework for both reserved and Welsh elections in Wales as far as possible. We consider that this would be beneficial for voters, candidates and campaigners. Operating two different systems in this instance would not be desirable. Therefore, where appropriate, we propose to introduce equivalent provisions in respect of Welsh elections in Wales.

9.265 Lower incidence of undue influence and intimidation of electors may increase turnout, as people are likely to feel more comfortable to freely vote and participate in elections. Ensuring the undue influence offence properly reflects the range of activities that can be used to deter electors from voting or cause them to change their vote will provide clarity and credibility for voters in relation to Welsh elections.

Preferred Option

9.266 There are no identified benefits to option 1. The preferred option is option 2 to introduce legislation to strengthen and modernise the definition of the electoral offence of Undue Influence.

Chapter 4 - Democracy and Boundary Commission Cymru

Governance and Audit Committee

Background

- 9.267 An audit committee provides important checks and balances to an organisation's governance arrangements. It reviews its financial affairs, risk management, internal controls and corporate governance arrangements.
- 9.268 As a result of the additional functions being conferred on the Commission, the Welsh Ministers consider it appropriate to strengthen the role of the Committee both in terms of its scope and the level of independent membership on the committee.
- 9.269 The Bill amends section 17 of the 2013 Act to require the Commission to establish a governance and audit committee and to confer additional review and assessment functions on the committee in relation to the Commission's internal and external audit arrangements, handling of complaints and review of financial statements and reports.
- 9.270 It will also enable the Commission to confer further suitable functions on the committee and specifies the maximum number of members of the committee, the minimum number of lay members of the committee and requires that both the committee chair and deputy to the chair, must be lay members of the committee.
- 9.271 In taking forward the above the Bill amends the current duty to establish an Audit Committee to a duty to establish a governance and audit committee which reflects the above changes.

Option 1 – Business as usual - Maintain the status quo, with no changes to current governance and audit arrangements of the Commission.

Costs and benefits

9.272 We have not identified any additional costs or benefits of this option.

Option 2 – Introduce legislation to strengthen the governance and audit arrangements of the Commission. - Introduce legislation to make the changes set out above.

Costs

Costs to the Commission

9.273 We anticipate annual costs, starting in 2024-25, for remuneration of the Chair and Deputy Chair of the audit committee (based on 3 reading days and 3 meeting days each) of £3,000, comprised as follows:

- Chair £1,600
- Deputy Chair £1,400

9.274 It is anticipated that the Governance Committee will continue with the arrangements of meeting 3 times a year.

Benefits

9.275 This option would ensure the audit and governance arrangements of the Commission are strengthened to take account of its new functions, conferred by this Bill and the Senedd Cymru (Members and Elections) Bill. This includes an expanded scope and enhanced independence, with a requirement for the chair and deputy chair to be lay members.

Preferred Option

9.276 Given the benefits set out above, option 2 is the preferred option.

Power to charge

Background

9.277 To further support the discharge of the Commission's new and revised functions, the Bill inserts a new section into the 2013 Act giving a power to the Commission to charge recipients for goods or services, if they agree to receive those goods or services. This would be in relation to its newly added electoral administration functions (exercisable by the Electoral Management Board) or its functions in relation to Part 3 of the 2013 Act (arrangements for local government). For example, the Boundary Commission may procure optional training sessions to the electoral community, for which it could impose a charge on attendees to recover the cost of providing the training.

Option 1 – Business as usual. This option would maintain the status quo.

Costs

9.278 We have not identified any monetised costs for this option, however there could be negative impacts on the ability of the Commission to undertake its new functions.

Benefits

9.279 We have not identified any benefits of this option.

Option 2 – Introduce legislation to give a power to the Commission to charge for goods or services.

Costs

9.280 We have not identified any costs associated with this option.

Benefits

9.281 This option would enable greater flexibility and scope in the way the Commission could carry its new functions for electoral administration added by this Bill (exercisable by the Electoral Management Board). This would also apply to the way it carries its functions in relation to arrangements for local government. An example would be the Commission procuring optional training sessions for the electoral community, for which it could impose a charge on attendees to recover the cost of providing the training.

Preferred option

9.282 For the reasons set out above, Option 2 - Introduce legislation to give a power to the Commission to charge for goods or services – is the preferred option.

General costs of implementation

Welsh Government staff - estimated costs for implementation

9.283 The Bill team consisting of 4.2 FTE Welsh Government staff at varying grades (as per the table below), will continue implementation work ahead of the 2026 Senedd election and the 2027 local government elections in Wales. The cost of 4.2 FTE staff will be approximately £239,400 per annum. Costs have therefore been included for two years post anticipated Royal Assent. Any costs incurred associated with the implementation of the Bill provided by Welsh Government legal services are considered operational costs, and therefore have not been included. The costs presented below will be met from within existing resources and therefore represent opportunity costs rather than an additional financial outlay to the Welsh Government. These costs relate to general administrative costs associated with implementation of the Bill, e.g. project management and stakeholder engagement.

10. Affordability Assessment

Approach

- 10.1 While an RIA assesses social value and therefore includes cultural, social and environmental impacts alongside economic costs and benefits, an affordability assessment is a purely financial assessment. As such, only cash costs and cash-releasing benefits are included. Any environmental, social, cultural and wider economic costs and benefits identified in an RIA would be removed from an affordability assessment.
- 10.2 The affordability assessment considers the same time period as the RIA, 2024-25 to 2033-34.
- 10.3 The RIA identified a number of opportunity costs associated with the time spent by existing members of staff on activities related to the implementation of the Bill and in relation to the development of regulations. Since these opportunity costs do not represent an additional financial outlay to the organisations concerned, they have been removed from this affordability assessment.
- 10.4 The cash costs and cash-releasing benefits in this assessment have been adjusted to reflect anticipated inflation during the appraisal period. This adjustment has been made on the basis of the GDP deflator projections included in the Office for Budget Responsibility's (OBR) Economic and Fiscal Outlook⁹ which was published in March 2023. The OBR's projections only extended to 2027-28 and so the average of the OBR's projections have been used for the remainder of the appraisal period. Although inflation is now falling, there remains a degree of uncertainty around its future path. Welsh Government will continue to monitor the impact of inflation on the financial costs of the Bill.
- 10.5 Unless otherwise stated, all costs have been rounded to the nearest £100. Some of the totals in tables may not sum due to this rounding.

Bodies

Local Authorities

- 10.6 There is currently a degree of uncertainty around the costs to the Local Authorities in relation to provisions around Electoral registration without application.
- 10.7 However, the current estimates on the implications of the Bill for Local Authorities will include two areas of additional costs to local government, however it is noted that this may change following the piloting period.

⁹ Economic and fiscal outlook - March 2023 \(obr.uk\)

The point at which these costs will be incurred is uncertain since it will depend on the outcome of the pilot exercises, however, for the purposes of the RIA, it is assumed the costs will be incurred from 2026-27 onwards. There will be initial recurrent costs of £1,995,900 in 2026-27 and 2027-28, following which there will be an estimated recurrent cost of £1,830,600 per year until 2033-34. It is anticipated that the Welsh Government will provide additional funding to local authorities to cover the costs of these new burdens.

Welsh Government

10.8 All Welsh Government direct costs are opportunity costs and so have not been included within the assessment of affordability. There are some cost savings for the Welsh Government set out in the table below for running costs for the Wales Electoral Co-ordination Board and for the Independent Remuneration Panel for Wales. However, these savings will be transferred to the Local Democracy and Boundary Commission for Wales, which will take on responsibility for these functions.

10.9 Although costs have been attributed according to where they are first incurred in the RIA, there is an expectation that the costs will ultimately be funded by the Welsh Government. An example of this is the cost of establishing an Electoral Management Board which have been attributed to the Local Democracy and Boundary Commission for Wales in the RIA and this assessment.

Table 10.2 – Costs to Welsh Government 2024-2034

10.10 It is our assessment that, given the anticipated benefits of improved democratic engagement, these costs are affordable.

Electoral Commission

10.11 The costs to the Electoral Commission relating to the production of guidance and reporting have not been quantified in the RIA or this assessment. This is because they relate to where the Commission has already developed or is developing guidance to cover the changes to reserved elections following the Elections Act 2022. As a result, any costs will be opportunity costs and met within existing budgets. The overall budget of the Electoral Commission for devolved activity in Wales in 2023-24 is £1,414,000.

Local Democracy and Boundary Commission Wales

10.12 The cost of the Bill to the Local Democracy and Boundary Commission Wales are below. As noted above, although these costs have been attributed to the Commission, the expectation is that they would ultimately be funded by the Welsh Government. The annual running costs associated with the Electoral Management Board and the transfer of IRPW functions will partially be met from the transfer of the Welsh Government cost-savings identified above. The majority of the remaining costs are expected to be met from within existing resources with resulting re-prioritisation elsewhere.

10.13 As set out in the table below, the annual costs on the Commission range from £240,600 to £1,516,300 (in 2025-26). These costs represent a small proportion of the Welsh Government's annual budget (£24,138,851,000 ¹⁰) which is drawn from the Welsh Consolidated Fund and are therefore considered to be affordable.

Overall Summary

10.14 The total costs of the Bill are included in the table below. Based on the information outlined above, it is our assessment that the Bill will be affordable over the appraisal period.

11. Impact Assessments

11.1 A full Integrated Impact Assessment (IIA) has been undertaken which considers the impact of the Bill's provisions on particular groups of people. Chapters 1 and 8 of the IIA were published in draft alongside the White Paper on Electoral Administration and Reform in October 2022 in which we consulted on a series of major proposals to reform and modernise elections and electoral administration in Wales. The consultation ran for 12 weeks and was also published in easy read, youth-friendly and British Sign Language versions. A summary report of that consultation was published, and the Counsel General and Minister for the Constitution confirmed his intention to legislate on electoral reform in an Oral Statement to the Senedd in May 2023.

11.2 Respondents to the consultation expressed broad support for our ambitions set out in the White Paper. We have also taken account of comments raised during the Bill's preparation and will continue to engage with stakeholders as we prepare for the implementation of our proposals.

11.3 The draft IIA has been updated following the consultation. Chapters 1 and 8 of the updated IIA are published on the Welsh Government's website and the full IIA and specific impact assessments are available on request from Etholiadau.elections@gov.wales

11.4 The Bill will deliver the Programme for Government commitment to reform local government elections to reduce the democratic deficit. It supports the Future Generations goal of a more equal Wales, will help make democracy and voting more accessible to all members of society and encourage active participation in democratic life in Wales. Our reforms will help people become more active, engaged citizens and in doing so can contribute to better socio-economic outcomes.

11.5 We have completed the following full specific impact assessments:

- Children's rights
- Equality
- Welsh language
- Economic / RIA
- Justice

11.6 We have also identified likely privacy and rural impacts which will be considered as we further develop policies. If necessary, the relevant impact assessments will be developed alongside the secondary legislation which flows from the Bill.

12. Competition Assessment

The competition filter test
Question	Answer yes or no
Q1: In the market(s) affected by the new regulation, does any firm have more than 10% market share?	No
Q2: In the market(s) affected by the new regulation, does any firm have more than 20% market share?	No
Q3: In the market(s) affected by the new regulation, do the largest three firms together have at least 50% market share?	No
Q4: Would the costs of the regulation affect some firms substantially more than others?	No
Q5: Is the regulation likely to affect the market structure, changing the number or size of firms?	No
Q6: Would the regulation lead to higher set-up costs for new or potential suppliers that existing suppliers do not have to meet?	Yes
Q7: Would the regulation lead to higher ongoing costs for new or potential suppliers that existing suppliers do not have to meet?	No
Q8: Is the sector characterised by rapid technological change?	No
Q9: Would the regulation restrict the ability of suppliers to choose the price, quality, range or location of their products?	No

12.1 A competition assessment has been undertaken and concluded that this Bill will have no significant impacts on market competition.

12.2 Additional information to Q6: There are some potential suppliers who have existing experience in this field and offer similar but different solutions elsewhere in their business offer. These companies would likely be able to develop a product quicker, and therefore presumably at lower cost, than a supplier who didn't have similar expertise.

13. Post implementation review

- 13.1. The Elections and Elected Bodies (Wales) Bill provides the legislative framework to modernise electoral practice and administration for Welsh elections and deliver the Programme for Government commitment to reform local government elections to reduce the democratic deficit.
- 13.2. Our electoral reform package drives our long-term ambition to increase voter participation and ensure that every citizen is able to play their full part in our democracy. Our policies build on achievements delivered in the fifth Senedd where the franchise was extended to 16 and 17-year-olds and qualifying foreign citizens in Wales, and the work to deliver a set of electoral innovations at the local elections in May 2022 testing ways of improving participation in the electoral process.
- 13.3. The Bill will implement reforms in time for the next set of planned Welsh elections in 2026 and 2027. There were other reforms in the White Paper that will be implemented at those elections using secondary legislation (including the new Senedd Conduct Order) or administrative vehicles.
- 13.4. The Electoral Commission will continue to carry out statutory reviews 6 months after elections and we will consider the evidence from those reviews in developing our approach post-implementation.
- 13.5. For registration without application, there will be a period of developing and evaluating pilots to determine the most appropriate mechanism for implementing the provisions.
- 13.6. Our election pilot proposals have a requirement to evaluate built into the legislation and those evaluations will assist us when implementing provisions from this Bill and assessing their success prior to subsequent elections.
- 13.7. For the Local Democracy & Boundary Commission for Wales, there is an existing requirement to produce an annual report which must be laid before the Senedd. This would include new functions of the Commission conferred by this Bill, i.e. the Electoral Management Board and the Independent Remuneration Panel for Wales.
- 13.8. For the elections information platform, there is a requirement that the body delivering that platform (anticipated to be the Electoral Management Board) must publish a report within 12 months of the poll, which is laid before the Senedd.
- 13.9. We will also aim to align with evaluation of the Senedd Cymru (Members and Elections) Bill where possible. That Bill provides that the Llywydd must table a motion as soon as practicable, and in any event within six months of the first meeting of the Senedd following the May 2026 election, which (if approved by the Senedd) would establish a Committee to undertake a review of the operation and effect of parts of this Bill.

- 13.10 That review must cover Parts 1 and 2 of the Bill, being the provisions in respect of the Senedd and its Members, the number of Welsh Ministers, and the voting system in Senedd general elections. In addition, the motion must propose that the review also covers the extent to which the elements of a healthy democracy are present in Wales, allowing significant discretion to the Committee to determine the scope of the review. The Bill provides that the Committee must report within 12 months of the first meeting of the Senedd following the 2026 election.
- 13.11 There is an opportunity for the elements of those Committee reviews looking at a “healthy democracy” to also consider the outcomes of the Elections and Elected Bodies Bill.
- 13.12 The Welsh Government will also consider the findings of work currently being undertaken by the Wales Centre for Public Policy - Defining, measuring, and monitoring democratic health in Wales. This will help to inform the way we evaluate the success of this Bill over the longer term.
- 13.13. We will work with stakeholders to prepare for implementation of the 2026/2027 reforms ensuring any legislative, administrative, and digital requirements are in place at least six months prior to those elections in accordance with the Gould Convention, meaning electoral law should be settled at least six months before the election that it would impact. We will seek stakeholder views and participation in planning when and how to review success.
- 13.14. For all provisions in the Bill, the Welsh Government will ensure continuous assessments of how the legislation has taken effect and influenced the policy intent. Additional powers, their costs and benefits against the baseline set out in the RIA will be monitored and Welsh Government officials will inform Ministers of progress following implementation.

ELECTIONS AND ELECTED BODIES (WALES) BILL

EXPLANATORY NOTES

INTRODUCTION

1. These Explanatory Notes are for the Elections and Elected Bodies (Wales) Bill “(the Bill)” as introduced to Senedd Cymru on 2 October 2023. They have been prepared by the Elections Division of the Welsh Government to assist the reader of the Bill. The Explanatory Notes should be read in conjunction with the Bill but are not part of it. They are not meant to be a comprehensive description of the Bill, and where an individual section of the Bill does not require explanation or comment, none is given.

GENERAL OVERVIEW OF THE BILL

2. The Bill is divided into 3 Parts containing 71 sections and a Schedule of minor and consequential amendments to other legislation.

Part 1 - Electoral Administration and Registration

3. Part 1 contains provisions about electoral administration and electoral registration in respect of Senedd Cymru elections and local government elections in Wales and is divided into 5 chapters.
4. Chapter 1 is about the co-ordination of electoral administration for Senedd Cymru elections, local government elections in Wales and devolved referendums. The Chapter confers new functions on the Democracy and Boundary Commission Cymru (hereafter referred to as “the Boundary Commission”) and requires the Boundary Commission to establish an Electoral Management Board to discharge the functions.
5. Chapter 2 places a duty on electoral registration officers in Wales to register persons as local government electors without applications being made for registration if they are satisfied that the persons are entitled to be registered. Registration as a local government elector entitles a person to vote in Senedd Cymru elections as well as local government elections. The Chapter also provides for procedure by which electoral registration officers give people notice of their intention to register them as local government electors and it makes provision for the circumstances in which the duty to register does not apply.

6. Chapter 3 provides the Welsh Ministers with power by regulation to authorise piloting of reforms to the law relating to Senedd Cymru elections and local elections in Wales. The Chapter makes provision for public authorities with functions relating to electoral administration to make proposals to the Welsh Ministers for electoral pilots, provision for evaluation of proposals for pilots and for the evaluation of the pilots and gives the Welsh Ministers power by regulations to make permanent changes to the law following pilots.
7. Chapter 4 contains provision about accessibility and diversity matters relating to Senedd Cymru elections and local government elections in Wales. It includes provision—
 - conferring duties on the Electoral Commission to report on the administration of ordinary local government elections in Wales (the Commission is already required by section 5 of the Political Parties, Elections and Referendums Act 2000 (hereafter referred to as “PPERA”) to report on Senedd Cymru elections)) and to include in its reports on Senedd Cymru and local government elections in Wales a description of the steps taken by returning officers to provide assistance for disabled voters;
 - conferring power on the Welsh Ministers to give directions to local authorities (instead of a power to make regulations) specifying requirements regarding the survey of candidates at local government elections that local authorities are required to conduct by section 1 of the Local Government (Wales) Measure 2011;
 - requiring the Welsh Ministers by regulations to provide for the establishment and operation of a Welsh elections information platform, which is an electronic facility (such as a web-site or software application) to provide voters in Senedd Cymru and local government elections in Wales with up-to-date information relating to the elections;
 - requiring the Welsh Ministers to make arrangements for the provision of services to promote diversity among those seeking election as Members of the Senedd or as councillors in local government in Wales;
 - for financial assistance schemes to promote diversity in persons seeking elected office in Senedd Cymru or local government in Wales.
8. Chapter 5 makes provision about the regulation of expenses incurred in election campaigns in Senedd Cymru elections and local government elections in Wales, including provision —
 - about the treatment of notional campaign expenditure (use of property etc. provided free of charge or at a discount of the market value);
 - providing for a code of practice on election expenses;
 - authorising payment of expenses through persons other than election agents;

These notes refer to the Elections and Elected Bodies (Wales) Bill which was introduced into Senedd Cymru on 02 10 2023

- for restrictions on which third parties may incur controlled expenditure;
- for a code of practice on controlled election campaign expenditure.

Part 2 - Elected Bodies and their Members

9. Part 2 of the Bill makes provision about reviews of the boundaries and electoral arrangements of local authorities, the remuneration of members of local authorities, disqualification from membership of Senedd Cymru and local authorities and the offence of undue influence. The Part is divided into 4 chapters.
10. Chapter 1 amends Part 3 of the Democracy and Boundary Commission Cymru etc. Act 2013 (hereafter referred to as “the 2013 Act”), which makes provision about reviews of the boundaries and electoral arrangements of the councils of counties, county boroughs and communities in Wales. The chapter –
 - changes the considerations applicable to reviews relating to counties, county boroughs and communities and the applicable review periods;
 - makes clear that a review of seaward boundaries may include more than one local government area;
 - makes changes to the requirements relating to consultation and consideration of representations on reviews;
 - makes provision for the Welsh Ministers to be able to direct the pausing of electoral reviews and sets out requirements regarding the publication of review orders and other related information.
11. Chapter 2 abolishes the Independent Remuneration Panel for Wales and confers its functions on the Boundary Commission.
12. Chapter 3 contains provisions for disqualification for being a Member of the Senedd and a community councillor, and for the offence of undue influence.
13. Chapter 4 contains provisions for a governance and audit committee of the Boundary Commission and confers power on the Commission to charge for goods and services it provides.

Part 3 - General Provision

14. Part 3 contains provisions that apply to the Bill generally, including, general interpretation provision, power for the Welsh Ministers to make consequential and transitional provision by regulations and provision about the coming into force of the Bill.

COMMENTARY ON SECTIONS

Section 1 - Electoral Management Board of Democracy and Boundary Commission Cymru

15. This section of the Bill inserts Part 2A into the Democracy and Boundary Commission Cymru etc. Act 2013 (“the 2013 Act”) (as renamed by the Senedd Cymru (Members and Elections) Bill), which consists of new sections 20A to 20I. This Part describes the Boundary Commission’s general function of co-ordinating the administration of Senedd and local elections in Wales, along with any devolved referendums in Wales. The Part also sets out the arrangements to establish the Board.

Section 20A - Electoral administration functions

16. Section 20A describes the Boundary Commission’s general function of co-ordinating the administration of Welsh elections and referendums in further detail. Subsections (2) and (3) confirm the function includes -
- (i) assisting returning officers, local authorities and other persons to carry out their functions in relation to Welsh elections and referendums;
 - (ii) promote best practice in Welsh elections and referendums, for example by providing information, advice or training to those involved in the administration of the elections; and
 - (iii) provide information, advice or other assistance to the Welsh Ministers about the administration of Welsh elections and referendums.

Section 20B - Directions to returning officers

17. Section 20B provides the Boundary Commission with a power to issue written directions to returning officers with regards to carrying out their functions in relation to Welsh elections and referendums. An example of directions that could be issued could be to establish a consistent date across Wales for the issue of postal ballot papers.
18. Direction issued by the Boundary Commission under this section does not have to be followed if they are inconsistent with any legal duty imposed on the officer or relate to the officer’s function relating to a combined poll.

Section 20C - Directions to electoral registration officers

19. This section provides the Boundary Commission with a power to issue written directions to electoral registration officers with regards to carrying out their functions in relation to Welsh elections and referendums. As with directions issued to returning officers, a direction issued by the Boundary Commission under this section does not have to be followed if it is inconsistent with any legal duty imposed on the electoral registration officer.

Section 20D - Consultation with the Electoral Commission

20. The Electoral Commission must be consulted before any direction is given under sections 20B or 20C.

Section 20E - Electoral Management Board

21. Section 20E requires the Boundary Commission to establish the Electoral Management Board (“the EMB”), which will solely be responsible for carrying out the Boundary Commission’s electoral administration function.
22. When undertaking its work, the EMB may also use the power of the Boundary Commission in section 12 of the 2013 Act that allows it to do things that are ancillary to the exercise of its other functions (other than borrow money, acquire property without the consent of the Welsh Ministers or form companies).

Section 20F - Board membership

23. Section 20F sets out who will be a member of the EMB. In summary, the EMB must consist of –
- (i) a Chair, who must be a Commissioner appointed under section 4 of the 2013 Act and have previous experience as a returning officer or electoral registration officer. The Welsh Ministers will decide on their terms and conditions;
 - (ii) one other Commissioner appointed under section 4 of the 2013 Act, whose terms and conditions will also be decided by the Welsh Ministers;
 - (iii) at least four other members, who must be current or former elections officers (as defined by section 20F(9)).
24. Subsection (4) requires the EMB to choose one of these members who are current or former elections officers to be the deputy chair of the EMB. Subsection (8) sets out the offices that would disqualify a person from being appointed as a member of the EMB.

Section 20G - Tenure

25. Section 20G provides that the members of the Electoral Management Board hold and vacate office in accordance with the terms and conditions of their appointment, as determined under section 20F.

Section 20H – Board proceedings

26. Section 20H enables the EMB to decide on its own procedure, including the minimum number of members who must be present to make decisions. Subsection (1) confirms that all members votes are equal to the other members, but the Chair (or their deputy in the Chair's absence) will have the deciding vote in the event of a tie. Subsection (3) also establishes the validity of the EMB's proceedings or acts if there is a defect in the EMB's membership.
27. Subsection (4) enables the Chair or deputy Chair to invite other people to the EMB's meetings to provide advice or help with the work of the Board, provided all members agree. This may include, for example, representatives of the Electoral Commission, Association of Electoral Administrators, Electoral Service Managers, representatives of the UK and/or Welsh governments. This is to ensure the EMB has sufficient flexibility to seek out the necessary expertise and assistance in the delivery of its functions. Any such attendees would not be part of the formal membership and would not be responsible for issuing the formal directions.

Section 20I – Interpretation

28. Section 20I defines certain words and terms used in Part 2A of the 2013 Act, (as inserted by section 1(2)).

Section 2 – Minor and consequential amendments

29. This section introduces the minor and consequential amendments set out in Part 1 of Schedule 1 to the Bill which make changes to the 2013 Act relating to Chapter 1 of the Bill.
30. Paragraph 1(4) substitutes section 14(1) of the 2013 Act, which deals with directions given to the Boundary Commission by the Welsh Ministers, with new subsections (1A), (1B) and (1C).
31. Subsection (1A) allows the Welsh Ministers to issue directions to the Boundary Commission in relation to the Boundary Commission's functions, apart from in relation to its functions under Part 2A of the 2013 Act relating to the co-ordination of electoral administration, or its functions under Part 3A of the 2013 Act relating to Senedd constituency boundaries.
32. Subsection (1B) sets out that the Boundary Commission must comply with a direction given to it by the Welsh Ministers under the 2013 Act, and subsection (1C) requires the Welsh Ministers to publish each direction they give to the Boundary Commission or a principal council under the 2013 Act (a "principal council" is the council of a county or county borough in Wales).

CHAPTER 2: ELECTORAL REGISTRATION WITHOUT APPLICATIONS

Section 3 - Duty to register local government electors

33. Subsection (1) omits section 18 of the Local Government and Elections (Wales) Act 2021, which contains provision regarding registration of local government electors without application that has not been brought into force.
34. Subsection (2) inserts a new section (9ZA) into the Representation of the People Act 1983 (hereafter referred to as "the 1983 Act"). Section 9ZA will require each electoral registration officer in Wales to add eligible electors to the local government register in Wales where the electoral registration officer is satisfied that the person is entitled to be registered. A local government register in Wales is used for elections of councillors to counties, county boroughs and communities in Wales along with elections for membership of Senedd Cymru. Electoral registration officers will need to verify the person's identity and circumstances relating to eligibility in order to be satisfied; and electoral registration officers will need to notify persons they intend to register before they do so. There will be no need for the elector to make an application through the existing system if the electoral registration officer has the duty to register them.
35. Section 9ZA(3) requires electoral registration officers to notify persons they are satisfied are eligible for registration before they are registered. The notice must be in writing informing the person of –
 - i. the electoral registration officer's duty to register the person after the end of the notice period;
 - ii. the exceptions to the electoral registration officer's duty to register the person;
 - iii. the elector's right to request exclusion from the edited register of local government electors (if provision is made for an edited register in regulations under section 53 of the 1983 Act);
 - iv. the elector's right to apply for anonymous registration; and
 - v. the types of election the person will and will not be entitled to vote in as a result of being registered without an application (the person would be entitled to vote in Senedd Cymru elections and elections for councillors in counties, county boroughs and communities in Wales, but it would not entitle them to vote in an election for membership of the House of Commons in the UK Parliament – an application for registration would be needed for that).
36. The notice period is 45 days (subsection (4) of section 9ZA) and this provides time for a person who receives a notice to respond to it with any concerns or objections before the electoral registration officer's duty to register takes effect at the end of the period.

37. Subsection (5) of section 9ZA requires an electoral registration officer to register the person at the end of the 45-day notice period unless –
- i. the person has notified the electoral registration officer that they do not wish to be registered (paragraph (a));
 - ii. the electoral registration officer is no longer satisfied that the person is entitled to be registered (paragraph (b)); or
 - iii. the person wishes to make an application for anonymous registration or has made one (paragraph (c)).
38. Where the person objects to their registration without application, the electoral registration officer will be required to stop the automatic registration process and instead follow the process in section 9E of the 1983 Act, which requires an electoral registration officer to invite a person to apply for registration if, in relation to an unregistered person whose name and address the electoral registration officer knows, the electoral registration officer has reason to believe that the person is entitled to be registered. Section 9ZA(6) provides the Welsh Ministers with a power to make provision in regulations about the requirements of notices to a person who the electoral registration officer is considering registering under the section, including provision about the form of the notice and how and to whom it may be provided.
39. Subsections (8) and (9) require the regulations under subsection (6) to be made by statutory instrument and subject to the negative resolution procedure in the Senedd.

Section 4 - Provision connected to the duty to register eligible local government electors

40. Subsection (3) amends section 9E of 1983 Act to make provision about the relationship between the existing duties of electoral registration officers under section 9E with respect to invitations to apply for registration and the new duty to register without application under section 9ZA inserted by section 3. The effect of the amendment to section 9E is that the electoral registration officer's duty in section 9E(1) will not apply whilst the registration process under section 9ZA is on-going.
41. Subsection (4) amends section 13A of the 1983 Act, which requires electoral registration officers to issue notices about alterations to the register listed in subsection (1) of that section. The addition of a person to the register under the new section 9ZA is added to the list of alterations that trigger the duty to issue notices. Subsections (5) and (6) make related consequential amendments to sections 13AB and 13B of the 1983 Act.
42. Subsections (7) and (9) amend section 53 of, and Schedule 2 to, the 1983 Act. Section 53 of the 1983 Act confers a power on the Secretary of State to make regulations about electoral registration under that Act, and Schedule 2 to the 1983 Act specifies things that can be done in regulations under section 53. The powers of the Secretary of State under section 53 (and Schedule 2) were transferred to the Welsh Ministers by the Welsh Ministers (Transfer of Functions) Order 2018 (S.I. 2018/644), so far as the powers are exercisable within the legislative competence of Senedd Cymru.

These notes refer to the Elections and Elected Bodies (Wales) Bill which was introduced into Senedd Cymru on 02 10 2023

43. Subsection (9) amends Schedule 2 to the 1983 Act to specify further things that can be included in regulations under section 53 of that Act in connection with the new duty to register under section 9ZA.
44. Paragraph 1A of Schedule 2 provides for regulations to be made authorising or requiring a person to disclose information to another person for the purpose of assisting a registration officer in relation to matters specified in the paragraph. Paragraph (a) of subsection (9) amends paragraph 1A of Schedule 2, having the effect of adding assisting a registration officer to decide whether a person is eligible to be included in the register for the purpose of section 9ZA to the list of matters in respect of which regulations authorising or requiring disclosure of information can be made.
45. Paragraph (b) of subsection (9) makes clear that regulations under section 53 can make provision about the steps that a registration officer is authorised or required to take for the purpose of deciding whether a person is eligible to be included in the register for the purpose of section 9ZA.
46. Subsection (7) amends section 53 to provide that regulations made by the Welsh Ministers under paragraph 1A(1)(aa) of Schedule 2 (inserted by subsection (9)(a)) authorising or requiring a person to disclose information cannot confer functions on, or modify the functions of, reserved authorities if provision doing such a thing would require the consent or consultation of a Minister of the Crown if the provision were included in an Act of Senedd Cymru.
47. Subsection (8) amends section 56 of the 1983 Act to confer a right of appeal to the county court from decisions under section 9ZA.

CHAPTER 3: WELSH ELECTIONS PILOTING AND REFORM

Section 5 – Pilot regulations: powers

48. Section 5 enables the Welsh Ministers to make regulations (“pilot regulations”) for electoral pilots to take place in connection with the following matters, which are set out in subsection (3):
 - i. registration of electors for Welsh elections, which in practice means the registration of electors on the local government register. These

- pilots will not however, be able to impact a person's fundamental right to vote and cannot change the franchise;
- ii. when, where and how voting takes place which could include, but is not limited to, advanced voting arrangements, alternative polling stations, voting electronically etc.;
 - iii. how votes are counted, which could include electronic counting; and
 - iv. communication with voters about Welsh elections.
 - v. processes and procedures before, on or after polling in a Welsh election
49. A "Welsh election" is defined by subsection (8) as Senedd, principal councils or town and community council elections ("local government elections"). In addition, pilots will also be capable of being run at local government by-elections. These provisions do not apply to UK Parliamentary or Police and Crime Commissioner elections taking place in Wales.
50. Section 5(4) also allows pilots to be run in connection with the changes that section 3 makes to the 1983 Act in connection with registering as an elector without application. The Welsh Ministers do not need the consent of a principal council to run these pilots, nor do they have to submit a proposal to the Boundary Commission.
51. Pilot regulations may create, remove or modify criminal offences, but must not create or modify an offence that is, or becomes, punishable with a term of imprisonment which exceed one year (where the conviction is on indictment), or "the applicable limit", on summary conviction. The "applicable limit" on summary conviction means the maximum term of imprisonment that a magistrates' court can impose in respect of a summary offence (i.e. an offence that can only be tried in a magistrates' court) or an either way offence (i.e. an offence that can be tried on the magistrates court or the Crown Court). The applicable limit is defined by section 224(1A) of the Sentencing Code (provided for by the Sentencing Act 2020) and is currently as 6 months imprisonment for a summary offence and 6 months for an either way offence. The reference to the Code "as it has effect from time to time" allows for the possibility that either of these limits may change in future. The limits may be amended by the Secretary of State through regulations made under paragraph 14A of Schedule 23 to the Sentencing Code.

Section 6 – Pilot regulations: requirements

52. Section 6 sets out the requirements placed on Welsh Ministers when making pilot regulations. Subsection (1) requires pilot regulations to describe the objective of the pilot and specify the date by which the Electoral Commission must prepare its report on the operation of the pilot regulation (see section 18(1)).

53. Subsection (2) prohibits the Welsh Ministers from making pilot regulations which apply to a principal council unless that principal council has consented to the pilot, or the Welsh Ministers have had regard to any recommendations made by the Boundary Commission. However, this prohibition does not apply to any pilot regulations made in the 12 months following the Bill receiving Royal Assent where the regulations are for the purpose of testing the arrangements relating to electoral registration without application.

Section 7 – Pilot regulations: procedure

54. Generally, when pilot regulations are made, they will be subject to the negative resolution procedure in the Senedd. However, pilot regulations that trial the system provided for by section 3; which are made without the consent of the principal council that will implement the pilot; or which include provision which creates or widens the scope of a criminal offence, will be subject to the Senedd’s affirmative resolution procedure.

Section 8 – Power to change the power to make pilot regulations

55. Section 8 enables the Welsh Ministers, through regulations, to make changes to the list of the matters set out in section 5(3) in respect of which a pilot can be run. They can add any subject matter relating to the conduct of Welsh elections, except the voting system for either Senedd or local government elections, and amend or remove from the list matters already added through the regulations made under this section.

Section 9 – Proposals for pilots made by the Welsh Ministers

56. Section 9 sets out the procedure that must be followed by the Welsh Ministers when they propose a pilot scheme. Subsection (1) requires the Welsh Ministers to consult on their proposal for a pilot scheme with the returning officers for the areas in which the proposal would apply. They must then submit the proposal to the Boundary Commission for consideration. The Boundary Commission’s function of considering electoral pilot proposals, and all other functions in relation to electoral pilots, will be discharged by its EMB in accordance with section 20E of the 2013 Act (as inserted by section 1 of this Bill). Before making any pilot regulations the Welsh Ministers must have regard to the report on the proposal prepared by the EMB.

Section 10 – Proposals for pilots made by principal councils

57. Section 10 enables principal councils to propose a pilot scheme. Principal councils are limited to making pilot proposals in connection with activities to be trialled at ordinary local government elections and local government by-elections. Subsection (2) requires the council to first consult the Welsh Ministers on its proposal before submitting it to the EMB for consideration. Before requesting that the Welsh Ministers make pilot regulations on the basis of their proposal, the council must have regard to the report prepared by the EMB, and the report must be submitted to the Welsh Ministers along with the request that pilot regulations be made.

Section 11 – Proposals for pilots made jointly by the Electoral Commission and principal councils

58. Section 11 enables the Electoral Commission to make joint proposals with principal councils in respect of activities to be trialled at ordinary local government elections and local government by-elections. These proposals will be subject to the same procedural requirements as proposals made by principal councils.

Section 12 – Proposals for pilots made by electoral registration officers

59. In accordance with section 12, electoral registration officers are enabled to make proposals for pilots. This power is however, limited to the piloting of activities relating to the registration of electors. The process that the registration officers are required to follow is the same as that to be followed by principal councils.

Section 13 – Joint proposals for pilots

60. Section 13 enables a principal council, the Electoral Commission and an electoral registration officer to jointly propose a pilot to the Welsh Ministers. If the Electoral Commission is making the proposal it must do so jointly with one or more principal councils but may also make the proposal jointly with an electoral registration officer.

Section 14 – Electoral Commission recommendations

61. Section 14 enables the Electoral Commission to recommend proposals for a pilot to a principal council or an electoral registration officer.

Section 15 – Evaluation of pilot proposals

62. Section 15 sets out what the Boundary Commission is required to do when evaluating pilot proposals and in preparing their report. The Boundary Commission must look at the objectives of the pilot and its desirability, that is to say, whether the pilot could be of benefit to the voter or electoral administrators. It is also required to consider the likely costs and feasibility of the proposed pilot. The Welsh Ministers are able to make regulations under subsection (3) setting out any specific criteria that they believe is relevant in evaluating the pilot proposals, and the Boundary Commission must have regard to such factors when assessing the proposal and preparing its report. Anyone submitting a pilot proposal to the Boundary Commission must provide any additional information requested by the Boundary Commission that will allow the proposal to be fully considered and the report to be prepared accurately. The Boundary Commission is required to send a copy of the report they produce to whomever submitted the proposal no later than 6 weeks after the proposal was submitted.

Section 16 – Welsh election pilot forums

63. Section 16 sets out the support that will be provided by the Boundary Commission to the bodies participating in a pilot. In the first instance the Boundary Commission is required to set up a forum where issues relating to the practical delivery of the pilot can be discussed. This forum must include, but is not limited to, the returning officers for the participating principal councils as well as electoral administrators from those authorities and members of the Boundary Commission.

Section 17 – Guidance on pilots

64. Section 17 requires the Boundary Commission to publish guidance on the running of a pilot which must include advice on the arrangements needed for the pilot, the staff training required, as well as how to run the pilot in accordance with the pilot regulations.

Section 18 – Evaluation of pilot regulations

65. Section 18 sets out the arrangements for evaluating pilots after they have taken place. This evaluation will be undertaken by the Electoral Commission, who must evaluate the success of the pilot in meeting its objectives, and whether or not the changes made by pilot regulations should be adopted on a permanent basis. The principal council where the pilot took place must provide any assistance to the Electoral Commission while they are preparing their report, and the relevant returning officer must publish the report within one month of receiving it, unless the pilot was one falling solely within the remit of section 12, in which case the duty to publish the Boundary Commission's report lies with the electoral registration officer.

Section 19 – Electoral reform regulations

66. Section 19 enables the Welsh Ministers to introduce permanent changes, similar to those trialled in a pilot scheme, by way of electoral reform regulations. Subsection (1)(b) provides that such regulations can only be made on the recommendation of the Electoral Commission. Electoral reform regulations can apply the piloted change to any, or all, Welsh elections.
67. Electoral reform regulations may create, remove or modify criminal offences, but must not create or modify an offence that is, or becomes, punishable with a term of imprisonment which exceed one year (where the conviction is on indictment), or "the applicable limit", on summary conviction. The "applicable limit" on summary conviction means the maximum term of imprisonment that a magistrates' court can impose in respect of a summary offence (i.e. an offence that can only be tried in a magistrates' court) or an either way offence (i.e. an offence that can be tried on the magistrates court or the Crown Court). The applicable limit is defined by section 224(1A) of the Sentencing Code (provided for by the Sentencing Act 2020) and is currently 6 months imprisonment for a summary offence and 6 months for an either way offence. The reference to the Code "as it has effect from time to time" allows for the possibility that either of these limits may change in future. The limits may be amended by the Secretary of State through regulations made under paragraph 14A of Schedule 23 to the Sentencing Code.

Section 20 – Electoral reform regulations: procedure

68. Section 20 sets out the Senedd procedure that must be followed when making electoral reform regulations. It provides for additional and enhanced scrutiny steps to be undertaken which includes, the requirement of a Senedd Committee to consider the regulations and their implications. The Senedd will also have a longer period in which to consider the regulations and their implications, and when the regulations are laid, the Welsh Ministers are required to also lay a copy of the Electoral Commission’s evaluation of the related pilot regulations.

Section 21 – Publication

69. Chapter 3 of Part 1 contains a number of provisions which require the publication of documents (see, for example, section 15(7)). Section 21 requires those documents to be published electronically, in addition to any other manner that the person under the duty to publish considers appropriate.

Section 22 – Regulations: ancillary provision

70. Section 22 provides that pilot regulations and electoral reform regulations made under Chapter 3 of Part 1 of the Bill may include ancillary provision, including consequential, supplementary, incidental, transitional, or saving provision. The regulations may modify enactments (whenever made) and may make different provision for different purposes or different areas.

Section 23 – Interpretation of this Chapter

71. Section 23 defines certain words and terms used in Chapter 3 of Part 1 of the Bill.

Section 24 – Consequential amendments

72. This section introduces Part 2 of Schedule 1, which makes minor and consequential amendments that are consequential to sections 5 to 23 of the Bill.

CHAPTER 4: ACCESSIBILITY AND DIVERSITY: WELSH ELECTIONS

Section 25 – Reports by the Electoral Commission

73. Section 25 inserts section 5A into PPERA. The Electoral Commission has a duty under section 5 of the 2000 Act to prepare a report on the administration of each Senedd election. Section 5A(1) of PPERA as inserted by section 25 creates a duty for the Electoral Commission to prepare and publish a report on ordinary elections for counties, county boroughs and communities in Wales.

These notes refer to the Elections and Elected Bodies (Wales) Bill which was introduced into Senedd Cymru on 02 10 2023

74. Subsections (2) and (3) of the section 5A place a duty on the Electoral Commission to include in its reports following Senedd and local government elections a description of the steps returning officers have taken to assist disabled people to vote at those elections.
75. Subsection (4) of the section 5A defines “disability” for the purposes of subsection (3) in relation to doing a thing, as including a short-term inability to do it. This is the same as the definition of disability in section 202 of the 1983 Act (under which Act the rules for the conduct of local government elections are made) and the definition of “disability” in article 2(1) of the National Assembly for Wales (Representation of the People) Order 2007 (S.I. 2007/236) (which contain the rules for the conduct of Senedd Cymru elections).
76. Subsection (4) of section 5A also defines “returning officer” for the purpose of the duty in subsection (3) to report on steps taken by returning officers. In the case of reports on Senedd elections it is defined by reference to orders made under section 13 of the Government of Wales Act 2006 (hereafter referred to as “GOWA 2006”), which govern the conduct of Senedd Elections. In the case of reports on local government elections returning officers are defined as a person appointed under section 35(1A) of the 1983 Act.
77. Under the new arrangements for electing members to Senedd Cymru established by the Senedd Cymru (Members and Elections) Act 2024 there will be no by-elections when there are vacancies in the membership of Senedd Cymru. Section 25(3) makes transitional provision so that prior to the coming into force of the Senedd Cymru (Members and Elections) Act 2024, a report under section 5A(3) will also be required for a Senedd constituency by-election.

Section 26 – Survey of councillors and unsuccessful candidates in local elections

78. Section 26 amends section 1 of the Local Government (Wales) Measure 2011 by removing the requirement for the form of the survey and the questions to be set out in regulations. Instead, it enables the Welsh Ministers to set these out in a direction to local authorities. Subsection (4) inserts subsection 3A into the 2011 Measure which requires the Welsh Ministers to publish any direction given under section 1 of the 2011 Measure.
79. In addition to the core questions in the survey, which apply to each local authority in Wales, it allows local authorities to include questions aimed at identifying the impact of any local initiatives established to improve the diversity of candidate standing in the election for which the survey is being undertaken.

Section 27 – Welsh elections information platform

80. The provisions in section 27 are to do with making information about Welsh elections available to support voters to take part in Welsh elections. Subsection (1) requires the Welsh Ministers by regulations to set up and maintain a Welsh elections information platform that provides up-to-date information about Senedd Cymru elections and elections of county and county borough councils in Wales. It also enables (but does not require) the Welsh Ministers to make regulations about information that should be available on the platform in relation to community council and mayoral elections in Wales.
81. The regulations made by the Welsh Ministers under this section must also require the Welsh Ministers to publish and lay before the Senedd a report about how they have set up and maintained the platform. A report must be published no more than 12 months after an ordinary Senedd election and principal council election.

Section 28 – Services to promote diversity in persons seeking elected office

82. Subsection (1) places a duty on Welsh Ministers to put in place arrangements for the provision of services to promote diversity in the protected characteristics and socio-economic circumstances of persons seeking to stand for election as members of Senedd Cymru and the councils of counties, county boroughs and communities in Wales.
83. “Protected characteristics” are defined for this purpose in subsection (11) as the protected characteristics in section 4 of the Equality Act 2010, which are –
- i. age;
 - ii. disability;
 - iii. gender reassignment;
 - iv. marriage and civil partnership;
 - v. pregnancy and maternity;
 - vi. race;
 - vii. religion or belief;
 - viii. sex; and
 - ix. sexual orientation.
84. Subsection (2) sets out the matters the Welsh Ministers must have regard to when discharging this duty. The Welsh Ministers must consider whether there are groups of persons with the same protected characteristics that are under-represented in the membership of Senedd Cymru or the councils of counties, county boroughs and communities. Under-representation is to be considered by reference to the population served by the body being considered (subsection (3)).

85. The Welsh Ministers must also have regard to—
- i. the desirability of reducing inequalities of outcome that result from socio-economic disadvantage, and
 - ii. the desirability of services being available to persons regardless of their membership or non-membership of a registered political party.
86. Subsection (4) provides that the Welsh Ministers are not required to provide services in respect of every under-represented group of persons with the same protected characteristics.
87. Subsection (5) sets out an exhaustive list of the services which may be provided under the arrangements required by this section. The services are information, advice, training, coaching and mentoring, work experience, equipment and assistance with tasks. Subsection (8) provides a power for the Welsh Ministers to make regulations to add to the list of services and amend or remove any services that are added by the regulations.
88. Subsection (6) requires the Welsh Ministers to ensure that in any arrangement put in place under this duty the Welsh Ministers are prohibited from making decisions in particular cases as to whether an individual is to receive a service under the arrangements.

Section 29 – Financial assistance schemes to promote diversity in persons seeking elected office

89. Subsection (1) enables the Welsh Ministers to provide by regulations for schemes of financial assistance to help candidates standing for election for membership of Senedd Cymru or the council of a county, county borough or community in Wales who have specified circumstances or specified characteristics overcome any barriers to their participation in the election connected to those characteristics or circumstances. “Specified” means specified in the regulations (see subsection (13)).
90. Subsection (2) requires the Welsh Ministers make regulations to put in place a scheme of financial assistance to help disabled candidates in such elections overcome any barrier to their participation in the election connected to their disability.
91. Subsection (7) requires that the financial assistance schemes provided for by regulations under this section must not be directly operated by excluded persons. The excluded persons are set out in section 30, and the list of excluded persons includes the Welsh Ministers (as members of the Welsh Government), Ministers of the Crown, local authorities and others.

Section 30 – Excluded persons

92. This section lists the persons who may not be appointed to operate a scheme of financial assistance provided for by regulations under section 29.

CHAPTER 5: CAMPAIGN FINANCE

Section 32 – Notional expenditure: candidates in local government elections

93. Section 32 amends section 90C(1A) the 1983 Act to clarify that expenditure on behalf of a candidate in a Welsh local election should only be considered incurred by the candidate where it has been directed, encouraged or authorised by them.

Section 33 – Notional and third party expenditure: Senedd Cymru elections

94. Section 33 amends sections 73(1A), 86(1A), and 94(8A) of, and paragraph 3(11) of Schedule 8A to PPERA so that the amended provisions in relation to notional spending by political parties and third parties also now apply to campaign periods for Senedd Cymru elections.

Section 34 – Codes of practice on expenses

95. Section 34(1) amends paragraph 14A of Schedule 4A to the 1983 Act which enables the Electoral Commission to prepare a code of practice giving guidance on election expenses for candidates in local government elections in Wales. The amendment clarifies that the guidance can cover the application of the rules in relation to expenses incurred, ensuring that the codes of practice are sufficiently broad so as to include an explanation of the rules on all forms of expenditure.
96. This section also amends section 156(3)(aa) of PPERA so that no Senedd procedure applies to an order made by the Welsh Ministers bringing into force a code of practice prepared by the Electoral Commission in relation to election expenses at elections of the Senedd under Schedule 8 to PPERA. The section also makes further, more general amendments to section 156 to clarify the procedures that apply to statutory instruments made by the Welsh Ministers under the provisions of PPERA.

Section 35 – Authorised persons not required to pay through election agent

97. Section 35 amends section 73(5)(ca) of the 1983 Act, which was inserted by the Elections Act 2022, to enable payments to be made on behalf of a candidate or campaign during a local government election campaign in Wales, by an authorised person other than an election agent. This is intended to provide clarity to third parties who have been authorised by a candidate or agent to promote them, under section 75 of the 1983 Act. The amendment ensures that third parties are able to both incur and pay for authorised expenses under section 75, rather than the expenses having to be paid through the agent of the candidate they are promoting.

Section 36 – Restriction on which third parties may incur controlled expenditure

98. Section 36 introduces a further restriction on third parties that may incur controlled expenditure (including notional controlled expenditure) in connection with a Senedd election campaign. It does this by inserting a new section 89B into PPERA, providing that only those third parties that would fall within the categories of third party listed in section 88(2) of the 2000 Act are able to incur controlled expenditure expenses above a de minimis threshold of £700 during a Welsh devolved regulated period. Inserted section 89B also includes an either way offence of authorising expenses in breach of the section, which is punishable by fine.

Section 37 – Third parties capable of giving notifications

99. Section 37 inserts section 88(11) and (12) into PPERA, to allow the Welsh Ministers to amend the list of third parties who can incur controlled expenditure during a Welsh devolved regulated period. Third parties can be added to or removed from the list, or the list can be varied, but removals or variations can only be effected on the recommendation of the Electoral Commission. The effect of section 37(3) is that any orders made by the Welsh Ministers under section 88(11) of PPERA will be the subject of the Senedd's affirmative resolution procedure.

Section 38 – Code of practice on controls relating to third parties

100. To support third parties' understanding of these new restrictions, section 38 inserts subsection (1A) into section 100A of PPERA, which was inserted into PPERA by the 2022 Act. This requires the Electoral Commission to prepare a code of practice on controlled expenditure by third parties during a Welsh devolved regulated period. Section 38(4) inserts section 100C into PPERA which sets out the process the Electoral Commission must follow when preparing the code of practice, which includes them consulting with the Llywydd's Committee and the Legislation, Justice and Constitution Committee (or successor committee) of Senedd Cymru, and any other persons the Electoral Commission considers appropriate. Section 100C also sets out the process to be followed before adopting any code proposed by the Commission. The effect of section 38(5) is that no Senedd procedure applies to an order made under section 100C(8).

Section 39 – Consequential amendments

101. Section 39 introduces Part 3 of Schedule 1, which contains a number of minor and consequential amendments to PPERA. The substantive amendments made to the PPERA by the Act refer to Senedd Cymru elections, and the effect of these further amendments is to ensure there is consistency throughout PPERA when it is referring to those elections.

PART 2 ELECTED BODIES AND THEIR MEMBERS

CHAPTER 1: ARRANGEMENTS FOR LOCAL GOVERNMENT

Section 40 - Considerations for a review of principal area electoral arrangements

102. Section 40 substitutes section 30(1) of the 2013 Act and sets out revised considerations for a review of principal area electoral arrangements. The matters which must be considered include the desirability of having a ratio of local government electors to the number of members that is the same or as similar as possible in every electoral ward of the principal area, the geographical size, shape and accessibility of an electoral ward and maintaining local ties.

Section 41 - Review period for principal area reviews

103. Section 41 amends section 29 of the 2013 Act by changing the length of a cycle of reviews from 10 to 12 years and resetting the start date for the next cycle as 30 September 2023. The amendment also enables the Welsh Ministers to amend both the length of the cycle and the re-set date by regulations.

Section 42 - Review of seaward boundaries

104. Section 42 amends section 28 of the 2013 Act to clarify that the Boundary Commission is able to review the undersea boundaries of more than one local authority area when it is conducting a review under section 28.

Section 43 - Electoral review recommendations and decisions: duty to have regard to representations

105. Section 43 amends section 37 of the 2013 Act to clarify that the Welsh Ministers cannot implement any recommendation or decide to take no action until a minimum of six weeks have elapsed beginning with the day on which the Welsh Ministers receive the recommendations. Also, when the Welsh Ministers are considering a final report of an electoral arrangements review, they must also have regard to any representations made to them during the six week 'representation' period.
106. This section also makes similar amendments to sections 38 and 39 of the 2013 Act in relation to the functions exercised by the Boundary Commission in respect of reports on community boundary changes and functions exercised by county or county borough councils in respect of community electoral arrangements.

Section 44 - Names of electoral wards

These notes refer to the Elections and Elected Bodies (Wales) Bill which was introduced into Senedd Cymru on 02 10 2023

107. Section 44 amends section 34(2) of the 2013 Act to require the Boundary Commission to consider the process of naming of electoral wards as part of its pre-review consultation procedure.
108. It also inserts section 36A into the 2013 Act which requires the Boundary Commission and county or county borough councils (as the case may be) to, in the case of electoral wards that have different names for the purposes of identifying the wards in communication through Welsh and English, specify the Welsh and English language names or proposed names of electoral wards in both the Welsh and English language versions of their draft and further review reports.

Section 45 - Consultation on reviews

109. Section 45 amends section 34 of the 2013 Act to require the Boundary Commission, or as the case may be, a county or county borough council before conducting a review, to bring the matter to the attention of members of the public affected by the review.
110. It makes similar amendments to section 35 to require the Boundary Commission, or as the case may be, a county or county borough council to take such steps as considered appropriate to consult relevant members of the public when conducting a review. The Boundary Commission or county or county borough council must publicise the fact that representations may be made during the public consultation period and indicate when the consultation period begins and ends. Any representations made must be taken into account.
111. This section also amends section 36 of the 2013 Act to clarify that the period during which representations can be made on a report is a 'public consultation period'.

Section 46 - Meaning of "mandatory consultees" in Part 3 of the 2013 Act

112. Section 46 amends section 34(3) of the 2013 Act by adding National Park authorities, Port Health authorities and the Welsh Language Commissioner to the list of bodies that must be consulted in relation to the review procedure.

Section 47 - Electoral review recommendations and decisions: period before a local election

113. Section 47 amends section 29(8) of the 2013 Act to extend the period during which the Boundary Commission must not make or publish any recommendations relating to the electoral arrangements of a county or county borough council from 9 to 12 months.
114. It also amends section 37 of the 2013 Act to prohibit the Welsh Ministers from exercising their functions under section 37(1) in the six months preceding an ordinary local government election (this is the election to all seats in all councils held once every five years).

Section 48 - Deadline for completion of reviews

115. Section 48 amends the 2013 Act by inserting a new section 36B. This requires the Boundary Commission or county or county borough councils (as the case may be) to publish a statement specifying the day on which the review begins and requires the Boundary Commission or county or county borough council to use its best endeavours to publish its further reports within the deadlines as specified. Failure to meet the timetable does not invalidate the review. The timetable for reviews of principal area boundaries, preserved counties and electoral arrangements for a principal area should be no more than 12 months in length, the timetable for reviews of seaward boundaries should be no more than 18 months in length and community boundary reviews and electoral arrangements for communities should be no more than 24 months.

Section 49 - Deadline for the completion of implementation

116. Section 49 amends section 37 of the 2013 Act by requiring the Welsh Ministers to use their best endeavours to make a decision on each recommendation they receive within three months of receipt of the recommendations. The Welsh Ministers must also publish a statement setting out their decision in respect of each recommendation. The date of the publication of the statement is to be treated as the date of the decision. Failure to comply with this duty does not invalidate any order or decision.
117. Sections 38 and 39 are amended to place a similar duty on the Boundary Commission in relation to its decision making on the recommendations it receives from county or county borough councils in respect of community boundary changes and on county or county borough councils in respect of community electoral arrangements.

Section 50 - Directions to pause reviews

118. Section 50 amends section 48 of the 2013 Act to enable the Welsh Ministers to issue a direction to pause a review being conducted under Part 3 of the 2013 Act. The Welsh Ministers must not use this power to pause a review for a period greater than 9 months in total. When a review is paused, the pause is not to be taken into account for the purpose of calculating the length of periods under section 36B(2) to (5).

Section 51 - Community reviews and implementation

119. Section 51 amends section 22 of the 2013 Act to require county or county borough councils to publish an annual report by no later than 1 July each year on the performance of its functions under Part 3 of the 2013 Act and section 76 of the Local Government Act 1972 in respect of keeping its community arrangements under review. This report should explain the performance of its functions so far as the functions relate to community names, community boundary changes, community council changes and community electoral arrangements during the year. A copy of the report must be sent to the Boundary Commission and the Welsh Ministers.

120. This section also amends section 31 of the 2013 Act to clarify the duty of a county or county borough council to conduct a review of the electoral arrangements for each community once in every review period (12 years). The Welsh Ministers may make regulations to amend the length of the review period.
121. This section also amends section 33(3) of the 2013 Act to require that county or county borough councils take account of special geographical considerations, in particular, the size, shape and accessibility of a community ward when conducting a review of community electoral arrangements.

Section 52 - Notice of resolutions of status of communities as towns

122. Section 52 amends section 245B of the Local Government Act 1972 to require a community council to give electronic notice of any resolution it passes to become a town to the Welsh Ministers, the relevant county or county borough council and the Boundary Commission.

Section 53 - Publication of orders under Part 3 of the 2013 Act

123. Section 53 amends the 2013 Act by inserting section 49ZA. This requires county or county borough councils and the Boundary Commission to publish on their websites copies of all the orders they make under Part 3 of the 2013 Act and also those that are made by other bodies able to make orders under the same Part. In the case of the latter, county or county borough councils are required only to publish those orders that are relevant to their area.
124. The section also requires whichever devolved body has made an order under Part 3 of the 2013 Act to send a copy to, or notify the other devolved bodies that are able to make orders under Part 3.
125. This requirement applies only to orders made after the coming into force of section 49ZA.

Section 54 - Publication of up-to-date lists of communities and community councils

126. Section 54 amends the 2013 Act by inserting section 49ZB. This requires each county or county borough council to publish and maintain on its website an up-to-date list of all the communities and community councils in its area with their current names. It also requires the Boundary Commission to do the same for all of the communities and community councils in Wales. In respect of communities and community councils for the purpose of communication through Welsh and English, the list should show both the Welsh and English language names regardless of whether the list is accessed via the Welsh or English language.

These notes refer to the Elections and Elected Bodies (Wales) Bill which was introduced into Senedd Cymru on 02 10 2023

Section 55 - Transitional provision

127. Section 55 enables any review conducted under Part 3 of the 2013 Act being conducted when Chapter 1 comes into force to be completed under the arrangements that applied when the review was commenced. It also ensures that Part 3 of the 2013 Act and all orders and regulations made under that Part prior to Chapter 1 coming into force continue in effect for the purposes of such reviews.

CHAPTER 2: REMUNERATION OF ELECTED MEMBERS

Section 56 - Abolition of the Independent Remuneration Panel for Wales

128. Section 56 abolishes the Independent Remuneration Panel for Wales and removes provisions relating to its functions and membership from the Local Government (Wales) Measure 2011

Section 57 - Democracy and Boundary Commission Cymru functions relating to remuneration

129. Section 57 inserts Part 5A into the 2013 Act which sets out the functions of the Boundary Commission in respect of payments and pensions to members of relevant authorities in Wales (as defined in new section 69C(2) of the 2013 Act) and payments to former members of local authorities in Wales. Part 5A includes the following provisions:

Section 69A - Function relating to payments to members

130. Section 69A sets out the functions of the Boundary Commission in respect of payment to members of a relevant authority. For the financial year beginning 1 April 2025 and for each following financial year, the Boundary Commission must decide the relevant matters for which a relevant authority is required or is authorised to make payments to members of the authority.
131. “Relevant matters” are defined in subsection (2) as matters that relate to the official business of members (as defined in section 69A(11)) or periods of family absence that members are entitled to have under Part 2 of the Local Government (Wales) Measure 2011.
132. Subsection (3) requires the Boundary Commission to set the amount that must be paid to a member or the maximum that can be paid to a member. The Boundary Commission can decide that payments cannot be paid to more than a fixed proportion or specified number of members of a relevant authority.

These notes refer to the Elections and Elected Bodies (Wales) Bill which was introduced into Senedd Cymru on 02 10 2023

The proportion or number (as the case may be) cannot exceed 50% unless the Welsh Ministers give their consent.

133. The Boundary Commission can set the maximum percentage or other rate by which a relevant authority can adjust for a financial year the amounts that had effect in respect of relevant matters for the previous financial year. An index can also be set.
134. The Boundary Commission must, when setting an amount, making a determination or setting a rate or index, take into account the likely financial impact of its decisions on relevant authorities.

Section 69B - Functions relating to members' pensions

135. Section 69B requires the Boundary Commission to decide the descriptions of members of a relevant authority in respect of whom a relevant authority is required to pay a pension. This excludes co-opted members of relevant authorities who are eligible to be members of the Local Government Pension Scheme. The Boundary Commission must also decide the relevant matters in respect of which a relevant authority is required to pay a pension.

Section 69C - Relevant authorities, members etc.

136. Section 69C defines certain terms used in Part 5A of the 2013 Act, including "members of a relevant authority" and also includes a power to specify a relevant authority in regulations under subsection (2)(e).

Section 69D - Functions relating to resettlement payments

137. Section 69D requires the Boundary Commission to make certain decisions about resettlement payments. A resettlement payment is a payment to a person who ceases to be a member at the end of their term of office, when in office was a member of a local authority (as defined in section 72 of the 2013 Act) of a description specified in regulations made by the Welsh Ministers, has stood for re-election for membership of the same authority and has not been returned to office at that election.
138. The Boundary Commission must decide matters such as the amount of resettlement payment to be paid, the qualifying conditions for payment and the maximum amount to be paid. The Boundary Commission must consider the likely financial impact on local authorities and must review decisions in advance of each local government ordinary election beginning with the election that is to be held in May 2027.

Section 69E - Annual remuneration reports in relation to members of relevant authorities

139. Section 69E requires the Boundary Commission to prepare and publish an annual remuneration report about the exercise of its functions under Part 5A no later than 28 February in the financial year before the financial year to which the report relates or such later date as the Boundary Commission and the Welsh Ministers agree. The report must set out certain information as specified.

These notes refer to the Elections and Elected Bodies (Wales) Bill which was introduced into Senedd Cymru on 02 10 2023

Section 69F- Supplementary remuneration reports

140. Section 69F enables the Boundary Commission to prepare and publish one or more supplementary remuneration reports to its most recent annual remuneration report. The supplementary report may vary provisions made in that annual remuneration report or make any provision the annual remuneration report could have made.

Section 69G - Further provision about annual reports and supplementary reports

141. Section 69G requires the Boundary Commission, before publishing an annual or supplementary remuneration report, to send a draft of the report to certain bodies and persons and publish the draft report as soon as practicable after sending it. When preparing an annual or supplemental remuneration report, the Boundary Commission must take into account the last annual remuneration report and any supplementary remuneration report and representations received about these reports and the draft reports.

Section 69H - Directions to reconsider draft reports

142. Section 69H enables the Welsh Ministers to direct the Boundary Commission to reconsider a provision of a draft annual or draft supplemental remuneration report. It sets out the information that must be specified in a direction, including the reason for giving the direction and a specified date for response. The Boundary Commission is not obliged to vary the draft report but must respond and include its rationale if it decides not to vary the draft report.

Section 69I- Commission's publication and notification duties in relation to reports

143. Section 69I sets out duties in respect of publishing the annual and supplementary remuneration reports, including the requirement that the Boundary Commission allows a minimum period of eight weeks for consultation on a draft report before publishing a supplementary remuneration report and the requirement that the Boundary Commission publishes reports on its website and in any other way the Boundary Commission considers appropriate.

Section 69J - Administrative requirements for relevant authorities in reports

144. Section 69J enables annual remuneration reports to require relevant authorities to put in place administrative systems to avoid the duplication of payments in respect of relevant matters and requests for payment in respect of the same relevant matters. These reports can also include the Boundary

These notes refer to the Elections and Elected Bodies (Wales) Bill which was introduced into Senedd Cymru on 02 10 2023

Commission's requirements for keeping records of payments made under Part 5A.

Section 69K - Publicising requirements for relevant authorities in reports

Section 69K enables the Boundary Commission to set out in its annual remuneration report information which relevant authorities are required to publish.

Section 69L - Monitoring compliance with Commission's requirements

145. Section 69L requires relevant authorities to comply with any requirement set out in an annual or supplementary remuneration report and enables the Boundary Commission to monitor the implementation and management of the payments made by relevant authorities. The Boundary Commission can require relevant authorities to provide it with information about matters including matters in connection with payments made in respect of relevant matters, relevant pensions, and resettlement payments. Relevant authorities must comply with such a request.

Section 69M - Directions to enforce compliance with Commission's requirements

146. Section 69M enables the Welsh Ministers, if they are satisfied that an authority has failed to comply with a requirement in an annual or supplementary remuneration report, to give a direction requiring the authority to comply with that requirement. The section sets out the matters that must be specified in the direction..

Section 69N - Members wishing to forgo payments

147. Section 69N enables a person to waive their entitlement to payments, either in full or in part as that person determines. Since authorities are required to make certain payments to members, section 69N(2) enables authorities not to pay allowances in circumstances where a member has elected to forgo payment by notice in writing.

Section 69O - Withholding payments

148. Section 69O requires a relevant authority to withhold payments to a person who has been:
- a) suspended from being a member (or partially suspended) by virtue of Part 3 of the Local Government Act 2000 or
 - b) prevented from acting as a member of a local authority in Wales under section 80A(6) of the Local Government Act 1972.
149. The section also enables the Welsh Ministers to issue directions to relevant authorities (following consultation with the Boundary Commission) to withhold payments in respect of the relevant matters specified in the direction or to not make a resettlement payment.

These notes refer to the Elections and Elected Bodies (Wales) Bill which was introduced into Senedd Cymru on 02 10 2023

150. This section also enables relevant authorities to require a person to make repayments in certain circumstances and enables local authorities to recover payments in certain circumstances.

Section 69P - Guidance

151. Section 69P enables the Boundary Commission to issue guidance to relevant authorities about how to comply with requirements under Part 5A. It also enables the Welsh Ministers to issue guidance to the Boundary Commission about its functions under that Part. Relevant authorities or the Boundary Commission, as the case may be, are required to have regard to any guidance issued under this section.

Section 69Q - Directions under this Part

152. Section 69Q enables the Welsh Ministers to apply for a court order to enforce directions made under sections 69M and 69O and sets out that the power to issue directions under this Part does not limit the general power of the Welsh Ministers to direct the Boundary Commission under section 14 of the 2013 Act.

Section 69R - Power to modify provision

153. Section 69R enables the Welsh Ministers to modify Part 5A of the 2013 Act by regulations.

Section 58 - Transfer of property, rights and liabilities

154. This section provides that all property held by the Independent Remuneration Panel for Wales immediately before its abolition, and all rights and liabilities of the Independent Remuneration Panel for Wales that exist immediately before its abolition, transfer to the Boundary Commission.

Section 59 - Minor and consequential provision

155. This section introduces Part 4 of Schedule 1, which makes minor and consequential amendments that are consequential to sections 56 to 58 of the Act.

Section 60 - Savings

156. Section 60 saves the effect of the provisions repealed by section 56 for the purposes of the financial year beginning 1 April 2025 other than the references to the Independent Remuneration Panel for Wales, which should be interpreted as references to the Boundary Commission.

CHAPTER 1: DISQUALIFICATION AND UNDUE INFLUENCE

Section 61 - Disqualification from being a Member of the Senedd and a community councillor

157. Section 61 amends section 16(1) of GOWA 2006, which specifies the persons who are disqualified from becoming or continuing to be a member of the Senedd (but not from being a candidate to be a Member of the Senedd). It also repeals sections 17B, , 17E and 17F of GOWA 2006 which provide for certain limited exceptions from disqualification from Membership of the Senedd by virtue of being a member of other elected bodies, and amends section 17D of GOWA 2006.
158. Section 16(1)(za) of GOWA 2006 provides that a person is disqualified from being a Member of the Senedd if the person is a member of the House of Commons. Section 17B of GOWA 2006 provides an exception from disqualification for a Member of the Senedd returned as a member of the House of Commons within 372 days of the expected day of the next general election of Members of the Senedd. Section 61(3) removes section 17B so that the exception no longer applies.
159. Section 16(1)(zc) of GOWA 2006 provides that a person is disqualified from being a Member of the Senedd if the person is a member of the council of a county or county borough in Wales. Section 61(2)(b) extends this disqualification provision to a person who is a member of a community council in Wales, to bring the arrangements for community councillors (including town councillors) in Wales into line with the disqualification regime for principal councillors in Wales.
160. Section 17D of GOWA 2006 provides for an exception from disqualification for newly elected members for a certain period. A person returned as a Member at an election of the Senedd is not disqualified from being a Member of the Senedd by virtue of being a member of the council of a county or county borough in Wales until that person purports to take the oath of allegiance (or corresponding affirmation) under GOWA 2006. Also, a Member of the Senedd who is returned as a member of a council of a county or county borough in Wales is not disqualified from being a Member of the Senedd until that person makes a declaration of acceptance under the Local Government Act 1972. Section 61(4) amends section 17D so that they also apply where the person is, or is returned as, a member of a community council in Wales.
161. Section 17E of GOWA 2006 provides for a time limited exception from disqualification if a member of the council of a county or county borough in Wales is returned as a Member of the Senedd; and the expected day of the next ordinary election of members of the council is within 372 days of the return day. Section 61(5) removes section 17E of GOWA 2006 so that the exception no longer applies. Section 17F of GOWA 2006 provides for a time limited exception from disqualification if a Member of the Senedd was returned as a member of a council of a county or county borough in Wales and the expected day of the next general election to the Senedd is within 372 days of the return day. Section 61(6) removes section 17F of GOWA 2006 so that the exception no longer applies. Section 61(7) provides that these changes will take effect for the purposes of an election for the Senedd at which the poll is held on or after 6 April 2026.

Section 62 – Disqualification for corrupt or illegal practice: local government elections

162. Section 62 amends the existing law on disqualification for candidacy to and membership of local government in Wales. The section inserts subsection (ba) into section 80A(1) of the Local Government Act 1972 to close a gap in the existing disqualification regime by adding a new category of disqualified persons: persons who are not permitted to stand as a candidate or be a member of a district council in Northern Ireland.

Section 63 – Disqualification for corrupt or illegal practice: Senedd elections

163. Section 63 amends the existing law on disqualification for candidacy to and membership of the Senedd. The section inserts paragraph (5A) into Schedule 1A to GOWA 2006 to close a gap in the existing disqualification regime by adding a new category of disqualified persons: persons who are not permitted to stand as a candidate or be a member of a district council in Northern Ireland.

Section 64 - Undue Influence

164. Section 114A of the 1983 Act sets out the list of activities that may constitute the corrupt practice of undue influence.
165. Section 64(2) amends section 114A of the 1983 Act so that the description of the corrupt practice of undue influence that currently applies at local elections in England and Parliamentary elections also applies to local government elections in Wales. Section 64(3) omits references to Wales from section 115 so that the description of the corrupt practice of undue influence set out in section 115 of the 1983 Act no longer applies to elections to local government elections in Wales.

CHAPTER 4: DEMOCRACY AND BOUNDARY COMMISSION CYMRU

Section 65 - Democracy and Boundary Commission Cymru: governance and audit committee

166. Section 65 amends section 17 of the 2013 Act so that it requires the Boundary Commission to establish a governance and audit committee. It also confers additional review and assessment functions on the committee in relation to the Boundary Commission's internal and external audit arrangements, handling of complaints and review of financial statements and reports. Provision is also made which enables the Boundary Commission to confer further suitable functions on the committee. Further, the section amends section 18 of the 2013 Act to specify the maximum number of members of the committee, the minimum number of lay members of the committee and to provide that both the committee chair and deputy to the chair, must be lay members of the committee.

These notes refer to the Elections and Elected Bodies (Wales) Bill which was introduced into Senedd Cymru on 02 10 2023

Section 66 – Democracy and Boundary Commission Cymru: power to charge

167. Section 66 amends the 2013 Act to insert section 11A, which provides the Boundary Commission with a power to charge recipients of goods or training provided by the Boundary Commission in relation to its electoral administration functions, or those relating to the functions of a principal council under Part 3 of the 2013 Act, where the recipient has agreed to receive the goods or training. For example, the Boundary Commission may provide optional training sessions to the electoral community, which it could impose a charge on attendees to recover the cost of providing the training.

PART 3 – GENERAL PROVISION

Section 67 – Regulations: restrictions

168. Some powers of the Welsh Ministers to make regulations under the Bill authorise provision conferring functions on persons and provision to remove or modify existing functions, subject to the breadth of the specific powers (for example, the power to make pilot regulations under section 5 and the power to provide for schemes of financial assistance under section 29). The legislative competence of Senedd Cymru is subject to restrictions in Schedule 7B to GOWA 2006, so that provisions in a Senedd Act conferring functions on public authorities that are not Welsh devolved authorities, or provisions removing or modifying the functions of such authorities, may require the consent or consultation of UK government ministers.
169. Section 67 provides that the regulations under the Bill may not include provision that would require the consent of the appropriate Minister under paragraph 8(1)(a) or (c), 10 or 11 of Schedule 7B to GOWA 2006 if the provision were included in an Act of Senedd Cymru; and may not include provision that would require consultation of the appropriate Minister under paragraph 11(2) of Schedule 7B to that Act if the provision were included in an Act of Senedd Cymru.

Section 68 – General interpretation

170. Section 68 defines certain words and terms used throughout Bill.

Section 69 – Power to make consequential and transitional provision etc.

171. Section 69 provides the Welsh Ministers with a power to make regulations containing supplementary, incidental, consequential, transitional or saving provisions to give full effect to any provision of the Bill. Those regulations must be made by statutory instrument and may amend, modify, repeal or revoke any enactment (which includes provision in Acts of Parliament, Acts or Measures of the Senedd and subordinate legislation).

These notes refer to the Elections and Elected Bodies (Wales) Bill which was introduced into Senedd Cymru on 02 10 2023

172. Regulations under this section that amend Acts of Parliament or Acts or Measures of Senedd Cymru would need to be approved by the Senedd. Other regulations made under this section are subject to a negative resolution procedure in the Senedd.

Section 70 – Coming into force

173. Section 70 sets out when or how the provisions of the Bill that will come into force.
174. The following provisions would come in to force the day after the Bill receives Royal Assent (see subsection (1)):
- the Welsh elections piloting and reform provisions (in Chapter 1 of Part 1),
 - the disqualification from being a Member of the Senedd of community councillors (section 61), and
 - Part 3 of the Bill.
175. Provisions about reviews of the boundaries and electoral arrangements for local government (Chapter 1 of Part 2), the survey of councillors and unsuccessful candidates in local government elections (section 26), and the provisions about disqualification for corrupt or illegal practice (sections 62 and 63) will come into force two months after the Bill receives Royal Assent (see subsection (2)).
176. The other provisions of the Bill may be brought in to force on days appointed by order of the Welsh Ministers (see subsection (3)). The orders bringing provisions into force may appoint different days for different purposes and make transitory, transitional or saving provision (see subsection (4)). Such orders must be made by statutory instrument, but no Senedd procedure applies to their making.

Section 71 – Short title

177. Section 71 provides that the short title of the Bill is the Elections and Elected Bodies (Wales) Act 2024.

These notes refer to the Elections and Elected Bodies (Wales) Bill which was introduced into Senedd Cymru on 02 10 2023

(9) In this Part, a reference to the electoral arrangements of a principal area is a reference to —

(a)the number of members of the council for the principal area, (b)the number, type and boundaries of the electoral wards into which the principal area is for the time being divided for the purpose of the election of members, (c)the number of members to be elected for any electoral ward in the principal area, and (d)the name of any electoral ward. (10)For the purposes of subsection (9)(b), a reference to the type of an electoral ward is a reference to whether the ward is a single or multiple member ward. (11)In this Part— <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • “electoral ward” means any area for which members are elected to a local authority, • “multiple member ward” means an electoral ward in respect of which a specified number (greater than one) of members are to be elected for that ward, and • “single member ward” means an electoral ward in respect of which only one member is to be elected.
30 Considerations for a review of principal area electoral arrangements (1)The Commission, in considering whether to make recommendations for changes to the electoral arrangements for a principal area, must— (a)seek to ensure that the ratio of local government electors to the number of members of the council to be elected is, as nearly as may be, the same in every electoral ward of the principal area, (b)have regard to— (i)the desirability of fixing boundaries for electoral wards which are and will remain easily identifiable, (ii)the desirability of not breaking local ties when fixing boundaries for electoral wards. (1) When considering whether to make recommendations for changes to the electoral arrangements of a principal area, the Commission must have regard to the following factors— (a) the desirability of having a ratio of local government electors to the number of members of the council to be elected that is the same, or nearly the same, in every electoral ward of the principal area; (b)special geographical considerations, including in particular the size, shape and accessibility of an electoral ward; (c)any local ties that would be broken by such changes.	Part 2, Chapter 1, section 40

(2)For the purposes of subsection (1)(a), account is to be taken of— (a)any discrepancy between the number of local government electors and the number of persons that are eligible to be local government electors (as indicated by relevant official statistics), and (b)any change to the number or distribution of local government electors in the principal area which is likely to take place in the period of five years immediately following the making of any recommendation. (3)In this section, “relevant official statistics” means such official statistics within the meaning of section 6 of the Statistics and Registration Service Act 2007 (c. 18) as the Commission considers appropriate. (4)In this Part, “local government elector” means a person registered as a local government elector in the register of electors in accordance with the provisions of the Representation of the People Acts.
31Review of electoral arrangements for community by principal council (A1) A principal council must conduct a review of the electoral arrangements for each community in its area at least once in every review period. (A2)In subsection (A1), “review period” means— (a) the period of 12 years beginning with the day on which section Error! Reference source not found. of the Elections and Elected Bodies (Wales) Act 2024 comes into force, and (b) each subsequent period of 12 years. (A3) The Welsh Ministers may by regulations amend subsection (A2). (1)A principal council may also conduct a review of the electoral arrangements for a community in its area— (a)of its own initiative, or (b)at the request of— (i)the community council for the community, or (ii)not less than 30 local government electors registered in the community. (2)But a principal council must not conduct a review under subsection (1) at the request of the community council or local government electors if it considers that doing so would impede the proper exercise of its functions. (3)The changes that a principal council may propose and make in relation to a review under this section are—	Part 2, Chapter 1, section 51

(a) such changes to the electoral arrangements for the community as the principal council considers appropriate, and (b) in consequence of any change to the electoral arrangements for the community, such changes to the electoral arrangements of the principal area as it considers appropriate. (4) For the purposes of subsection (3)(b), section 30 applies to a principal council as it applies to the Commission. (5) A principal council may enter into an agreement with the Commission for the Commission (under section 32) to exercise the council's function of conducting reviews under this section. (6) The agreement may be on such terms and conditions as the principal council and the Commission consider appropriate. (7) In this Part, a reference to the electoral arrangements of a community is a reference to— (a) the number of members of the council for the community; (b) its division into wards (if appropriate) for the purposes of the election of councillors; (c) the number and boundaries of any wards; (d) the number of members to be elected for any ward; (e) the name of any ward.
33 Considerations for a review of community electoral arrangements (1) This section applies where a principal council is considering making or, as the case may be, the Commission is considering recommending, changes to the electoral arrangements for a community. (2) In considering whether a community should be divided into community wards, regard is to be had to— (a) whether the number or distribution of the local government electors for the community is such as to make a single election of community councillors impractical or inconvenient, and (b) whether it is desirable that any area of the community should be separately represented on the community council. (3) Where it is decided to divide a community into community wards, in considering the size and boundaries of the wards and in fixing the number of community councillors to be elected for each ward, regard is to be had to— (a) any change in the number or distribution of local government electors of the community which is likely to take place within the period of five years immediately following any recommendation,	Part 2, Chapter 1, section 51

(b)the desirability of fixing boundaries which are and will remain easily identifiable, and (b)special geographical considerations, including in particular the size, shape and accessibility of a community ward, and (c)any local ties which will be broken by the fixing of any particular boundaries. (4)Where it is decided not to divide a community into community wards, in fixing the number of councillors to be elected for each community, regard is to be had to— (a)the number and distribution of local government electors in the community, and (b)any change in such number or distribution which is likely to take place within the period of five years immediately following the fixing of the number of community councillors. (5)For the purposes of this section, account is to be taken of any discrepancy between the number of local government electors and number of persons that are eligible to be local government electors (as indicated by relevant official statistics). (6)In this section, “relevant official statistics” means such official statistics (within the meaning of section 6 of the Statistics and Registration Service Act 2007 (c. 18)) as the Commission, or as the case may be, principal council considers appropriate.
34 Pre-review procedure (1)Before conducting a review under this Part, the Commission or, as the case may be, a principal council must take such steps as it considers appropriate to— (a)bring the review to the attention of members of the public affected by the review, the mandatory consultees and any other person it considers likely to be interested in the review, and (b)make the mandatory consultees and such other interested person aware of any directions given by the Welsh Ministers which are relevant to the review. (2)In relation to a review to be conducted under section 29, before conducting the review, the Commission must also consult the mandatory consultees on its intended procedure and methodology for the review and, in particular, on how it proposes to determine the appropriate number of members for any principal council in the principal area or areas under review. (3)For the purposes of this Part, the “mandatory consultees” are— (a)any local authority affected by the review,	Part 2, Chapter 1, section 45 , Part 2, Chapter 1, section 46

35 Consultation and investigation (1)In conducting a review under this Part, the Commission or, as the case may be, a principal council (“the reviewing body”) must— (za) consult members of the public in the area affected by the review, (a)consult the mandatory consultees and such other persons as it considers appropriate, and (b)conduct such investigations as it considers appropriate. (2)After carrying out the consultation and investigations under subsection (1), the reviewing body must prepare a report containing— (a)any proposals for change it considers appropriate or, if it does not consider any change appropriate, a proposal to that effect, (b)details of the review it conducted. (3)The reviewing body must— (a)publish the report electronically, (aa) publicise the fact that representations relating to the review may be made to the reviewing body during the public consultation period, (ab) indicate in the publicity when the public consultation period begins and ends,	Part 2, Chapter 1, section 45

Annex 6 - Justice Impact Assessment

Justice System Impact Identification

Overview

The Welsh Government's assessment of the impacts of this legislation on the justice system is that it has no or negligible potential impact (in this case complete the JSII form only up to and including question 4.5)

This is because:

Undue influence offence

The re-drafting of the undue influence offence introduced by the Elections and Elected Bodies (Wales) Bill (EEBB) in respect of local election in Wales replicates that included in the Elections Act 2022 (The 2022 Act) in respect of reserved elections.

The changes to the undue influence offence mirror exactly those brought forward by the UK Government through the 2022 Act. The supporting documentation for the 2022 Act estimated the redrafting would have a low impact on the justice system with between 81%-86% of allegations across the UK leading to no further action for reserved elections, with only one court case initiated in the last 8 years.

The impact for devolved elections, which are the focus of this JSII, is considerably lower with data collected by the Electoral Commission ("EC") recording no cases of undue influence pursued since 2013 for those elections that are now devolved to Welsh Government leading to the conclusion that replicating the language of the 2022 Act for devolved elections will have no or negligible impact on the justice system.

Incurring controlled expenditure in contravention of section 89B Political Parties, Elections and Referendums Act 2000 ("PPERA")

A new offence will be introduced through the EEBB as a part of new provisions which will regulate how third parties may incur controlled expenditure during a regulated period for standalone Senedd elections. These provisions and the offence will mirror those introduced to PPERA by the 2022 Act in respect of the regulated period for elections to the House of Commons or the Northern Ireland Assembly (new section 89A).

An offence will be committed when third parties who are not registered with the EC in accordance with section 88(2) of PPERA incur controlled expenditure over £700 during a regulated period of a standalone Senedd election (as defined by paragraph 6 of Schedule 10 to PPERA). The same penalties are to apply for any breach as apply for a breach of the equivalent provision in section 89A of PPERA, (on summary conviction in England and Wales: fine. on indictment: fine.). Existing offences concerned with incurring third-party expenditure when it is prohibited (e.g. spending more than the registration thresholds without being registered) can be resolved by either civil or criminal means. In practice, the EC would generally resolve such offences themselves.

Although this is a new offence, as a proxy for estimating the impact on the justice system, consideration has been given to third-party spending offences committed in recent years in Wales as well as evidence presented as part of the supporting documentation for the 2022 Act. The 2022 Act documentation concludes the impact of the third party changes on the justice system is expected to be low, as no relevant cases have had criminal proceedings. Overseas enforcement of rules against foreign spending is already required in respect of the existing third-party campaigner registration thresholds. As with undue influence there have been no prosecuted third party spending offences in Wales or allegations raised since 2013. For these reasons and that the impact of both provisions is expected to be no or negligible

The undue influence electoral offence is one of the classic electoral offences and is committed where an individual seeks to apply pressure to force an elector to not vote or vote in a way they would not have done if pressure had not been applied.

The offence already exists in legislation in the Representation of the People Act 1983 (section 115 for devolved elections and section 114 A for reserved elections) and at Article 81 of the National Assembly for Wales (Representation of the People) Order 2007. The offence exists as part of a suite of measures which seek to act as a deterrent to those who would do harm to democratic processes.

The current legislation describing the offence is outdated and lacks the clarity needed to prosecute incidents of undue influence. As a result, the current legislation does not provide adequate protection for electors. This was one of the conclusions of Commissioner Mawrey's 2015 judgment in Erlam & Ors vs.

The main beneficiaries of the updated legislation will be electors and police and prosecutors who are required to consider whether undue influence has been committed. The clarified language of the redrafted offence will provide disincentives to those who would seek to apply undue pressure to an elector. The intent is that the offence will be more straightforward to prosecute should cases be brought forward. However, we do not anticipate larger numbers of prosecutions as evidence collected by the Electoral Commission since 2013 suggest potentially no offences of undue influence have been prosecuted (see below for figures).

Of four possible accusations at local and Senedd elections in total since 2013 at Senedd and local elections in Wales no further action was taken in three cases and data is unavailable on one case i.e no cases prosecuted since 2013. As set out for the impact assessment for the UK Election Act 2022, there is no data to indicate how many additional prosecutions there will be as we do not know how many allegations / election petitions would have led to further action, had the law been clearer at the time. Any estimates of short, medium and long term impacts based on the current limited data would not be robust. This is in line with the assessment included in the UK Elections Act 2022.

Incurring controlled expenditure in contravention of section 89B of PPERA

Section 26 of the 2022 Act inserted a new section into 89A into PPERA that prevents a third party who is not able to register as a recognised third party under section 88 of PPERA, or which is not an unincorporated association with the requisite UK connection, from incurring controlled expenditure (including notional controlled expenditure) of over £700 during a regulated period of a UK Parliamentary election and an election to the Northern Ireland Assembly. The Bill will insert another new section into PPERA (section 89B) which will largely replicate this restriction in relation to regulated periods of standalone Senedd elections and will apply the same penalties for any breach. In relation to standalone Senedd elections, only third parties who are registered with the EC under section 88 PPERA will be able to incur controlled expenditure during the relevant regulated period.

Convictions for electoral fraud across the UK is low and is particularly low in Wales. Both offences in the main will work with the suite of electoral offences to act as a deterrent to those who would commit offences. Success will be determined by the Police and Returning Officers reporting increased confidence in applying the clarified legislation in operational situations. Prosecutors would report increased confidence in prosecuting offenders.

However, although increased confidence would be considered success, we do not anticipate these changes to result in many more cases being brought as there are very few electoral offences committed in devolved elections generally, and no cases of undue influence or third party spending offences pursued in Wales since 2013.

- 4.4. Please indicate when you will be undertaking a post-implementation review of this legislation and the enforcement actions arising from it?

The legislation will be implemented in time for the Senedd elections in May 2026 and the next ordinary local elections in 2027. The Electoral Commission work with the Single Point of Contact Officers from the four police authorities in Wales to record numbers of cases after each election. This information will be compared to previous years elections to determine any increase in cases.

- 4.5. Is this legislative proposal similar in any way to legislation being brought forward in England? If so, please name that legislation and identify below any ways in which the legislation brought forward in Wales will differ.

If the legislation has no substantive difference from that in England, there may be no need to complete all parts of the JSII form.

Undue influence

The 2022 Act inserts a new section 114A into the Representation of the People Act 1983 (via paragraph 1, schedules 5 and 8). The new section 114A includes clarified language for the undue influence offence for reserved elections. This is being replicated for devolved elections so that there is no divergence in the definition of the offence.

Incurring controlled expenditure in contravention of section 89A of PPERA

Section 26 of the 2022 Act inserted a new section into PPERA (section 89A) that prevents a third party who is not able to register as a recognised third party under section 88 of PPERA, or which is not an unincorporated association with the requisite UK connection, from incurring controlled expenditure (including notional controlled expenditure) of over £700 during a regulated period of a UK Parliamentary election or an election to the Northern Ireland Assembly. This is being largely replicated for the regulated periods of standalone Senedd elections.
